Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Baby birds were the most exciting things around our house this week. Thank goodness there were no orphaned ones, as I don't need that kind of stress right now. But my girls spotted a tiny baby hummingbird feeding at one of our touch-me-not orange flowers outside our living room window. My Meredith found a loaded bird nest in our old apple tree with a couple almost bald babies in it. She climbed up in the tree every day and got very excited when they finally got a full coat of feathers. One day they fell out of the nest and she carefully put them back in it and was relieved to see that their mother still took care of them after she touched them. Then she watched them learning how to fly. At first they could only fly a few feet at a time. She absolutely gushed about how cute they were. But today she was heartbroken because they became full-fledged fliers and they flew away with their mother when she left the nest. She really played mother with them and took dozens of pictures of them when they were tiny. She got an insight of how I am feeling these days as I watch my sweet babies learn to fly and start flying away. I am proud to see their progress, but also sad to face an empty nest.

The previous story was approved by the lead lady, Meredith, which is a new requirement by my daughters. They feel I should concentrate on the wider Bittinger's society and less on my own family. To me they are a perfect representation of all the rest of my generation of Bittinger families. I write about what is on my mind, and, of course, they always are front and center in my vision. In fact, today I can see past them because they have all been away for quite a bit of time recently. Caitlin at last got home from Northern High School's Band Camp at Camp Hickory. The new young band teacher at Northern, 22-year-old Kent Kenyon, started to fill the big shoe prints left by recently retired Bill Robinson, who led the marching band to being a force to be reckoned with. We have a big challenge to meet, as there is a shortage of trumpet players made especially bad as drum major Blakely Glotfelty was one of the most experienced players in that section.

The Brenneman reunion at the Bittinger fire hall on Sunday afternoon was a rousing success. Representing the Emma Brenneman Glotfelty family were Barry Glotfelty of Frederick, cousin Courtney Englar from the Cove, and Aunt Helen Englar of Westminster. Helen visited with about 10 first cousins and about a total of about 64 family members from eight states. Besides the many from Ohio and Maryland, there were also many attending from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Oregon. Dot Teets and daughter Judy and husband Mike Simpson from Bittinger were also in attendance.

Most of my immediate family members were busy with the unusual early opening day of the Garrett County Fair. Unfortunately, Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty are the only ones among the cousins who have market livestock entries this year. The rest were disappointed by the unexpected shortage of baby pigs this past spring. It seems not only the livestock around the farm are few, but Rodney also had a hard time finding help today to bale the long-past-due hay field, but luckily Barry was around and put to the task of helping.

Somehow the young ladies of our family are not much help in the haymaking task. There is no way that Carol or I would have been able to dodge that duty. Unfortunately, times have changed, but then we didn't have to have summer jobs off the farm either. I can't imagine how I could have fit one in between farm chores, 4-H projects, my equine pursuit, and my reading. Old habits are painfully hard to break and I feel the pain this week as it is fair week and I always had tons of things to enter, even when I was an adult. Even without my horses, ponies, and dairy cattle, I still had lots of beautiful vegetables and cut flowers from my then excellent gardens.

When I was a kid I had my (horrible) hand-hemmed tea towels, my 4-H clothing projects, many varieties of canned food, some art pieces, and other school projects that were enough when I was about 12 or so to win the Rotary Award for the Outstanding Youth at the Fair. I was little and gooney looking, and I guess that made Jim Simms doubt I was the real winner when they called me up.

Right now it feels more like Autumn Glory time than for fair week, especially at night and before sunrise. However, I have seen colder August weather, at least on occasional nights with a very heavy frost when the sky was clear and we had a full moon. Why frost comes with a full moon is a question. Maybe the August during the early 1980s was a blue moon (two full moons in one month). I don't know why I remember the two dates when we had such thick frosts and it looked like a snowy winter morning. The first one was August 7, when I chose to bolt outside barefoot to chase some escaped horses. It was quite a shock to see my feet turned to indigo blue with silver frosting on them, but not quite as bad as the shock on about August 23 of a different year. My first sight on that morning was of my big thick gorgeous green bean patch turned into black soggy mush. That was one hard frost!

Ruth DiPaolo has a buddy around this week, as her friend, Betty Sacra of Winchester, Va., is in town. They have been attending the fair, and they took a shopping trip to Pennsylvania on Tuesday.

The Bittinger picnic at the Bittinger fire hall is fast approaching and will be held on Saturday, Aug. 21, beginning at 11 a.m. There will be entertainment and a chicken and pork barbecue available, as usual. Friends are all welcome to attend. Take-out dinners are available. A variety of other good food will be served. So come, one and all.

I can't pass through Brenneman's Grove without getting flooded by happy memories of the picnic when I was just a kid, walking on the top rail of the old fence, with the whole gang of kids galloping around pretending that we were a herd of wild horses. I can still hear the ring of horseshoes hitting the stake at the horseshoe pit, and the smell of the caps that the boys set off by hitting them with rocks.

Alayna Wier was honored with a party for her 7th birthday on Sunday. She has spent the summer with her father and family in Osseo, Wis. Lea Pochet and Cindy Stanton picked her up in Wisconsin to bring her home to Garrett County as they drove in from California. Lea and Mike Pochet will now be stationed at Wright Patterson AFB in Dayton, Ohio.

Linda Buckel, Mary Simpson, and Ferne Beachy attended the Western Md-WV Synodical Convention of the Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America at Priest Field Pastoral Center, Kearneysville, W.Va., August 6-7. Pastor Keith and Pastor Patricia Pittsnogle were also in attendance. Pastor Pat served as keynote speaker on Friday. This was the 17th annual convention of the organization, with the theme of "Bread of Life: Feeding the Spirit." There were 93 people in attendance, including Bishop Ralph Duncan, who conducted the Holy Communion service Saturday morning. Mrs. Marjorie Wolfe, Wheeling, newly elected president of the organization in 2004, presided at the meetings. Linda Buckel served as delegate to the convention from the Garrett County area.

by Becky Aiken and Sherri Georg

"Flowery Vale," 970 acres that included most of Accident, was owned by Captain David Lynn and was sold to William Lamar for $3,000. William Lamar's sister Priscilla and her husband James moved their family and slaves to what is now Accident in 1800. They became the first permanent settlers.

Life was lonely and neighbors were few and far between. Records show that what is now Garrett County had 126 taxpayers at the time. Among the Drane family's closest neighbors were William Hoye and Jonathan Fratz from the Cove, Colonel John Lynn and the McMullens of Blooming Rose, and Meshach Browning of the Sang Run area.

The Dranes came to this area to grow tobacco. Tobacco farming was profitable. However, it exhausted the soil too rapidly and was not well suited to the harsh climate of Garrett County. The Dranes eventually abandoned their tobacco for crops that were more suited to the climate. They grew corn, wheat, and, of course, the family garden. Their slaves, John, Peter, Lucy, Nancy, Abraham, David, and Jeremiah, tended their crops.

The nearest mills for flour and lumber and a general store were located at Selbysport, near Friendsville. This made the family garden very important for the family's survival. They grew plants for food, medicine, cleaning, and even ones that were used for baby diapers.

The Flowery Vale Garden Society, under the leadership and vision of its director, Sherry Georg, have spearheaded a project to construct and maintain a museum garden at the Drane House. After two years of hard work, the garden will soon be ready for planting. The board fence and raised beds are almost completed. The center of the garden features a bed constructed from the stone foundation of the old tannery. (Clark Kolb graciously donated them to the project.) The society is planning to plant herbs and vegetables that would have been staples to the Drane family. Yes, they are also planning to grow tobacco.

Everyone is invited to stop and take a look at this remarkable project. The Drane House is open on the first and third Saturdays of the month through December. On these days the garden society members work in the garden and would be glad to answer any questions, and be more than happy to accept donations to help purchase plants and seeds.

If you would like more information on the Drane House and Museum Garden, or on how to become a "Friend" of the Drane House, contact Becky Aiken at 301-746-8427, Sherry Georg at 301-746-8766, or Ruth Ann Hahn at 301-746-6346.

Adorable Adoptables

"WHO ARE YOU? WHO, WHO, WHO, WHO?" "Who" is a friendly 1½-year-old male border collie mix looking for a new home, that's who. He was given up by his owner and is available for adoption from the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Also available is Maggie, a female black Lab mix who was also given up by her owner. Pictured below is Selina, a Lab/golden retriever mix. "She was basically taken from a home that was not adequately caring for her, and her puppies were running loose," said a Humane Society spokesperson. One of her puppies, Stevie, is a 6-month-old female. They both will need to be housetrained. There are also a few kittens and a friendly, young calico cat looking for homes. For more information, persons may call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553.

PASSING THE BATON — After conducting the Garrett Choral Society since its founding over 28 years ago, director Nancy K. Learey, right, has passed the baton to new director Julie Turrentine. The "ceremony" took place at a rehearsal Sunday evening, as the society is preparing for its August 17 performance of Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 with the Deep Creek Symphony. See story.

Julie Turrentine Named Choral Society Director

Julie Turrentine, Deep Creek Lake, has been named the new director of the Garrett Choral Society, replacing founder/director Nancy Learey, who announced her "retirement" from that position Sunday after over 28 years of service.

Under Learey's years of leadership, the choral society presented approximately 100 concerts and numerous full musicals, including The Music Man, Oliver, Fiddler on the Roof, South Pacific, Amahl and the Night Visitors, The Sound of Music, HMS Pinafore, Annie Get Your Gun, and The Wizard of Oz.

The society also provided music for funerals, memorial services, and various special events during her tenure.

Learey is a retired educator, having worked in the classroom as chorus director of Southern High School and later as a guidance counselor at Southern Middle School. She was also the director of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church choir for approximately 30 years.

She holds degrees in music/education from Western Maryland College and West Virginia University.

Turrer , who is a vocalist, pianist, and vocal coach, was the guest conductor/producer for the society's 2003 Christmas concert, and has been directing the organization for the past several months in its preparation for next Tuesday's premiere performance of Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 with the Deep Creek Symphony Orchestra.

From 1996 through 1999, she was the artistic director of the Maryland Choral Society, a 60-member community chorus. She produced the Texas Music Educators Association Choral Event in 1998, which featured multi-choruses of 300 voices in performance with the U.S. Air Force Concert Band.

During her Air Force career, Turrentine was manager/superintendent of the Singing Sergeants, a 24-member professional ensemble that is the official chorus of the USAF. She also served as assistant conductor, assistant accompanist, and soprano soloist.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) is geared up and ready for the arrival of 58 professional musicians, predominantly from the New York area. The Deep Creek Symphony Orchestra will arrive Sunday, Aug. 15, for one week of rehearsals and concerts on Tuesday, Aug. 17, Friday, Aug. 20, and Saturday, Aug. 21. Their stay is made possible by the donation of food and housing by nearly 100 community volunteers.

Although GLAF has presented a classical music series for the past 17 years, this will be the fourth annual year of Music on the Mountain under the direction of Maestro David Wroe. The series was originally under the direction of Grammy-Award winner, Eric Friedman, who passed away March 30, 2004. Music on the Mountain 2004 will be dedicated to the memory of Eric Friedman. See separate story.

Wroe is music director of the Westfield Symphony Orchestra, New Jersey, regular conductc. at Opera Delaware, and music director of Music on the Mountain: Garrett Lakes Arts Festival in Maryland. May this year marked Wroe's debut with New York City Opera, where he led a reading of John Eaton's new opera Jim Jones, and he returns to the company in the 2004-05 season.

The 2002-04 seasons marked his debuts and returns that included L'Orchestre de Normandie where he tours northern France, L'Orchestra Lamoureux at Paris's renowned Théâtre Châtelet with cellist Mstislav Rostropovitch, the Royal Scottish National Orchestra, L'Orchestre National de Lille, a tour of Western Austria with Vorarlberg Symphony and at the Bregenz Frühlings Festival, Delaware Symphony, Shenzhen Symphony (China), Symphony Nova Scotia, Harrisburg Symphony Orchestra, and Santa Fe Symphony.

He opened the newly formed Fresno International Grand Opera for its production of La Bohème, and in 2003 debuted with the Ash Lawn Opera Festival (Virginia) in its production of La Cenorentala. He served as judge for the Metropolitan Opera National Council New Jersey Regional Auditions in the spring of 2000 and again in 2002.

In 2004, he was the chairman of the jury of the New Jersey MTA State Concerto Competition, and in 2004 assumes the music director position at the Beijing Summer Music Festival and School.

Awards include the Seiji Ozawa Fellowship at Tanglewood, recognition in United States Congress for his excellence in contributing to the community in Kansas City, and finalist in the 1st Bernstein International Conducting Competition. He attended Lansing College, has a BMus from Manchester University (England), an MM from Northwestern (Chicago), and was a student of internationally renowned teacher Gustav Meier.

Under her leadership, the Singing Sergeants performed for presidents and vice presidents of the United States, and various other high-level government and military officials. She has performed as a featured soloist with the U.S. Air Force Concert Band for numerous state and world professional musical conferences. Her performance in West Side Story in a goodwill tour of China was instrumental in bringing about a reciprocal visit by the Chinese military band.

She performed Samuel Barber's Knoxville Summer of 1914 for the World Association of Symphonic and Band Educators, and has performed solos at conferences of the National Band Association, Association of School Band Directors, and the American Choral Directors Association. She was also the director of an a cappella vocal octet that performed at the White House and at various conferences.

Turrentine retired from the Air Force as a chief master sergeant, the highest attainable non-commissioned officer's rank.

Prior to her Air Force career, she was a choral director for the Fairfax County, Va., public school system, an adjunct instructor of music at Northern Virginia Community College, and chairman of the music department at DeKalb College/South Campus, Atlanta.

Valley Ridge To End 2004 Theatre Season Saturday

There is still time this summer to see a show at Valley Ridge Theatre in Thomas, W.Va. The theatre will conclude its eight-week season this weekend, with one more performance of recent productions. Curtain time for all shows is 8 p.m.

The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (abridged) will be presented tonight, Thursday, Aug. 12. This irreverent take on the works of Shakespeare features the high-energy performances of Alan McClintock, Jason Jackson, and Doug Seckman as they appear and reappear as different characters throughout the performance, attempting to touch upon all of Shakespeare's work in less than two hours.

Guys on Ice will have its final performance on Friday, Aug. 13. The musical comedy follows a day in the life of Marvin and Lloyd, two best buddies who spend the day in their ice-fishing shanty discussing their hopes and dreams (as well as football, fishing, beer, and women), while waiting to be interviewed by the host of a local cable TV show.

Finally, Valley Ridge will close its 2004 summer season with a performance of You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown this Saturday, Aug. 14.

"This simple little musical has been delighting audiences since its off-Broadway premiere in 1976," said a Valley Ridge spokesperson. "We can't think of a better way to end a summer and welcome a new school year than bringing the kids to see You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Md. Arts Council Offers Info For Grant Applicants

The Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC) has slated a statewide series of free informational sessions for Maryland non-profit organizations interested in the MSAC Grants for Organizations program. The western Maryland session is set for Tuesday, Sept. 14, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the Humanities Building of Allegany College in Cumberland.

The session will provide advice on organizing information for grant applications, presenting the information in a clear and concise way, building grant writing skills and using MSAC's eGrant system for application submission via the Internet. Printed materials, including tips for writing more effective grants, will be distributed.

The MSAC Grants for Organizations program is designed for arts organizations that produce and present the arts through public programs and services. The grants are also available to non-arts organizations whose primary purpose is other than producing or presenting arts activities, but that have ongoing arts programs or plan an arts event. The deadline for submitting grant applications for fiscal year 2006 Grants for Organizations program is Thursday, Oct. 7, 2004.

"MSAC encourages both new applicants and current grantees to attend the information sessions in an effort to improve their applications and minimize the need for revisions," a spokesperson said.

The MSAC is an agency of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development.

For additional information, persons may contact the Md. State Arts Council at 410-767-6555, or visit the MSAC web site at www.msac.org.

Wisp Rally Cut Short At Plate In Final Hot Stove Series Battle

The Hot Stove Baseball League campaign came down to the final out, as a clutch throw cut down a Wisp baserunner at the plate, giving Corbin's Electric a 5-4 win and the league championship Friday. The clutch season-ending toss by Corbin shortstop Steve Funkhouser ended a Wisp rally that had already resulted in one run during the decisive stanza.

Corbin's had gotten out to a quick start on the Holler Field diamond by scoring once in the top of the first inning on a Wisp error. However, Wisp got off to an even quicker start by answering with two runs of its own in the bottom half of the stanza when Corey Carr's two-run blast put Wisp up 2-1.

The score remained there until the fourth stanza, when back-to-back triples by Corbin's J.R. Shuck and Orie Panaccione, respectively, sent home two runs, then Panaccione scored on a Wisp throwing error. The miscue gave Corbin's its second run of the game attributable to a Wisp defensive error.

Corbin's scored yet another run off a Wisp error in the top of the fifth to go up 5-2.

Wisp scored once in the bottom of the sixth to cut the gap to 5-3, then, with its back to the wall, the Garrett County squad almost came back all the way in the bottom of the seventh and final stanza.

After scoring a run in the seventh to pull within one, the Wisp had the potential tying run on second, and the potential winning on first, with two outs showing. Dom DiRienzo then reached base on an infield error, a good turn for the Wisp, but the good turn took a 180 when Corbin's Funkhouser chased the ball down in short left field and fired it to the plate as the Wisp runner was attempting to score. The guided missile cut down the Wisp runner, and any hopes of a tied ballgame, and gave Corbin's the championship trophy.

HR — Carr (Wisp)

Note: Corbin's Electric wins series, 2-1.

The loss was especially tough for the Wisp pitching staff, as starter Matt Sisler and reliever Carr had held Corbin's to just four hits overall. Sisler worked the first four innings, and Carr, who was on the mound when Corbin's scored its fifth and final run, was saddled with the loss. The hurlers' teammates committed an uncharacteristic three errors in the field behind them, especially damaging in that three runs resulted from the booted balls.

Corbin's Funkhouser, who worked the first five stanzas to claim the win, and reliever Issac Corbin held the Wisp to seven hits.

Corbin's finished the summer season with a 20-3 overall mark and a 5-2 playoff tally. The Wisp's marks were identical on both counts, an indication of how evenly matched the two squads were.

Oakland Junior Golf Program Comes To Close

The Oakland Golf Club capped its 2004 Junior Golf Program recently with its annual Parent-Child Tournament and Junior Golf Banquet. The summer-long program, which met each Wednesday morning, has grown from 2001's initial cadre of 40 participants ages 7-15 to 83 this summer. This year's Parent-Child Tourney drew 47 teams.

"The success of the program has really surpassed my expectations," Oakland Golf Club PGA professional Patrick Warren commented. "We really could not make this happen without the help of the parents, grandparents and relatives that show up each week to volunteer their time. It really is a community effort."

The primary focus of the program is on etiquette, rules, and learning about the spirit of the game, according to Warren, who emphasized that he wanted the young golfers to have fun. The $25 per-participant program fee went back to the children in the form of arrival gifts, prizes, and the season-end banquet. Warren noted that the program was supported by prize donations from Smiley's Fun Zone, Garrett 8 Cinemas, and Denny's Restaurant.

Western Maryland Amateur Set At Oakland Golf Club

The Oakland Golf Club will host the 41st annual Western Maryland Amateur Golf Tournament from Friday through Sunday, Aug. 20-22. The tournament format is stroke play, no handicap, and is flighted after Saturday's round. The low 30 and ties will compete in the championship flight, while those not making the cut will be flighted for a one-day tournament on Sunday.

This year's event also includes a Senior competition with three age flights for those over age 55 as of Aug. 20.

Special events include a skins game Friday and Saturday and closest to the pins on Saturday. A practice round is included on Thursday and also offers an optional two-man best ball tournament.

Local Golf Tourn. Slated To Benefit Leukemia Patients

The Mason Dixon Golf Tournament is set for Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 27-28, at Wisp Ski and Golf Resort and Oakland Golf Club. The event will raise funds for the Vicki (Via) Dotson Foundation, benefiting leukemia patients.

The benefit tournament is being organized by Frostburg restaurant and motel owner Al Via, whose daughter Vicki Via Dotson died of the disease in 1979 at the age of 27. Via has organized a series of benefit golf tournaments in memory of his daughter over the past 25 years that have raised more than $700,000 for leukemia research.

Two-thirds of the money raised by the Vicki Via Dotson Foundation goes to the Greenbaum Cancer Center at the University of Maryland and the other third is used to assist local families with food, travel and lodging expenses while undergoing leukemia treatment at a regional medical center.

The Mason Dixon Golf Tournament sponsors' list includes Long and Foster Realtors in McHenry, Golf Card International, and the Western Maryland Grasshoppers Club. For further information about the upcoming golf tourney, or the Vicki Via Dotson Foundation, persons may call Via at 301-689-6749, the Wisp Resort at 301-387-4911, or the Oakland Golf Club at 301-334-3883. Punt, Pass, Kick Competition Set On SHS Gridiron

The Oakland Youth Football League will host a local competition of the nationwide NFL Pepsi Punt, Pass, and Kick program beginning at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 22 at the Southern High School football field. The event is open to all youth from across the tri-state region, ages 8 through 15, and there is no entry fee.

More than 3½ million youth compete in the annual NFL Punt, Pass, and Kick program, which has been a staple of fall for decades. The competition gives youngsters the opportunity to showcase their talents in punting, passing, and kicking with scores based on distance and accuracy, in age divisions of 8-9, 10-11, 12-13, and 14-15, with boys and girls competing separately. Age divisions are determined as of Dec. 31 of this year.

The top scorers in each age division will advance to the sectional competitions, and from there to the team championships, which take place in NFL stadiums on game days in November or December. The Baltimore Ravens will host the local team championship event at their stadium. Winners of team competitions will advance to the national finals, which will take place in January at an NFL playoff game, with the winners receiving national television recognition.

For the Aug. 22 competition at Southern High, all competitors must wear tennis shoes (no football or soccer cleats), and bring a copy of their birth certificate and a parent or guardian. Each competitor and a parent or guardian must sign a medical waiver, which is available for down-loading and printing via the "Pepsi PP&K" link at www.NFL-youthfootball.com. Waiver forms will also be available at the SHS field the day of the competition. Regardless of when the waiver is signed, a parent or guardian must be in attendance at the event for a youth to be allowed to take part.

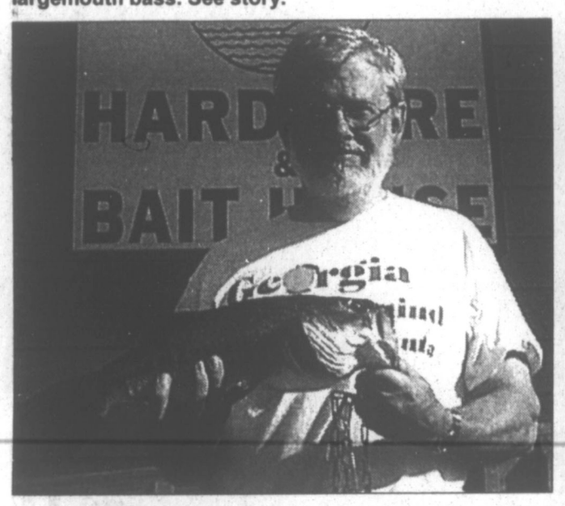
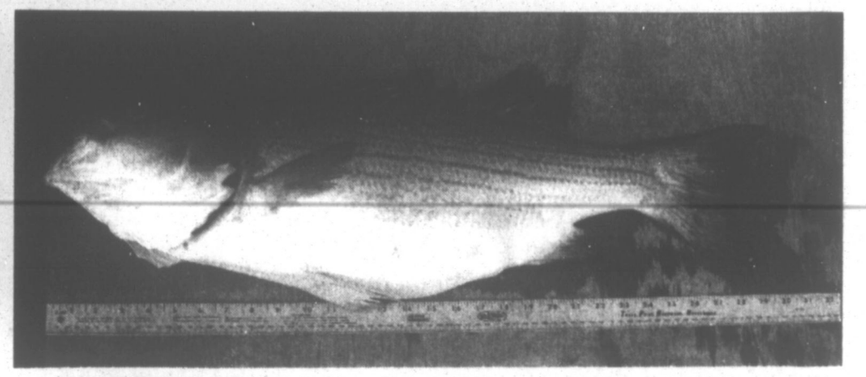
WINNERS IN GARRETT BASSERS FISHING RODEO — Twenty local children participated in the Garrett Bassers Fishing Rodeo held recently at Broadford Lake.

Each participant received a "goody bag" and fishing pole, provided by the 219 Outdoor Center, and a participation plaque from the Garrett Bassers organization. Several door prizes were awarded as well. Those who caught the highest total in fish length in each age group were given trophies. Pictured above are those in the 6 and under division winning trophies. From left are Dustin Green, first place; Shawn Beckman, second; and Chelsie Murray, third. Shown at right are the winners in the 7 to 10 age group. In the front from left are Jenny LaRue, Kelsey Beckman, and Lindsey Murray. In the back, same order, are Lisa LaRue, Michelle Knotts, Alex Moon, Cody LaRue, Brooke Winning, Molly Fazenbaker, and Megan Fazenbaker. In the photo below are those in the 11 to 16 age group. In the front are Lydia Kinch, Alisha Plessinger, and Josh Beckman. In the back are Angie LaMastus, Helaina LaMastus, and Travis Friend. The rodeo was sponsored and organized by members of the Garrett Bassers. They expressed thanks to all individuals and local businesses for the many contributions to the event.





TIPPING THE SCALES at 15 pounds, this huge hybrid bass was found on the shore of Broad Ford Lake this week. Impressive not only for its 30-inch length and 21-inch girth, the whopper has a unique heritage that intertwines with the history of the replenishment of fish populations in local waters. This fish was bred in a Maryland Department of Natural Resources fish hatchery by crossing a male striped bass, commonly known around the Chesapeake as a "rockfish," with a female white bass. DNR stocked several of these hybrid fish in Broad Ford Lake between 1984 and 1986, giving credence to the hypothesis of both Fisheries biologist Ken Pavol and local taxidermist Wes Massey, who is mounting the bass for the town of Oakland, that the fish likely "died of old age."

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

WIND, FINALLY
by Dan Muss

After two weekends of poor wind conditions, Deep Creek Lake finally gave us some wind for our sails. The forecast for Saturday was for a high temperature in the 60s, mostly sunny with winds from the NW about 10 knots. By 11 a.m. it was still cold from the night's low and it looked like the puffs were up to 15. So most teams went around looking for a third crew to get some more weight on the gunwale.

Before the race we sailed up wind and found that the NNW breeze was shifting westerly, which would favor the port tack on the windward leg up toward the Glendale Bridge. We timed the line at about 30 seconds, intending to start at the pin end. We came down the line on starboard tack at the start while Elster was trying a port tack start at the pin. She was forced to tack, but, if she bore off onto starboard, I believe she would have hit the pin, so she had to luff up and lose way. We then got the big westerly shift and tacked onto port with clear air and the nearest boat several boat-lengths to our lee. Sue Case, up forward, was calling the puffs so I could be ready to ease the mainsheet out to prevent too much heel. We were first around the windward mark and, with our spinnaker full, we planed halfway to the leeward mark and never lost the lead for the rest of the race.

Because of the chilly temperatures I had bundled up, but with my lifejacket on, I was covered with sweat at the end of the race. Sue, on the other hand, was thoroughly wet from the spray we were taking on the windward legs. Fearless crew, Marilyn Filemyr, had been tired at the beginning of the race from her previous day's exertions; she noted afterwards, "It's a wonder what adrenaline will do for one's energy."

In the second race on Saturday, Allison Felix, who usually crews for her dad, Dick Gregory, took the helm and won the Championship–Gold race. That was good sailing in wind that was still pretty stiff.

Sunday was a pretty day with a gentle 3 to 6 knot breeze from the west. For one reason or other most of the other Master's Fleet competitors were not there, so it was a match race between Muss and Rissell in "Nemesis." And it was just like an America's Cup start, with Rissell starting on port at the pin and us starting at the committee boat on starboard. He just squeaked by us as we crossed, but we were able to get ahead by a few boat-lengths at the first mark and held it to the leeward mark. There I made a terrible tack, got knocked, and Rissell had us. The Master's Fleet is made up of sailors, any one of whom can win, but Rissell just does it more often.

In the Laser race on Sunday, Frey and Clefton were battling it out with Keith Spinnenweber a distant third. But Keith tacked away from them and sailed to the other side of the "slot" between Turkey Neck and Thousand Acres, picked up a freshening breeze, and went on to win. On Deep Creek Lake the most important thing in sailboat racing is to find the wind.

Sentenced

Judge Jim Sherbin then suspended six months of the sentence, and Robinette will be on probation upon her release from jail.

She was arrested and charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in January after she sold marijuana to an undercover officer, noted the state's attorney.

These events led also to the arrest of the person from whom she was receiving the marijuana, Jimmy Barkley, then of Morgantown, W.Va. He has also pleaded guilty in circuit court to a number of violations and is awaiting sentencing.

Faces Charges

indicated that his driver's license was suspended and revoked, that a court order stemming from a prior DUI/DWI conviction was currently on file mandating an alcohol restriction, and that he had a prior conviction for driving while suspended and revoked.

Merriam was charged with 11 citations as a result of this morning's traffic stop. In addition to those mentioned above, he is also accused of negligent driving.

Merriam was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center, where he was awaiting a bond hearing before a District Court commissioner today.

Ravens' Cheer Team Tackles ASI Course

by Joan Crawford

"Weather or no" was the word on one recent cool, rainy Friday when a group of 65 Baltimore Ravens cheerleaders came to Deep Creek Lake for a team building activity provided by the AdventureSports Institute of Garrett College.

The group was hosted by Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, who contracted with the ASI to provide the training. The persistent rainfall that day did not deter the participants, or delay the outdoor activities planned by a group of instructors and students from the Garrett College Adventure Sports Program.

"They were a wonderful group to work with – very enthusiastic," said AVS assistant professor Terry Peterson, who led the training. "We began the day by discussing the important qualities for a team to have. The group agreed that communication and support were the two most important, so we incorporated those qualities into our activities."

One of the activities was "The Wall," which required teamwork, communication, and trust to get the entire group over a 12-foot obstacle with the aid of only their bodies and clothing they were wearing. Another activity was the TP (Telephone Pole) Shuffle in which all members of each group had to move from one end of the horizontal telephone pole to the other end without stepping off the pole.

According to Peterson, the solving of such problems encourages participants to develop good communications, teamwork, and a sense of group accomplishments as they work through the challenge. In addition to Peterson, Professor Michael Swiderski helped to lead the activities, along with students and adjunct instructors Cindy Hay and Gatan Waddell, and graduates of the adventure sports program Scott Richardson, Audrey Friend, and Brian Anderson.

WITH BOUNDLESS ENTHUSIASM, naturally, the Baltimore Ravens cheerleaders took on a team building activity in McHenry recently. The challenging course, which was provided by the AdventureSports Institute of Garrett College, included "The Wall," shown here, that required the cheerleaders to pool teamwork, communication, and trust to get their entire group over the 12-foot obstacle using only their bodies and clothing they were wearing. The cheer squad's Garrett County visit was sponsored by Railey Realty. See story.

To the Editor:

What was missing from the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis discussion?

Noise control. I attended the public meeting on August 7 at the Garrett College auditorium. The subject of noise, although discussed at the February public meeting, disappeared from the discussion and interests surveyed at the August 7 meeting. I feel that noise control should be part of this analysis study, particularly in reference to the items that deal with mixed residential and commercial use, and the loss of commercial business/restaurants along the Deep Creek Lake waterfront.

I live in a Town Center zoning close to commercial Black Bear Tavern. In my experience, the mix of residential and commercial sounds good in theory, but is a failure in the Garrett County watershed. The county has a history of allowing waterfront restaurants/bars to be granted special exceptions allowing outdoor bands. Commercial restaurant/bars such as Black Bear Tavern and its owner, Mr. Handyside, appear before the County Zoning Board of Appeals and claim that they need a special exception for outdoor bands to be competitive with their competition, such as Honi Honi. Business concerns then testify that Deep Creek has a demand for this type of business. Local residential owners testify that they have been subject to excess noise from their neighborhood restaurant/bar. Commercial interests seem to win over residential owners, at least in the case of Black Bear Tavern. Noise carries over water. Garrett County Planning & Zoning will tell you they have received complaints about Black Bear Tavern band noise from residents across Deep Creek Lake.

What's my point? In correspondence dated June 18, 2004, Mr. John Nelson said that Gar-rett County Planning & Zoning does not have the expertise for enforcing sound/noise levels that exceed the Maryland Department of Environment's (MDE) maximal permissible sound/noise level (COMAR 26.02.03.03), yet Planning and Zoning has a history granting commercial operations such as Honi Honi (1989), Point View Inn's Boardwalk (1992), and Black Bear Tavern (2002) permission to have outdoor bands, which can send excess noise into residential use areas. Mr. Handyside proved in his public testimony (January 3, 2002, Zoning Hearing Docket SE-320) that noise levels from his own Black Bear Tavern (measured by Mr. Craig Meyers, Mr. Handyside's hired noise consultant) exceeded the MDE maximal permissible sound/noise levels by 70% on the night of August 24 & 25, 2001, between 10:30 p.m. and 1:30 a.m. when measured at the property lines of neighboring private residences owned by Mr. James Pell and Mr. George Adams on Deep Creek Drive.

Garrett County agencies should not be giving commercial interests permission for activities that can generate excessive noise (such as outdoor band noise) that spreads through surrounding residential properties when Garrett County has no way to measure sound/noise violations of the present Maryland State law, much less enforce them. Mr. Nelson says Garrett County will defer to a Baltimore-based MDE noise enforcement team. How is Garrett County going to protect residential owners in a mixed-use area from noise if the MDE enforcement team has a 3-plus hour drive to get on site to measure a violation? Most noise violations will be over and the peace of the neighborhood disturbed long before the MDE team arrives.

The Deep Creek Lake Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis Team needs to be aware that mixed use areas will fail and disappoint county taxpayers until Garrett County obtains the equipment and the trained personnel to measure and enforce noise violations. Garrett County should stop granting special exceptions for activities that have the potential to generate excess noise and should rescind the special exceptions already given to commercial interests until the county can measure the noise that their own special exceptions promote and can ensure conformity with Maryland state law.

Respectfully submitted,
William Trepp

To the Editor:

While driving around Garrett County, I have noticed a number of trees subjected to construction practices that will ultimately lead to their decline and death. Construction practices can be of many shapes and sizes, from a community or business sign, a drainage ditch or a small shed, to a multi-home or large commercial development. It is quite obvious there is much development occurring on wooded lots in and around the county, especially the McHenry area. Part of the appeal of the real estate in this area is its wooded character, but the development process may cause harm to the very resources that help to attract buyers.

Trees are often left on these building sites to retain the wooded character of the area. Proper tree protection techniques can ensure these trees remain healthy for many years. Without these protection measures there is increased risk that these trees will fail and cause harm to people and property. A tree is a living organism that will decline if any part of it is injured. Injury can occur in any number of ways that include, but are not limited to, wounding its trunk, compacting or severing its roots, and removing or altering its source of water through changes in drainage patterns and creation of impervious surfaces.

Information on techniques to design with nature, properly plant and care for trees, and protect them during construction is available by calling 301-777-5591 or via email at bwilson@dnr.state.md.us.

We welcome the opportunity to work with contractors and those owners designing homes and businesses in Garrett County to learn and use these techniques to maintain the trees and forests that contribute so much to our community.

To the Editor:

Election time, new slogans, makeovers, Hollywood leftovers, burned out rock stars, and don't forget Peter, Dan, and Tom. Now let's look at where we are. We have a potential first lady, Teresa Heinz, or is it Teresa Kerry? Yikes, now there's a charming, opinionated, classy lady who can articulate rationally. Her now famous "shove it" sure took a lot of thought.

And we move on to "here's Johnny," who accepted the nomination at a Boston 3-ring circus. The Democrats have to be scratching their fannies asking themselves, How did we get here? It's panic time for the Dems so what is next? Dr. screaming Dean is on the trail still angry with his party for rejecting him. He is the attack dog hitting a new low.

The lies, or as Michael Moore calls it, "a different version of the truth," are aimed at the undecided and the moderates. By the way, how can anyone at this time be undecided or a moderate? Did Wilson lie, did Clarke lie, did Teddy lie, did the Clintons lie, or was it only their trumped up version of the truth? Now I get it, even though they lied, their intentions were good. They should establish a new slogan, "We have good intentions for America."

The fundamental difference between Republicans and Democrats is painfully obvious. The Dems are not angry about 9/11. Sad, but true. What they are angry about is that it didn't happen on Clinton's watch so his legacy would be more than a semen stain. They have been doing everything in an attempt to re-write the dereliction of his presidency.

Take a look at the Dems' invited speaker Jimmy the-social-worker Carter who said, "After 9/11 America stood proud." Proud was not the emotion I felt. Proud came in considerably behind "fighting mad," "enraged," and "vengeful."

I see the Dems reaching out now to their America-hating, pacifism supporters. That's all they have left; the Michael Moores, the Whoopis, and even stumpy Al Gore who screamed Republicans are Nazis. The Democrats have made their speeches in a colossal effort to fake out the uninformed and pretend that they are normal Americans who love their country, while at the same time they are sitting next to and recognizing the Michael Moores who now represent their party.

Now it's the Republican turn to expose the lies an keep America on a roll.

Wingfield Encounter Set At Wisp

STEVE WINGFIELD

International Crusade Evangelist Steve Wingfield in February accepted an invitation to conduct a cross-denominational, evangelistic campaign to be held later this month. The five-day Billy Graham-style crusade meetings called the "Steve Wingfield Encounter at Wisp" will take place August 25-29 at 7:20 p.m. nightly at the Wisp Deep Creek Mountain Resort.

The Steve Wingfield Evangelistic Association has been working with many church and business leaders from throughout western Maryland, northeast West Virginia, and southwest Pennsylvania in providing leadership on the crusade's executive committee. All area residents are invited to attend the meetings, which will include a variety of special guests and music artists. The meetings are free and open to the public.

Saturday night's meeting is primarily designed for area youth. During the afternoon on Saturday, the driving range, Frisbee golf, chairlift rides, and skateboard park at Wisp will be available, all free of charge. Simultaneous meetings for children in grades K-5 will also be held at the same location each night.

The preparations for this event cap a broad-based effort by a group of men and women, representing a cross-section of the area's churches and businesses, who have been working for several months in preparation for the event. Wingfield, whose evangelistic association is based in Harrisonburg, Va., has conducted nearly 50 area/city-wide crusades, which are called "encounters" in the United States and overseas, preaching in person to tens of thousands of people during the past 20 years of ministry. Nearly 50 churches representing a variety of denominations are involved in the encounter at this time. The Steve Wingfield Evangelistic Association team has been involved in helping to organize these meetings and to train people from area churches about how to share their faith with others more effectively.

Special guests will include Marty Raybon, former lead singer for popular country artists Shenandoah, on Wednesday, Aug. 25; gospel music artist John Schmid on Thursday, Aug. 26; the Power Team on Friday, Aug. 27; Grammy and Dove award winners Petra and former world champion bull rider Cody Custer on Saturday, Aug. 28; and gospel music artist Carla Karst on Sunday, Aug. 29. A simultaneous children's program (grades K-5) will take place nightly.

An estimated 300 area residents will be involved in the encounter as volunteers, serving as choir members, ushers, counselors, youth/children coordinators, office workers, and prayer partners. Promotional materials, including lawn signs and posters, have been made available to church representatives and others throughout the area.

The Steve Wingfield Evangelistic Association has also been invited to conduct other evangelistic "encounters" this year, which are scheduled in Fiji in early September, Chambersburg, Pa., Sept. 15-19, and in Salisbury Nov. 17-21.

For more information, persons may call 301-387-7200 or 800-729-2239, or visit the web site at www.SteveWingfield.org.

Hiking The Appalachian Trail

Editor's note: The following is another in a series of articles by McHenry resident Julia Geisler as she and her friend walk the entire length of the Appalachian Trail.

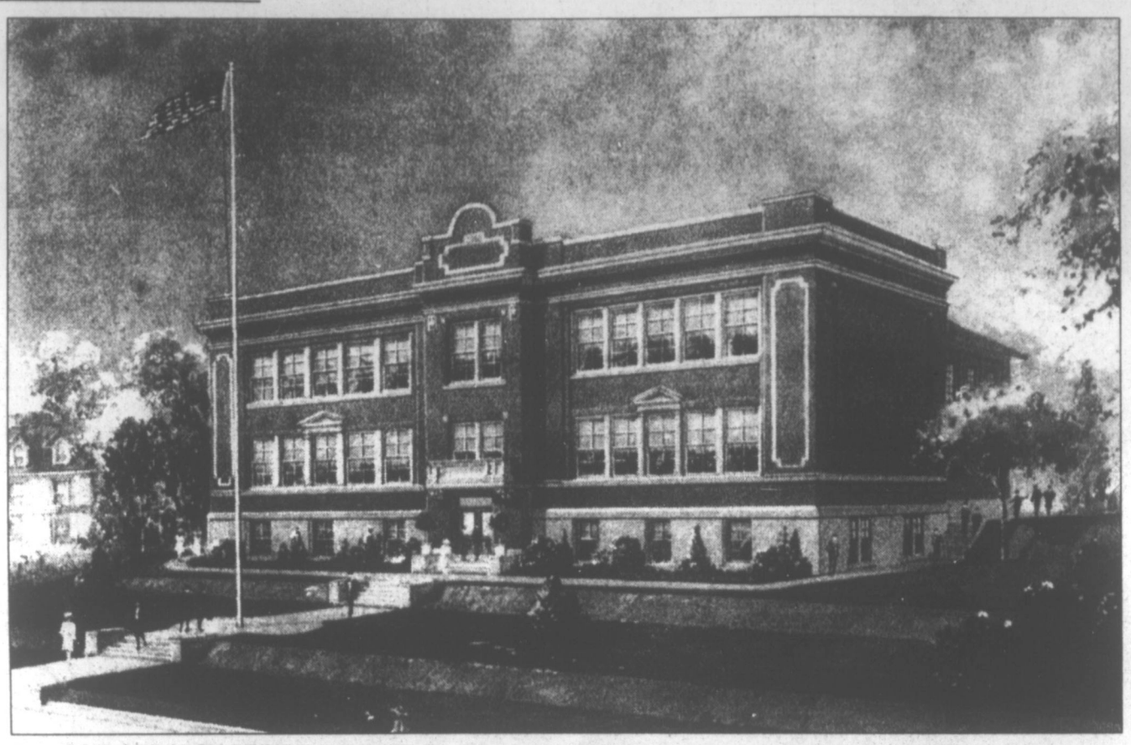
Vernon, New Jersey, Mile 1,342

Just four things are important while on the trail: water, food, shelter, and community. This is all. Simple, really. Concerns about the clothes you wear, the people you know, the size of your house, or the type of car you drive are unimportant. Prejudices are, for the most part, laid aside. Walking is the number one concern. College professors hike with high school dropouts, millionaires with bums, and 80-year-olds with 18-year-olds. One can travel the world and not find a community quite like that which is found on the Appalachian Trail. I can be walking down the sidewalk in a trail town, smell like rotting rabbits, have everything attached to my back looking like a hobo, and a complete stranger will always pull over and offer at least a ride. More often than not, the stranger will also provide a place to stay, a shower, dinner, and a ride back to the trail in the morning, with a pat on the back for encouragement. Trust.

The trail community extends further than to just the thru-hiker. Every mile of the 2,174 miles of the trail is maintained entirely by volunteers. No one is paid to build the bridges, shelters, and privies that we use along the trail. No one is paid to weed-whack and clean out the drainage ditches. The entire existence of the Appalachian Trail depends on the volunteers who live near the trail and who invest their time into its upkeep and preservation. These volunteers take great pride in what they do and genuinely enjoy maintaining the trail. Commendable.

Jaberwocky and I met one amazing volunteer in Tennessee at a hostel called Kinkora. His name is Bob Peoples and he maintains over 100 miles of the trail. He also operates a hostel for which he charges a donation of $4 to sleep, shower, and relax in a beautiful hostel attached to his home. He asks only that you put in a little time during your stay to go out to the trail and volunteer to do maintenance.

When we stayed at Kinkora, we put in a day of maintenance. Hard work. It wasn't easy to haul concrete and big slabs of stone in order to repair a washed out section of the trail. We were exhausted by the end of the day, but it felt good to give back something to the trail.



OAKLAND HIGH PRINTS AVAILABLE – The past is preserved in this print of the old Oakland High School, which is available for purchase through the mail. Artist Jim Crabtree used an old color postcard to create the print, which is being sold to raise funds for the activities of the OHS Alumni Committee. Prints can be obtained at a cost of $10 for an 8x10, or $5 for a 5x7, by writing to Nina (Gnegy) Keefer, Rt. 1 Box 166, Kingwood, WV 26537, or by calling her at 304-329-2656. (Best to call after 9 p.m.) OHS welcomed students into its classrooms from 1908 through 1952, and the building stood along Fourth Street until just a few years ago. The OHS Reunion is slated for this Saturday, Aug. 14, from 3 to 9 p.m. at the Wisp Resort. Dinner will be served at 5:30 p.m., and the cost to attend is $18.

Bob Peoples not only does trail maintenance just about every day during the summer while running a hostel for thru-hikers. He also lives his life to serve others. To help them in any way he can. He extends himself.

"Trail angels" are yet another link in the network of support for the trail. I have spoken of them briefly before, but they deserve a greater explanation. A man famously known as "Desperado" is one trail angel who has been doing trail magic along the Appalachian Trail for 32 years. Among their many magic tricks, trail angels are known for setting brightly colored coolers along the trail stocked with cold drinks and snacks for the thru-hikers to enjoy. Especially in New Jersey and New York, the water sources have not been good, and so trail angels are known for leaving gallons of water along the trial.

We first met Desperado while he was stocking a bear box with snacks, first aid supplies, toilet paper, and a big bag of candy at one of the four shelters that he maintains in New Jersey. We arrived at the shelter at the same time as a group of Boy Scouts who all knew of Desperado and who all wanted his autograph. Desperado sat on the back of his Explorer and entertained the Boy Scouts with trail stories while filling their cups full of Kool-Aid and their grimy hands with lemon cookies.

This very generous man spends $3,000-$4,000 a year helping and treating 300-400 thru-hikers along the trail from New Jersey to Maine. He picks up random hikers, treats them to breakfast, lunch, dinner, or takes them anywhere they may need to go.

When Desperado got ready to leave the shelter that evening, he turned to one of the kids and asked if he would like to repay Desperado for the trail magic. The kid says, "Well, yeah. Sure." Desperado responds, "And how would you repay me?" The kid says, "I'll send you a thank-you e-mail when I get home." Desperado laughs and says, "That would be nice, but how about this: One of these days, maybe today, maybe tomorrow, maybe next year, someone will really need your help. When this happens, it will not be a convenient time for you to help this person. It may cost money, take time, or may be a great aggravation in your day. However, you help this person, and this is how you can repay me. One day you yourself will really be in need, not just for a little snack, but really in need. And if you extend yourself, then in your time of need others will be there for you." Good karma.

Trust, commendable deeds, hard work, extension of oneself for others, and as a result: good karma. These are all lessons that have been taught on the trail. Quality.

New Regulations

"MTBE makes important environmental and economic contributions by improving Maryland's air quality and keeping gas prices affordable," noted a governor's office spokesperson.

The emergency regulations will also require increased groundwater sampling, mandate regular testing of tanks and fittings, and define steps that gas station owners and others must take when underground storage systems are suspected of contaminating groundwater.

The regulations will apply in areas where wells are the primary source of household drinking water and local geology makes it impractical for homeowners to find a new water source. MDE will identify the areas and notify affected tank farm operators.

The regulatory review committee of the General Assembly must review and approve the proposed emergency regulations before they can become effective. They could be come effective as soon as October.

Service stations and other underground storage facilities in areas covered by the regulations will have 30 days after the effective date of the regulations to begin quarterly sampling of water in on-site domestic wells and tank field observation pipes. They will also be required to conduct annual tightness tests for fittings in catchment basins and containment sumps. Results must be reported to MDE.

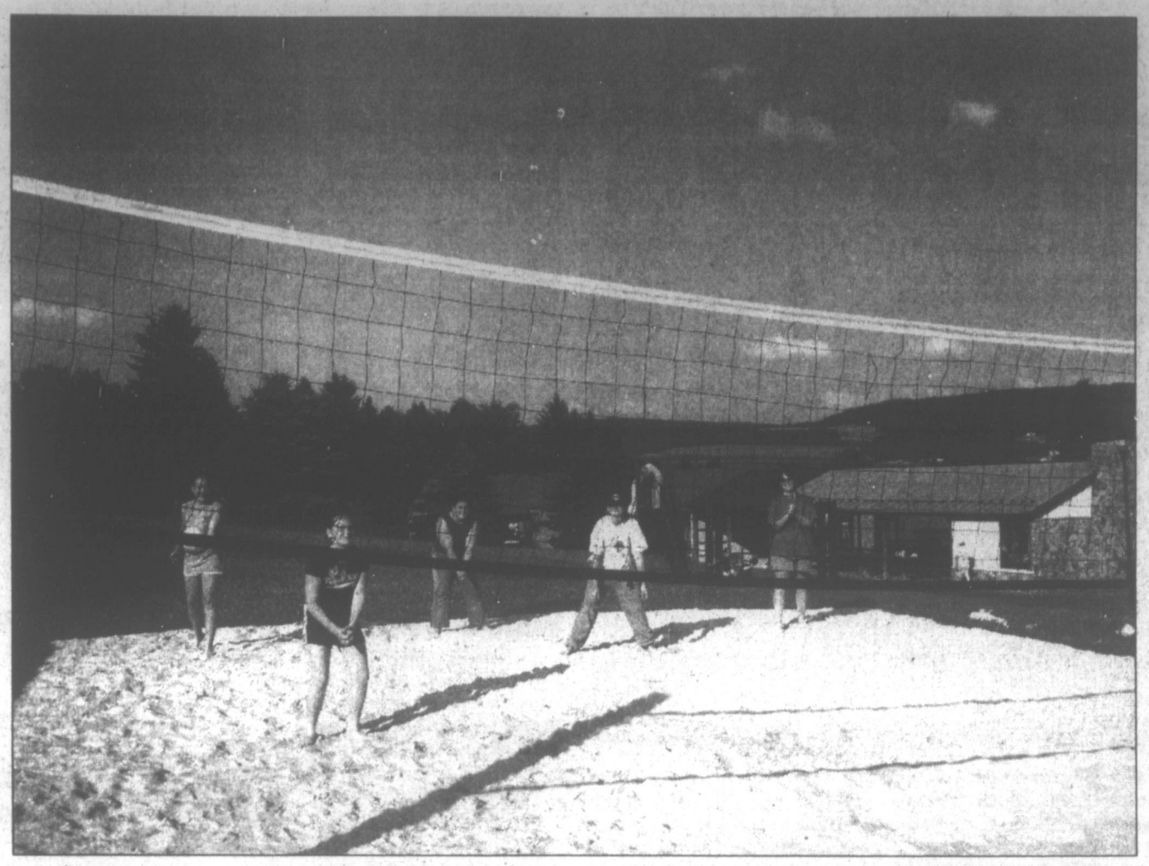
If MTBE at levels greater than 20 parts per billion (ppb), more than 5 ppb of benzene or more than 100 ppb of total BETX (benzene, toluene, ethyl benzene and xylenes) are found, the operator will be required to drill three groundwater monitoring wells and submit samples from the new wells to MDE. They will also be required to perform an advanced helium leak detection test, which is used to identify vapor leaks.

In addition to repairing all leaks immediately, the operator will be required to install a soil vapor extraction system in the tank area to remove vapors from the earth or other advanced technology to keep vapors within the tank system.

The MDE regulations also establish a timetable for installing double-walled piping with sensors and alarm systems. Double-walled piping will be required on all new and replacement systems, and systems that are 15 years old or older must be upgraded by Jan. 1, 2006. All systems must be upgraded no later than Jan. 1, 2009.

Since June, the MDE has been investigating the presence of MTBE in private wells in the Upper Crossroads area of Harford County. The investigation has focused on an Exxon service station on Fallston Road, where a number of vapor leaks have been found and repaired, according to the spokesperson.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has concluded that there is no measurable health effect from low level MTBE exposure. The EPA's health advisory states that levels of contamination at or below 20 parts per billion (ppb) provide a large margin of safety from adverse health effects.



SERVE'S UP – The Accident Community Planning Group recently held a volleyball camp which ran for four weeks. In order to get the town volleyball court ready for the camp, the group held a work night. "We want to give a special thank you to the Wisp for allowing the group to use their sod cutter, to Fairfax Sand for donating the sand, and the Byco Enterprises for hauling the sand for us," said Sharon Custer, Community Planning Group member. Pictured are some of the community youth enjoying the court at one of the evening sessions.

She is a dean's list student and a member of the Presidential Scholars (honors) program. She is the daughter of Wayne "Ocie" and Sue Raines, Westernport. An essay on business ethics was one of the requirements to be considered for the scholarship. Jennifer is pictured above, right, with Lana J. Bittinger, WEPCO vice president. MAD DASH RAISES OVER $3,700 — Last week's Mad Dash, a fundraising 5-K (3.1 miles) run through Oakland sponsored by Garrett Rehab Services, brought in an impressive total of over $3,700. The proceeds from the event will help to support and maintain a "healthcare closet," a spokesperson said, from which people in need of short-term use of medical equipment, such as wheelchairs, canes, walkers, and other equipment, may borrow these items from the closet at no cost. The Mad Dash was included as part of downtown Oakland's "Wonderful Wednesday" series. Several of the runners are pictured above as they make their own "mad dashes" through town. Shown below are two pictures of Audrey Kennedy, a physical therapist at Garrett Rehab, and Kaylin Paugh, a patient at the facility. Kaylin was the official starter of the race, with Audrey running while pushing the youngster in a stroller. Kennedy clocked an impressive time, even with her "passenger," a spokesperson noted. Photos provided by John McEwen and Lorrie Filsinger.

MORE MONEY FOR MAD DASH — Garrett Rehab Services' Mad Dash through Oakland was held last week as part of Wonderful Wednesday, with many runners taking part to help raise nearly $4,000. An additional $100 check was donated by Libby Holstine in honor of her daughter, Mandy Holstine. Libby had already made a $1,000 contribution in memory of her son, "Fast Eddie #30." The funds will go toward the support and maintenance of a healthcare closet, which provides medical equipment to persons who may not be able to afford it. See additional photos and information. Pictured from left are Alison Ulino, Garrett Rehab's race chairperson; Lorrie Filsinger-Miller, clinic director; Holstine; and Jennifer Paugh, fundraising chairperson. Pictured in front is Kaylin Paugh, a patient at Garrett Rehab and the official "starter" of the Mad Dash.

Bear Hunt Rules

fective response to crop and property damages caused by bears in western Maryland.

DNR wildlife managers, who say they will work to bring hunters and property owners who have complained about bear damage together in hopes of focusing the hunt in locales that have borne the brunt of bear-caused financial losses, can go ahead and authorize the hunt despite the pending hearing.

The proposed hunt, if authorized, would take place Monday through Saturday, Oct. 25-30, and Monday through Saturday, Dec. 6-11, until the harvest maximum of 30 bears is reached. DNR has estimated that approximately 400 bears live in western Maryland, although officials speculate that number could be on the low side.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

by Dr. Virginia Broaddus
Dean of Academic Affairs

Each week, I learn something from each piece of paper that crosses my desk, but it can be hard to stay focused on documents when I realize I could slip out of my office and head to the Fair. This time of year, I'm always proud of the college's connection to agriculture, even as our program has undergone some changes. When Willie Lantz left GC in June to become the director of the county's Extension Service, we said bittersweet goodbyes. For nearly 11 years, Willie shepherded our Agricultural Management Program, and we knew his loss would mean significant changes. Fortunately, we're able to maintain some of our Agriculture Program's most important aspects, as well as our role in the county's agriculture.

We've started two new options for agriculture students: one in agribusiness for students who want to manage a farm (or agribusiness), and one in environmental agriculture for students who want to work in agricultural careers involving the environment. Students will have the advantage of studying at the college's Alternative Agriculture Advanced Technology center, and we'll be partnering with the Extension Service to provide programming for county residents.

All of these students and our facilities will be in good hands, those of Kris DeWitt as well as Richard McCrobie, a proud graduate of both West Virginia University and Garrett College. Since his days as GC's Student Government Association president, Rick, our new coordinator of Agricultural Studies, has been an important member of the Garrett family, and we're excited about his newest role at the college.

Garrett's family and its program offerings have expanded in other areas, too. We're launching our cybersecurity certificate this fall, and this program will train students to be troubleshooters who can assess the technological security issues so many businesses face. We'll now be able to educate workers to protect data vital to a company's success. Several of the certificate courses offered this fall will be taught by Rich Seese, a Preston County native who will also teach other certification courses, including those offered in the Computer Certification Academy we offer in partnership with the Garrett County Board of Education. We're looking forward to Rich's work with students of all ages, from high schoolers to those interested in starting a new or even a second career.

As I review other documents that cross my desk, I realize with pride just how many Garrett College students and graduates have found careers in education. Our new AAT in elementary education (associate of arts in teaching) degree takes our offerings a step further as it allows students to glide seamlessly into four-year teaching preparation programs once they leave Garrett. Our future graduates will follow in the footsteps of those who've studied with us in the past. Most recently, we've been very proud to learn of current student Susan Steyer's new position as media assistant at Broad Ford Elementary School, and to hear about alumnae Tammy Lottman's, Jessica Saturday Fratz's, and Melissa Paugh's appointments as teachers at local schools. Candy Dolan-Opel's new role as principal at Kitzmiller Elementary School will surely serve as inspiration to future GC students who pursue careers in education, and we extend our congratulations to these and all other new and promoted Board of Education employees.

We're also proud of recent graduates of our Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute, a new initiative for those who seek a career in commercial vehicle transportation. Students, who can take the courses through our credit as well as our noncredit divisions, know that MTDI offers strong training by dedicated professionals led by Bud Poland, who supervises the institute located in Grantsville. The college was glad to step in and fill a void left in our county when the Diesel Institute of America relocated, as we do our best to respond to our region's and our students' needs.

In anticipating what will cross my desk in the coming weeks, I know I'm in for some surprises as well as some routine documents. I'm sure I'll find inquiries about registration, questions about the Willy Wisp child care offerings available to incoming students, notes about graduation, and applications for the new degrees we offer with Franklin University. I don't know what else I'll discover as I review the papers that find their way to me, but I'm certain that any surprises will offer new learning opportunities not only for me, but also for our faculty, staff, administration, and most importantly, our students.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

STEM CELLS

Q. What are stem cells? And why are they so controversial?

A. In humans, the cells in bone, skin, brains, heart, liver, etc., all are different from each other. However, some cells are able to change into different kinds of cells, and these are termed stem cells. The most familiar example of such cells is bone marrow. One way of treating cancer patients has been to do a bone-marrow transplant, where the bone marrow cells then transform into other types of cells. This had been going on for several decades.

There are two categories of stem cells: one kind (the fancy name for it is pluripotent) can differentiate into several different kinds of cells; the other kind (totipotent) can transform into any kind of cell in your body. On that basis, you would expect that totipotent stem cells are more flexible and hence more useful.

A long time ago, it was recognized that every human being starts out from a single cell (a single fertilized egg, a zygote), and grows into a multi-celled blastocyst in about 4 or 5 days. Eventually the developing human reaches the state of having many different organs, hence many different kinds of cells. On that basis, it was concluded that the stem cells of an embryo must be totipotent, or else you couldn't get "from here to there." Meanwhile, the success of bone-marrow transfusions showed that bone marrow cells must at least be pluripotent. That's where things stood about a decade ago.

The name adult stem cells refers to everything except embryonic stem cells. You don't have to be an adult to have adult stem cells. It sometimes confuses people, but the stem cells in umbilical-cord blood are classed as adult stem cells.

Research on adult stem cells has been very fruitful in recent years. A group at the University of Minnesota showed that one type of bone marrow stem cell (known as MAPC) can generate every tissue in the body. Also, treatment of certain afflictions with adult stem cells continues to broaden in scope (well beyond the original cancer treatment via bone marrow), including repairs of tissue in heart, liver, and nerves. About 200 scientific papers have attested to the uses of adult stem cells both in generating other cell types and in repairing damaged tissue. (The latest advance, by a team at Yale University, was reported in the journal Science on 2 July 2004.)

Meanwhile, research using embryonic stem cells (ESCR) has proceeded as well, but along a different path. One type of procedure is called somatic cell nuclear transfer. This involves removing the nucleus of a human egg cell and replacing it with the nucleus of a different cell from a donor's skin, brain, or other organ. The egg develops into a cluster (the blastocyst) from which the stem cells can be extracted and grown outside the body. Removing the stem cells kills the blastocyst. Because the DNA in the nucleus now matches the donor's DNA, there is no danger of rejection, and researchers hope the stem cells might help regenerate damaged tissue in the donor.

However, ESCR has not been fruitful for treating diseases. Animal experiments indicate that such cells grow much too fast to control properly, and result in a mixture of cell types (rather than the one needed) and hence are unsuitable for transplantation. Trying anything on humans would be extremely risky (there are rumors in the medical community that experiments on humans in China led to hair growing inside a person's brain, and the patient died).

This is about where the science stands. To understand the controversy, it is necessary to enter the world of politics and government funding.

Anyone is free to pursue research with his own money, or money obtained from backers in the private sector. However, nearly all venture capitalists and other sources of funds are only interested in funding research on adult stem cells, which offer some real promise for curing diseases. There is little interest in backing embryonic stem cell research (ESCR), because of its poor track record.

Therefore, the researchers who want to follow the ESCR path strive to get funding from the government (the National Institutes of Health funds billions in research annually). Lately, the proponents of increased federal funding have enlisted the family of Ronald Reagan to assert that ESCR might have cured his Alzheimer's disease. This is a funding strategy that plays on sympathy, but has no basis in scientific fact, since Alzheimer's disease is unrelated to stem cells. With comparable superficiality, some Hollywood celebrities have become enthusiastic about ESCR, always glossing over the solid medical facts. Meanwhile, forefront researchers have dismissed their statements as "fairy tales."

The federal government often funds research with uncertain promise, but in this case they've taken a clue from the private sector and don't want to put money into something that is going nowhere. Meanwhile, federal funding does go for adult stem cell research, which is paying off.

Finally, there is a moral issue here: When a human embryo is made, it is a human being, and if allowed to develop in the standard way, would become a person just like the rest of us. The use of classy terminology like somatic cell nuclear transfer doesn't change that. Should such very tiny humans be sacrificed for research? A lot of people think that's not right. The current federal policy is to let ESCR proceed on certain cell-lines that are already in existence, but not to start any new cell-lines. Again, that federal policy doesn't stop the private sector from funding whatever research considered appealing.

BRICKYARD 400 REVIEW

Blissful day at the Brickyard

Gordon matches greats with fourth victory at Indy

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Indianapolis

Jeff Gordon overcame a collision with debris on the track, a race-record 13 caution periods and the Nextel Cup circuit's first green-white checkered finish to win the 11th running of the Brickyard 400 at Indianapolis Motor Speedway and write his name into the record books alongside those of some of the track's greatest heroes.

Sunday's Brickyard win, coupled with victories in 1994, 1998 and 2001, gave Gordon four wins at the world's most famous track and tied him with Indy-car legends Rick Mears, A.J. Foyt and Al Unser Sr.

Dale Jarrett held off his Robert Yates Racing teammate Elliott Sadler to claim the runner-up spot with Kasey Kahne finishing fourth and Tony Stewart fifth.

Gordon, who lived in nearby Pittsboro during his formative racing years, rolled his No. 24 Chevrolet to a stop on the frontstretch and celebrated to a thundering ovation from fans seated on both sides of the track.

The outpouring of support, which he rarely hears at many stops on the circuit, was an emotional moment for the winner.

"I don't get cheered often, so it means so much to me to hear the cheers at Indy," he said.

He also heard praise from his competitors and seemed uncomfortable with their linking him to legendary Indy champions.

Jarrett said Gordon is a world-class talent.

"You have to consider him one of the best drivers of any kind that's ever been here," Jarrett said.

Gordon shied away from such praise and comparisons to the open-wheel heroes.

"I don't think anyone will ever know who is best because there's no fair way to figure it out," he said. "To put myself in that category, I try not to, because all I care about is winning races and being behind the wheel of a race car."

Gordon's biggest worry on Sunday came from a piece of debris on the track, likely a chunk of lead that both he and Matt Kenseth hit. But only Kenseth's car was seriously damaged.

In April at Martinsville, Gordon was in control of the race when he ran over debris and lost a chance to win.

BRICKYARD 400 NOTEBOOK

Cautions make race the slowest Brickyard

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Indianapolis, Ind.

The 13 caution flags that slowed the Brickyard 400 for 47 laps were record-setting — the old caution mark was nine in 1998 and the average speed of 115.037 mph was the slowest ever for the event — and frustrating even for drivers not involved in spins and crashes.

Matt Kenseth appeared to be the one driver fast enough to challenge winner Jeff Gordon, but he wound up 16th after an unscheduled pit stop to have his crew repair damage caused when his No. 17 Ford ran over a piece of debris.

Kenseth said the frequent cautions thwarted his efforts to mount an attack on the leader.

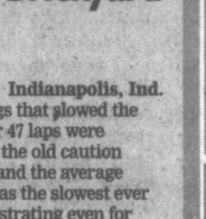
"It was difficult to get into a rhythm because of all the cautions," he said. "We had a really good long-run set-up, but not a very good set-up on restarts. That made it difficult with all those yellows."

The crash that caused the most damage occurred on a Lap 73 restart and ruined the day for several drivers including Terry Labonte, outside polesitter Ward Burton and rookie Scott Riggs, who blamed the wreck on over-anxious drivers trying to grab a few quick positions on the restart.

"Everybody was trying to get a run on the guy in front of them and doing all kinds of things to get an edge getting into the first corner," Riggs said. "I was just trying to be careful and make sure that we didn't do anything stupid and push anybody into a wreck, and instead somebody pushed me into the wreck."

27th place but upbeat

Dale Earnhardt Jr. entered the final lap in sixth place but finished 27th after a tire went flat on his No. 8 Chevrolet. But he seemed upbeat about being able to finish a race for the first time since being burned several weeks ago in a sports car crash and about the performance of his car, which hasn't run up to par in recent races.



EARNHARDT

"Even though we didn't end up the way we would have liked, I hope [the good run] puts us back on the right track," Earnhardt said.

He said his burns were bearable. "I'm fine," he said. "I still have some open wounds that haven't healed yet. They hurt some when I sit down, but I'll be all right."

First time for new rule

Sunday's race had one extra lap, becoming the first NASCAR race in history to use the new green-white-checkered rule and extend past the scheduled distance to try to get a green-flag finish. The race still ended under caution when a yellow flag was displayed with half a lap to go.

TALK THE TALK

A guide to NASCAR terms

"Stick"

A slang term used for tire traction, as in "the car's really sticking to the track."

"P&G"

The procedure for checking the cubic-inch displacement of an engine. The term comes from the manufacturer of the particular gauge used.

Sauter edged at finish two nights in a row

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Clermont, Ind.

Johnny Sauter came up short for the second straight night Saturday as Kyle Busch beat him to the finish line to win the Kroger 200 Busch Series race at Indianapolis Raceway Park.

Sauter, who led 139 of 200 laps in Friday's Craftsman Truck Series race at IRP before losing the lead on the last lap to eventual winner Chad Chaffin, blamed that loss on poor pit strategy.

He said his crew got it right on Saturday as he led 121 of 200 laps, but once again he was beaten at the end.

SAUTER

"We did all the right moves as far as pit strategy," Sauter said. "I hate it. I really needed a win."

The rookie Busch, who led 44 laps in winning for the fourth time this season, said he felt bad for the driver he beat.

"Johnny Sauter really deserved to win both races this weekend," he said. "But the best car sometimes does not end up in front at the end."

INSIDE VICTORY LANE

Points race heating up as 'Chase' nears

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Indianapolis

With five races to go before the cut-off for the 10-race "Chase to the Championship," the points race took an interesting turn as points leader Jimmie Johnson saw his lead over Gordon shrink from 232 to 97 after he blew an engine and finished 36th.

Johnson, who won the previous week in a runaway at Pocono, was never a factor in the 400. He spun early, and was far behind the leaders when the engine seized in his No. 48 Chevrolet on Lap 88.

"Last week we were the heroes, and today we definitely weren't that," Johnson said.

With NASCAR's new championship format, which resets the points after the Sept. 11 race at Richmond, Johnson's points loss isn't as significant as it might have been in previous years.

"It all resets here in a little bit anyway," he said.

The top 10 remained the same, but Ryan Newman, who wrecked on Lap 155 and finished 31st, dropped from eighth to 10th.

The drivers outside the top 10 trying to get in have renewed optimism. Kahne, who is 11th in the standings, is just 31 points out of the elite group, and his teammate Jeremy Mayfield is just 32 out.

Despite a blown tire on the last lap that dropped him from fourth to 25th in the Brickyard 400, Mark Martin is just 123 points out of the 10th spot in the standings.

Looking out for sponsor

Jeff Gordon cleverly dodged the Victory Lane sponsor conflicts of recent races by stopping his car on the track and celebrating (right) away from Victory Lane.

His teammate Jimmie Johnson, who like Gordon is sponsored by Pepsi, was fined $10,000 for obscuring a Powerade prop in Victory Lane at Pocono.

NASCAR spokesman Jim Hunter said NASCAR won't penalize Gordon for his method of celebration.

"We've had guys do that before," Hunter said, adding that if drivers make a habit of not going directly to Victory Lane, a "more stringent protocol" will be established.

Kelly Promoted At First United

William B. Grant, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of First United Bank & Trust, has announced the promotion of Eva M. Kelly to assistant vice president.

"We are extremely proud of Eva for her accomplishments," Grant said. "Her vast knowledge and experience in bank operations certainly merit her promotion to assistant vice president."

Kelly began her career at First United in April 1995 as a staff auditor. In March 1997, she became manager of account services, which oversees the bank's deposit operations. She received in May 1999 the added responsibility of managing item processing, and until this recent promotion has been serving as the manager of account services and processing.

Kelly is a graduate of West Virginia University with a bachelor of arts degree in business with an emphasis in accounting. She is also a certified public accountant.

"Eva has worked very hard to acquire this well-deserved position," stated Philip D. Frantz, senior vice president and director of operations. "Her dedication to her work will serve her well in this new position."

Kelly is a member of the board of directors for the Terra Alta Ambulance Squad. She resides in Terra Alta, W.Va., with her husband John. She has two sons, Rich and Shawn.

JENNINGS RANDOLPH LAKE CAMPGROUND RECEIVES AWARD – The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Baltimore District announced last week that the Robert W. Craig Campground at Jennings Randolph Lake has received the America's Top 100 Family Campgrounds award for 2004. The honor is given annually by Reserve America. According to the corps, Reserve America is North America's leading camping reservation provider, serving agencies such as the USDA Forest Service, the National Park Service, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Each year more than 3,000 campgrounds are reviewed by park staff, rangers, and by consumers who provide testimonials. From that list, Reserve America selects the "100 best" that provide consumers "outstanding" locations and services to bring their families to a "fun, safe, educational, and memorable family-bonding experience." "Thanks goes out to our campers, campground attendants, and the entire Jennings Randolph Lake staff for all their efforts in achieving this award," said a corps spokesperson. Pictured are the Jennings Randolph Lake ranger staff and park attendant staff. In the front row, left to right, are Skeet Hatfield, Linda Hatfield, Emily Robinson, and Robbie Robinson. In the back row are Eric Risinger, Norm Dennis, John Hearn, and Bill Donnellan.

The local ARC chapter is also sponsoring a fundraising raffle of over $1,000 in prizes and gifts donated by several sponsors. The prizes include gift certificates good for meals at various restaurants and items at various gift shops and stores, ski lift tickets, an auto service appointment, flowers, fitness club membership, clothing, boat rental, a savings bond, a golf outing, and ice cream. Raffle tickets are $1 each or six for $5. The drawings will take place on the final day of the fair, and winners will be notified by phone and mail.

GC Scholarships Available For Penn. Residents

Regional scholarships are available for residents of Somerset and Fayette counties in Pennsylvania who enroll in certain Garrett College career programs, according to a spokesperson. These scholarships reduce the out-of-state tuition cost so that the student pays the same tuition – $76 per credit hour – as a resident of Garrett County.

These scholarships can be applied to both two-year degree and one-year certificate programs in Adventure Sports and Natural Resources & Wildlife Technology, including the option of environmental agriculture. They can also be applied to the one-year certificate in Agribusiness, an option under the Business Management program.

Anyone desiring further information about the regional scholarships may call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044. Scholarships become effective when students register for fall semester. Classes begin Sept. 8.

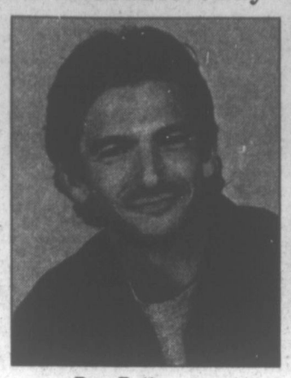
Prodigal brother Vincent returns to 'Amy'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it



Dan Futterman

Q: I recently heard just the tail end of an entertainment report, but I think it said something about Dan Futterman rejoining the cast of "Judging Amy." He was a favorite, but I haven't been able to find anything definite on the situation. –Laurie in Atlanta.

A: "Judging Amy" fans – and CBS executives, no doubt – are celebrating the news that Dan Futterman has agreed to resume his role as Judge Amy Gray's (Amy Brenneman) brother, Vincent, starting this fall.

A favorite among the show's viewers, Futterman asked to be released from his contract in 2001 in order to to spend time with his wife and daughter.

The actor's decision to return couldn't come at a better time for CBS. Ratings for "Amy" began to falter last year, and as the show enters its sixth season against an apparently unstoppable "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit" on NBC, the endearing Vincent might help shore up the eroding fan base of "Judging Amy."

Q: I have seen the actress who plays Calamity Jane in "Deadwood" in guest appearances on "Law & Order." Will she be back in the second season of the HBO series? –Mary E. Hayes via e-mail.

A: Her character may have wandered out of town shortly before the first season ended, but theater veteran Robin Weigert, who copped an Emmy nomination for her colorful and gutsy performance as Calamity Jane, is hard at work right now filming Season 2 of the hit HBO series.

Weigert, previously seen in the brief role of the Mormon mother in HBO's "Angels in America," also made guest appearances in the spring on "Cold Case" and "NYPD Blue." I predict you'll be seeing a lot more of this smart, versatile actress.

Q: Is movie and TV show composer Randy Newman ("Toy Story," "Monk") related to the famous movie composer Alfred Newman? –S.A., Michigan City, Ind.

A: Alfred Newman, who died of emphysema in 1970 after winning a record nine Oscars and setting another record for most Academy Award nominations, was Randy's uncle.

And while we're at it, Alfred was the brother of composers Lionel and Emil Newman, as well as the father of composers Thomas, Maria and David Newman.

The Right Ingredients

If you cook, this scenario might sound familiar. You are trying a new cake recipe. You combine the ingredients and pour the batter in baking pans. When the time arrives to remove the finished product, your face falls as you discover something resembling a pancake! Then you remember. You left out an ingredient. Just one ingredient would have made all the difference.

Do you ever feel that way...that something is missing from your life? Wouldn't it be wonderful if you could find the right ingredient... one that could make your spirit rise to new heights?

We read in Psalm 121:1-2... "I lift up my eyes to the hills. From whence does my help come? My help comes from the Lord, Who made heaven and earth."

Is the Lord missing from your life? Won't you worship this week at your local House of worship? Let your spirit soar.

Maintaining Your Dignity

The principal danger of arguing with fools is that we are more likely to sink to their level than to raise them up to ours. Likewise, it can be extremely difficult to deal with those who hate us without ending up in a seething cauldron of hatred ourselves. Can you be honest with those who lie to you? Can you trust those who don't trust you? Rudyard Kipling's edifying poem "If" inspires us to believe that, "If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs and blaming it on you; If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you... Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies, or being hated, don't give way to hating... Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it." Surely this may be a bit of an overstatement, but the man or woman who can resist hating those who hate them and losing their head when others are doing just that has surely gained a measure of self-mastery worth emulating.

So, the next time a fool or a scoundrel tries to pull you down to their level, consider it best to hold your tongue and safeguard your heart.

Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest you be like him yourself.

Cranberry Juice May Prevent UTIs

Increasing your intake of cranberry juice is a natural remedy for treating an active urinary tract infection (UTI). New research published in a recent issue of Clinical Infectious Diseases helps confirm that supplementing with cranberry in the diet on a regular basis can prevent UTIs in some individuals. According to the researchers, the most likely group to gain from the preventative benefits of the cranberry include sexually active adult women who have recurrent problems with infection. In the study, they experienced a 50% drop in infection rates.

Cranberry's infection fighting abilities are believed to stem from the presence of two compounds that work together to keep infection-causing bacteria from adhering to the lining of the urinary tract. While the cranberry seems to have traditional antibiotic activity against a host of other germs, it is not known if it reaches the necessary concentrations in the bladder to work in this same manner.

Paw's corner

Outdoor Fish Need Special Care

Q. I'm 10 years old and my first name is Kristin, and I just happened to read your article about the goldfish. My brother and my dad just built a pond and we have goldfish and a Betta in it. Could the white spot disease happen in the pond? Why do you call your column "Paw's Corner"? — Sincerely, Kristin, via e-mail

A. Good question! Yes, pet fish have about an equal chance of contracting white spot disease (Ich) in an open pond or in an aquarium. They are susceptible to it and other types of parasites and diseases when their immune system falters due to stress. A sudden drop in water temperature, for example, can be troublesome for a goldfish, and owners often notice Ich after such an event.

So, regulating water temperature, along with pH levels and overall cleanliness, is important in keeping your fish healthy. This is especially true in an outdoor pond, where the weather affects the water's temperature. The pond should be deep enough to keep from freezing over in the winter, partially shaded to keep from getting too warm in the summer and protected from outdoor dangers like raccoons, cats and birds. (Water beetles and dragonfly larvae pose hard-to-see threats as well.) Aquarium plants, especially lily pads, can help regulate temperatures and provide security.

Goldfish are tough little guys, but they can get sick. Keep your old aquarium tank and gear nearby to use as a quarantine tank should disease or parasites appear. Also, keep an eye on that little Betta: He prefers slightly warmer water than goldfish do, and can be aggressive to smaller fish.

Why do I call my column "Paw's Corner?" Well, it's named after my cat, Paws, who sleeps away most days in a sunny corner ... and has an opinion on almost everything.

Collecting

Waffle Iron

Q. We have a stovetop waffle iron that was manufactured by Stover. We would like to know if it has any value as a collectible. We read your column in Grit. — Hershel and Freda, Jackson, Mo.

A. Believe it or not, I was a Grit newspaper carrier during the 1950s when I was growing up in Charleston, Ark. I still enjoy the paper and am pleased you read my column in it.

I searched several of my reference books, including 300 Years of Kitchen Collectibles by Linda Campbell Franklin (Krause Publications, $29.95). Although it doesn't have a Stover waffle iron, it features several others that were manufactured to be used on stovetops. Prices depend on rarity and desirability.

A rule of thumb is the more intricate the waffle iron, the higher the price. For example, the Yum Yum waffle iron manufactured by Griswold for hotel kitchens is valued at between $500 and $1,200, depending on size and model. Most of the other simpler ones fall into the $40-$100 range, again depending on rarity and desirability. I would think that your waffle iron might fall into that range, too.

Note to Readers: If you have kitchen collectibles in your house, the book mentioned above is an absolute must. It contains thousands of listings, photos and even vintage recipes. The prices seem accurate to me, and it is fun to see the various items that were used by cooks of yesteryear.

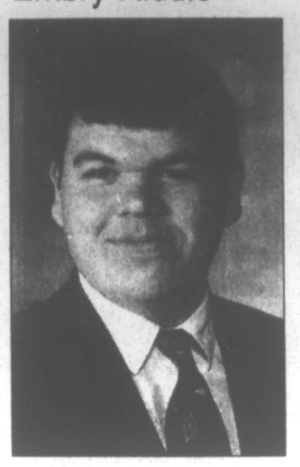
Earns Scholarship For Studies At Embry-Riddle



Andrew J. Murray has been awarded a 3-Year Advance Designee Army ROTC scholarship to Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University's College of Aviation at Daytona Beach, Fla., commencing fall semester 2005. The scholarship includes tuition, room and board, book allowance, and an annual stipend. He was chosen from a nationwide pool of 250 outstanding high school seniors. The award is based on scholastic, athletic, and leadership abilities.

In addition, Murray was awarded a one-year scholarship directly from Embry-Riddle for his freshman year at the university beginning fall semester of 2004.

Embry-Riddle is considered to be the foremost aeronautical university in the world, according to a university spokesperson, who added that both private industry and government agencies look to Embry-Riddle to design projects across a broad spectrum of aviation-related subjects. Projects at the university range from basic research in astrophysics for the National Science Foundation to the development of new flight training curricula for the FAA and NASA. The university also researches airborne pollutants, measures space debris and rocket sound waves, monitors flight training, and analyzes terrorism and espionage in aviation and aerospace.

Murray is a 2004 honors graduate of Southern High School. He received the President's Award for Educational Excellence, the Minds in Motion Scholar Athlete Award for track, and the Music Minds in Motion Award. He has been recognized twice in Who's Who Among American High School Students, inducted twice into Southern High's 1200 Club, and has received two U.S. Achievement Academy awards. He was a member of the marching band, concert band, stage band, honor band, and winter percussion. He was also a member of Southern's track team, the National Honor Society, and the United States Civil Air Patrol.

Murray's studies will include flight crew techniques, navigation, meteorology, human factors, aerodynamics, safety procedures, flight physiology, and aircraft systems. The curriculum also includes commercial pilot certification and multi-engine rating. Upon graduation from Embry-Riddle with a bachelor's degree in aeronautical science, Murray will be commissioned in the United States Army as a second lieutenant.

Murray is the son of Daniel and Arlene Murray of Deep Creek Lake.

YOU GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR!

Many sellers are tempted to avoid paying commission for representation by a real estate agent. But be careful you can pay for what you get if you find yourself confronted with difficult or unqualified buyers, complicated legal transactions, or confusing bank financing.

However, you more than get what you pay for when you list with a qualified professional. You're likely to sell faster with an agent. Why? Your representative will list your home on the MLS (Multiple Listing Service), and market and advertise in newspapers, magazines, brochures, and websites.

Imagine what it would cost you to promote your home in such a manner! Plus the more quickly your home sells, the more money you'll save on mortgage payments, utilities, maintenance, and other expenses.

What about an Open House (or two or three)? Are you willing to invite strangers into your home without an appointment or knowing whether they are even qualified to make the purchase? Your agent targets the right buyers and ensures they're qualified before they even step foot inside!

It all boils down to risk risk that your home will languish on the market, risk that you'll waste untold dollars on untargeted advertising, risk of showing your home to people without interest or qualification. Take a lesson in risk management and let a professional sell your home in less time for more money!

If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call at the office, or on my cell phone at 301-501-DALE

Young Adventurers Get Taste Of Outdoors In GC Adventure Camp

by Joan Crawford

A two-week adventure camp in early July at Camp Deep Creek gave 14 young campers opportunities to experience recreation in the mountains and streams of this area, and to live with a diverse group of other young people from different family backgrounds. The camp was planned and staffed by administrators and instructors of the Adventuresports Institute (ASI) at Garrett College.

Mike Logsdon, who is executive director of the ASI, served as camp director, and Scott Richardson, a graduate of the adventure sports program at the college, as head counselor. Other counselors were Gatan Waddell and Stacey Sparks, both graduates of the Adventure Sports program, and Patrick DiGioia, a Transitional Aged Youth (TAY) program participant who served as counselor-in-training.

According to Logsdon this was the first year the ASI had its own camp. "It worked very well," he said. "We mixed three different populations of young people, from a low-income housing authority in Hagerstown, from affluent suburbs of Washington and Baltimore, one from Maine, and three TAY participants. They made friends quickly and were a very manageable group."

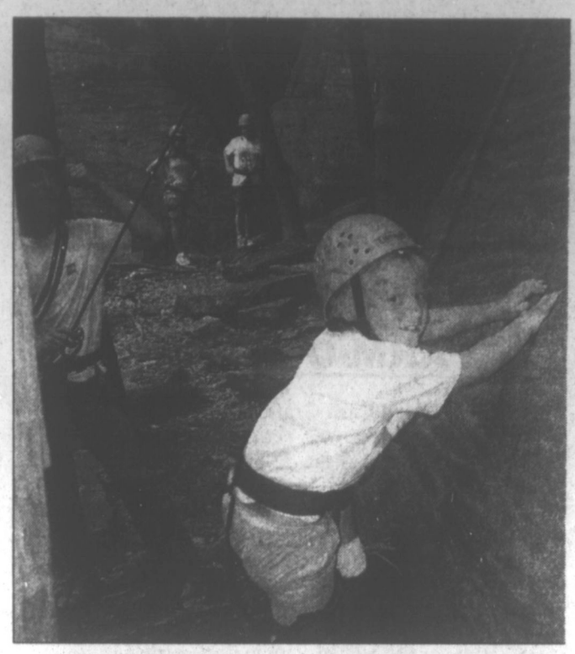
Both boys and girls ages 12-15 years attended the camp, which provided two weeks of challenging adventure activities as well as games and "fun" things. Campers went white-water paddling on the Cheat River, climbing at Cooper's Rock, mountain biking at New Germany and Big Bear Lake, caving at Laurel Caverns, and overnight camping in tents at Piney Mountain. They also learned to navigate a challenging ropes course, rode to the top of the mountain on a chair lift at the Wisp, went on a nature hike with naturalist Chad Messerly, and went swimming. For fun there were soccer and kickball games – where the girls beat the boys – and a movie night.

In addition to the many physical activities, campers learned to make bird feeders and the group made a camp flag from a large sheet where each person designed a square which they got to take home, along with a new camp T-shirt.

Richardson expressed his satisfaction with this year's camp. "It was a melting pot of different backgrounds," he said. "Seeing the kids from different cultures get along so well together was most rewarding. We are looking forward to expanding it next year and possibly to have a four-week program. There are so many great natural resources here. One of our goals is to provide opportunities for our students in the Adventure Sports program to get experience teaching and leading these activities."

Logsdon affirmed the plan to have another adventure camp. "This year's camp has helped the young participants gain confidence in overcoming challenges and working as a team with young people of different backgrounds. And it has provided a venue for our recent graduates to apply the skills they have learned. We definitely want to do it again."

Although dates have not been set for next year's camp, persons desiring to receive information about the camp may call the Adventure Sports office at 301-387-3330.



GOING UP IN (AND ON) THE WORLD – Swanton resident Coy Ozias is pictured enjoying a climb with Camp Deep Creek Adventures at Cooper's Rock State Park. Standing in the near background is certified climbing instructor Gatan Waddell, a graduate of Garrett College's Adventuresports Institute, providing positive reinforcement and a belay as Coy begins his climb. Bloodmobile Nets 64 Units During Grantsville Visit

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile visit to Grantsville on Aug. 2 resulted in the collection of 64 units. A total of 87 people visited the site, but officials reported an unusually high number of deferrals.

Dolores Lapp and Samuel Stanton reached the seven-gallon level at the visit, while Donna Gilpin, Toby Gilpin, and Roman Beachy each completed one gallon.

Volunteers assisting with the visit were Lila Maust, Amanda Yoder, Missy Fazenbaker, and Lela Bender.

OUTBOUND STUDENTS – Two local students were recently selected by the Grantsville Rotary to spend a year studying abroad. Pictured above, far left, is Steve Rounds, who will be staying in Bariloche, Argentina. He is the son of Dave and Sharon Rounds, Grantsville. At the far right is Annie Winter, who will be studying in Dorsten, Germany. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Winter, Accident. In the middle are Rotary scholarship recipients Yesha Patel (middle left) and Elizabeth Podlesnik (middle right).

Class Slated For Property Owners Along DC Lake

An eighth grader at Southern Middle School, Brittany is the daughter of Teresa and Keith Harvey of Oakland.

Zion Lutheran Women Convene

Women of the ELCA of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on August 5.

The study, "Resting on God's Promises," was led by Leota Baker. The lesson considered the themes of suffering, hope, and trust, which, according to a spokesperson, "led us to consider that suffering is part of the process of redemption, as we await the fulfillment of the divine promise that all things will be reconciled to God." This lesson concluded the summer Bible study, "All Creation is Longing."

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

Tribute to the memory of Jack Yommer has been made through a gift offering to Women of the ELCA–Churchwide. This offering was designated to the specific ministry "Reaching Out With the Gospel."

Zion's Women of the ELCA will sponsor the annual washcloth shower for the Lutheran Home in Kane, Pa. All donations should be submitted by the first week in September and may be in white or pastel colors.

The new study series – "Everyday Surprises: Parables of Jesus" – will begin in September.

The new market will give youth vendors a chance to continue selling their produce after school starts and allow customers to pick up fresh produce on their way home from work. The youth have been selling fresh produce, baked goods, jams and jellies, and crafts during the regular Mountain Fresh farmers' market held Wednesdays and Saturdays at 10 a.m. in Oakland and Thursdays at 10 a.m. at the fairgrounds in McHenry. "Many customers have expressed an interest in having an evening market during the work week, where customers could stop at the market after work to pick up fresh produce," said agriculture marketing specialist Cheryl DeBerry, Garrett County Economic Development. "This new market will test whether there is enough demand for such an evening market in the future." For more information about this and other markets in Garrett County, persons may visit online at MountainFresh.org, or call the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960 or Cathy Sanders with Mountain Fresh at 301-334-4580. PROMOTES TOBACCO-USE PREVENTION – The Northern Middle School SASS (Students Against Starting Smoking) Club recently gave a presentation to participants in the Accident Summer After-School Program about tobacco-use prevention and how companies use various advertising tactics to promote tobacco use among youth. To demonstrate their point, club members made a large mural containing tobacco ads from magazines for the after-school students to see. "After the presentation, the students ran through the mural to show they were not going to let the advertisements trick them into using tobacco," said a Garrett County Health Department spokesperson. Pictured, left to right are SASS Club members Elizabeth Engle and Chelsie Custer holding the mural with the after-school students standing in the back. The Accident Summer After-School Program is a 21st Century Community Learning Center Grant funded by the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc.

Valley Point Airport Fly-In To Benefit Scholarship Program

The fourth annual Mike Miller Memorial Fly-In is set for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 21-22, at the Valley Point Airport in Preston County. Although the event is free for participants and spectators alike, donations will be accepted for the Mike Miller Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Miller was a 39-year-old Albright resident and a skilled amateur pilot who was killed in December 2000 when his ultralight craft crashed near Kingwood. The Bruceton Mills native left behind a wife and two sons, and his widow Debbie founded the memorial scholarship this year to benefit a Preston High School senior who is interested in furthering his or her education in flying, engineering, or aeronautics.

The Mike Miller Memorial Fly-In will feature aircraft of all types, contests, door prizes, food, and a visit from World War II Navy aviator and noted Alaskan wilderness pilot Jim Anderson, author of the memoir Arctic Bush Pilot.

Fly-in pilots are encouraged to bring their standard planes, ultralights, powered parachutes, and model airplanes. The land surrounding the air strip contains space for a number of planes, tents, campers, and motor homes, and spaces will be available beginning on Friday, Aug. 20.

Saturday's activities include a noon lunch for which hot dogs and drinks will be served, followed by a 1:30 p.m. spot landing contest for all planes and a 3 p.m. "bomb drop" (water balloon) contest. A covered dish dinner is slated for 5 p.m.

Anderson and his wife Betty, who reside in Pennsylvania, will be available after Saturday's dinner to speak about and sign copies of Arctic Bush Pilot. The autobiographical account, published in 2000, tells the story of one of Alaska's pioneer bush pilots, who flew alone across the northern reaches of Alaska's Brooks Range in a variety of aircraft including Cessna 170s, Republic Seabees, and Noorduyn Norsemen.

"Between flying pregnant women to the hospital and taking hunters into Alaska's barely charted (and often incorrectly charted) mountainous north for caribou, dal sheep, and bear, and hauling fisherman and medical supplies, this is the real story of Alaska's early years of aviation," a spokesperson said of Anderson's autobiography. "It covers a time when such pilots had to do everything, from storing fuel, fixing engines, to running their flight operations out of a tent alongside a small grass strip in the middle of native Alaskan wilderness. Unusual freight included live wolves and sled dogs, and a farm wagon that had to strapped to the bottom of the landing gear. Temperatures of 50 below were not uncommon."

Sunday's slate gets under way at 7 a.m. with a buckwheat cake breakfast, followed by 10:30 a.m. church services. Dinner will be served at noon, and bicycle relay races for children age 7 to 12 will begin at 1:30 p.m. Racers must bring their own bikes, and prizes will be awarded. Door prize winners will be drawn daily.

The coordinates for the Valley Point Airport are latitude 39-34-47.302N, longitude 079-38-59.181W (39.5798061/-79.6497725). The strip sits at an elevation of 2,000 feet (610 meters) at runway 8/26, and the radio frequency is 123.45.

Motorists can travel from the Garrett County area via Interstate 68 west to the Bruceton Mills exit, then follow Route 26 south for six miles to Valley Point; follow signs to the airport.

For more information, persons may call Bob Smith at 304-329-0205.

The National FFA Organization has awarded a $1,000 Dodge Division/DaimlerChrysler Corporation Fund scholarship to Aaron Turner of Elk Garden. Turner plans to use the funds to pursue a degree at Potomac State College, Keyser.

The scholarship is one of 1,656 awarded through the National FFA Scholarship Program this year. Currently, 171 corporate sponsors contribute more than $2 million to support this program.

Scholarship recipients were selected from 6,390 applicants from across the nation. Selections were based on the applicant's academic record, FFA and other school and community activities, supervised agricultural experience program in agricultural education, and future goals.

Turner, a graduate of Keyser High School, is the son of Jeffrey and Joyce Turner. He is the grandson of Eugene Turner and Leonard and Peggy Spiker, all of Elk Garden, and the late Betty Turner Hanlin.

Next Garden Club Meeting To Feature "Herbs 101" Topic

"Herbs 101–Culinary and Medicinal Herbs" will be the featured topic at the Aug. 19 Cranberry Garden Club meeting. The group will meet at 7 p.m. in the Boathouse at Alpine Lake Resort.

Nancy-Elizabeth Nimmich, an herbalist who owns Honey Grace Farm in Gar-rett County, will speak to the group about growing herbs and the many benefits of herbal plants. She grows and sells organic produce, herbs, and honey on her farm, as well as herbal salves and tinctures.

A business meeting and refreshments will follow Nimmich's program.

The Cranberry Garden Club's recent activities include selling plants, cleaning up the gardens at the Terra Alta Park Community Building, and helping with plantings at Hopemont Hospital.

In September, club members will travel to a nearby state park to learn about identifying butterflies and attracting them to their gardens.

The group welcomes both men and women as members and meets on the third Thursday of each month in the Kingwood and Terra Alta area. For more information, persons may call Peggy Nagel at 304-789-5555 or Nancy Reger at 304-789-5927.

Weight Gain: A Side-Effect of Certain Drugs

Various news reports indicate that obesity is on the rise in the United States. For the most part, poor diet and lack of exercise is mostly to blame. However, certain medications can make the problem worse. Certain prescription drugs can cause you to gain up to a pound a week. In the quest to lose weight, it is important to talk to your doctor about the foods you choose, your exercise routine, and the medicines you are taking.

While weight gain is a side effect listed in the prescribing information on a wide variety of drugs, certain medicines are much more likely to cause a person to gain weight. Long term use of oral steroids and the mood stabilizer medicine Lithium has been known to worsen obesity. Popular anti-depressants like fluoxetine, sertraline, or paroxetine can help shed pounds initially, but this type of weight loss is temporary and is sometimes overcome by a rebound in weight gain. Even over-the-counter products like the allergy or cold medicine diphenhydramine have been linked to weight gain. Never discontinue medications without your doctor's knowledge, even if discontinuation of certain drugs might help shed a few pounds.

"I am writing to you to express how extremely satisfied I was with the customer support I received. I was more satisfied with ProCom's customer service in one day than I ever was in the five months I dealt with my past carrier. Project exhibits were displayed and judged at this time. Members registered exhibits for the Buckwheat Festival and were told of the delay of the premium book which contains the entry forms. They were also told of the deadline date for returning those forms.

President Sara Lewis called the meeting to order and Caitlin Norwish and Trevor Spaid of the Recreation Committee led the devotions using the theme, "Love." Cody Hardesty led the group in the pledges. Twelve members answered the roll call, and the president read the minutes of the June meeting. The secretary has not been attending, nor is active.

Tracy Teets attended Older Members' Conference, Caitlin Roth and Debbie Collins attended Older County Camp, and Nathaniel Lawler attended Younger County Camp. Both of these received a scholarship from the club as partial payment.

The flower bed at the memorial building was planted by Linda Lewis, Sara Lewis, and Caitlin Norwish.

Members are reminded to continue to save pop tabs, Campbell product labels, and General Mills Box Tops for Education. Sue Corbin reported that she had purchased school supplies to fill the bag for the 4-H elimination dinner. The leader explained the need for the funds to roof the main building at the 4-H camp and that this was the method selected, but no parent seemed interested in purchasing a ticket. They will now be returned to enable others to have the opportunity to sell them.

Nathaniel Lawler gave a report on his camp experience and showed the club some of the tie-dyed things he'd made in crafts .

County award forms were handed out and they are due at the Extension Office by Sept. 30. Debbie Collins indicated interest in completing such a form.

Oct. 3-9 is National 4-H Week and after some discussion, the club has decided it will make tie-dyed shirts to wear in celebration of the occasion. This is to be done at the Sept. 13 meeting to be held at the Eglon Memorial Building. There will also be a fall clean-up at this time and an election of officers for the coming 4-H year.

SELLING IN STYLE, Bruceton Mills resident Anna Casteel, shown above, a longtime former resident of Oakland, has earned her eighth "Mary Kay career car" in recognition of her outstanding sales performance for Mary Kay. The Dallas-based company, one of the largest direct sellers of skin care and color cosmetics in the world, presented Casteel with this new Pontiac Grand Am through Fraley Motor Company of Kingwood. "The Career Car program provides our independent sales force the opportunity to earn the use of a visible symbol of success," said Tom Whatley, president of sales and marketing for Mary Kay Inc. "Each car in this exciting incentive program reflects the hard work, determination, and professionalism of our independent sales force."

Marie Mullenax of Horse Shoe Run accompanied her daughters and granddaughters to Myrtle Beach, S.C., for a July 26-30 vacation and visit with a daughter there, Janet Gillespie. Making the trip were Heather Mullenax, Fairmont, Trish Rumer, Oakland, Lona Filsinger, Lori Miller, and Jarrett of Swanton, and Stephanie Filsinger of Oakland.

Hancell Teets returned Saturday to his home near Aurora after being a patient at Monongalia General Hospital.

Bill Hauser was again a patient at Monongalia General Hospital for a few days of tests last week. He returned Friday to his home near Aurora.

The Rev. Clyde Hylton and wife, Mona, of Richmond, Ind., were visitors in this area last Thursday.

A family gathering of the Parsons family was held at the home of Leonard, Tammy, Daniel and Michael Parsons at Horse Shoe Run this weekend. Others attending were Van and Janet Marceau and children; Evelyn Johnson, Hedgesville, John, Shirley, and Steve Parsons, Aurora; and Ron Parsons, Carlton and Jean Skipper, Kingwood.

MountainMade Slates Intermediate Knitting Workshop

The MountainMade Foundation will offer a one-day knitting workshop on Saturday, Aug. 21, at the Thomas Education Center in Thomas. Canaan Valley fiber artist Margot Ours will instruct the class, which is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The class is suitable for those who have taken Ours's beginning workshop or who have basic knitting skills. Students will make a shawl or scarf using the Continental method, which, according to Ours, is a quick and efficient way to knit. The technique is common in the United States and in parts of Europe.

Ours learned to knit and crochet at a very young age. A native of Germany, she credits her mother, aunts, and schoolteachers with teaching her techniques, as well as pride in workmanship. Some of her fiber and fabric creations include wall hangings, necklaces, baby clothing, and cashmere shawls. Her work is available in many West Virginia retail outlets and in several surrounding states.

There will be a nominal materials fee for the workshop, and pre-registration is required. For more information or to register, persons may call 304-468-3355 or toll free 877-686-6233.

Felting Workshop Slated At Thomas Education Center

The MountainMade Foundation will offer a felting workshop on Saturday, Aug. 21, at the Thomas Education Center in Thomas. Award-winning fiber artist Lori Flood of Morgantown will teach the class, which is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. No experience is necessary.

Flood's felted creations are featured at MountainMade.com, Tamarack, the Wheeling Artisan Center, the Gallery at the Seneca Center, and at galleries in other states. Last year she won an Award of Excellence in the West Virginia Juried Exhibition 2003 at the Cultural Center in Charleston.

Students will use sheep's wool and what Flood calls the "plastic resist" technique to create felted mittens, berets, pouches, or other hollow forms. Wool fibers naturally become felt when they are rubbed by hand "in the presence of warm, soapy water." No sewing, weaving, or binding agents are necessary.

Flood will provide wool in a wide variety of colors, and students will have the option to incorporate surface designs and textures to their projects.

There will be a materials fee for the workshop, and pre-registration is required. For more information and registration, persons may call 304-463-3355 or toll free 877-686-6233.

Website Design

Executive Summary

Garrett College seeks a service firm to create an attractive graphical layout with dynamic elements for its existing website. The web site will be used as a marketing tool as well as for informational purposes.

Organizational Overview

Garrett College is a two-year learner-centered college located in a rural four-season recreational environment in western Maryland. Garrett has been offering quality and affordable education since opening in 1971. The College offers transfer programs leading to Associate of Arts (A.A.) and Associate of Arts in Teaching (A.A.T.) degrees; career programs leading to the Associate in Applied Science (A.A.S.) degree; and a variety of one-year certificate programs. Students can go on to acquire one of ten Bachelor of Science degrees online through Garrett's affiliation with Franklin University. In addition, the College offers numerous noncredit classes through its Continuing Education and Training division.

Overlooking Deep Creek Lake and the Wisp ski area in the Allegheny Mountains of western Maryland, Garrett's campus is surrounded by the forests, lakes, farms, and whitewater rivers that are the outdoor classrooms of its students in the Adventure Sports and Natural Resources & Wildlife Technology programs. These signature programs focus on sustainable use of the natural environment. The College has acquired a national and international reputation for its Adventure Sports degree, which is unique in the United States, and a regional reputation for its program in Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology. In addition, Garrett College initiated another unique signature program in Juvenile Justice.

Garrett's faculty are committed to instructional excellence, high academic standards, and learner-centered support for students. A low student-faculty (15:1) ratio offers students individualized attention in their studies. Garrett's graduates are well prepared for success in their chosen careers and for successful transfer to the many institutions with which it holds transfer articulation agreements. Garrett College students who transfer to a Maryland college typically outperform transfers from the other Maryland community colleges. Garrett College is also a national leader in the use of advanced telecommunications and computer technology to serve the needs of rural communities. In addition, Garrett was the first community college in Maryland to acquire a dormitory for its students.

Garrett College is truly a community working together toward its mission to provide quality higher education, lifelong learning, and access to the universe of information so that individuals, businesses, and the community can achieve personal, entrepreneurial, and collective success. Herrington Manor Receives Loan Of Kawasaki Jet Ski Herrington Manor State Park has added a Kawasaki 900 STX Jet Ski watercraft to its lineup of lifesaving rescue equipment. Provided by the Aquatic Center in McHenry, the watercraft will be used by park rangers summoned to assist distressed swimmers, tow disabled boats to safety, and respond to other water emergencies.

Kawasaki Motors Corporation U.S.A. sponsors an ongoing loan program that allows Kawasaki dealers to provide watercraft to qualified agencies across the country for periods of up to one year. The Aquatic Center arranged this loan and will service the vessel for the duration of the loan period.

The loan program was implemented following successful use of Jet Ski watercraft by life-saving and marine enforcement agencies throughout the country, according to Roger Hagie, director of public affairs for Kawasaki.

"These Jet Ski watercraft are ideally suited to rescue situations," Hagie said "They're quick and maneuverable, and they have no exposed propellers or other moving parts on the outside of the hull that could harm a swimmer. In addition, Jet Ski watercraft have a very shallow draft, which enables them to operate in low levels of water that might restrict other boats.

"We hope the Jet Ski watercraft can make a significant contribution to water safety in and around Herrington Manor State Park in the coming months."

This year marks the 15th anniversary of Kawasaki's law enforcement loan program.

MUSIC ON THE MOUNTAIN is under way in McHenry, with one successful concert passed and two more to go. The Wisp Lodge was at full capacity Tuesday evening as the Deep Creek Symphony, under the direction of David Wroe, combined talents with the Garrett Choral Society and the Greater Uniontown Chorale to present a rousing rendition of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. The audience of at least 350 responded with a standing ovation for the performance, which also included the presentation of Samuel Barber's Knoxville: Summer of 1915; featuring soprano Jennifer Wilson. The series continues tomorrow evening, Aug. 20, at 7:30 p.m., with a "Salute to Stage and Silver Screen," featuring the music of popular movies and Broadway musicals, as well as patriotic pieces. Weather permitting, the concert will take place on the ski slopes of Wisp and will culminate in a fireworks display. The final concert will be presented on Saturday, Aug. 21, 8 p.m., in the Garrett College auditorium. Pieces by Brahms, Mozart, and Strauss are on the program. For ticket information, persons may call the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival box office at 301-387-3082. The entire 2004 series is dedicated to the memory of renowned violinist Erick Friedman, one of the founders of GLAF and longtime director and soloist with the series. Friedman died in March of this year.

Three GBI Cases Closed This Week With Six Arrests

Detectives with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation made six arrests in three separate cases this week, according to Tfc. J.B. Schlossnagle.

Charles Elmer Friedline, 23, Grantsville, was arrested for the theft of a Yamaha Moto4 all-terrain vehicle. According to police, Ronald Denton Stouffer of Silver Spring reported the theft from his Sky Valley residence sometime in July.

Friedline had been working as a contractor in that area. The ATV was recovered in the Friendsville area, and Friedline was charged on an arrest warrant with one count of theft over $500.

On Wednesday, Michael Adam Kile, 20, and Steven John Kile, 23, both of Joliet, Ill., were charged on the strength of arrest warrants with one count each of assault in the second degree.

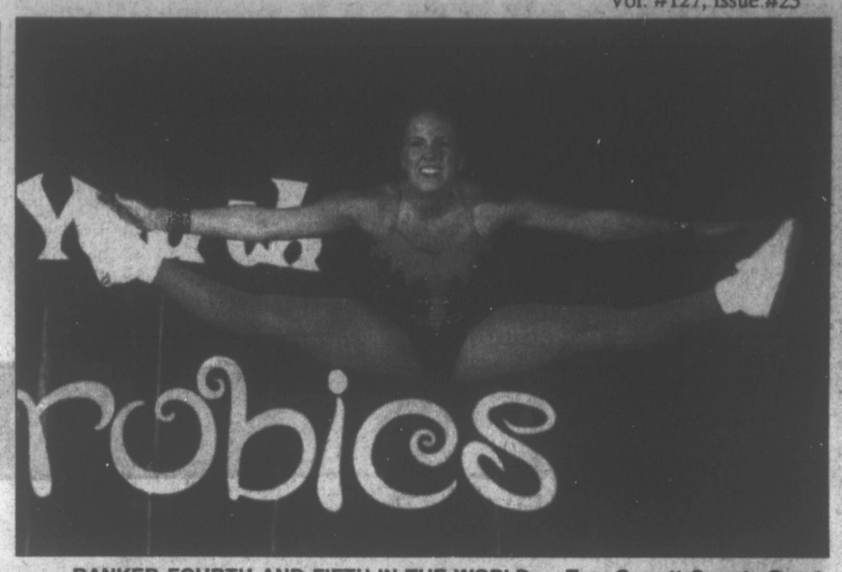
The brothers were being held in the Garrett County Jail on auto theft and theft charges (failing to pay for gas). They were charged after they allegedly entered the unlocked cell of another inmate and beat him as he slept, police said. The victim required medical treatment for his injuries.

Also on Wednesday, three people were charged in relation to a burglary that occurred at the S&S Market on Maple Street in Friendsville on Aug. 10. Investigation by the Maryland State Police revealed that witnesses observed two males break into the store by throwing a chunk of asphalt throught the glass front doors. One male crawled inside and stole cartons of cigarettes, soda, and a bag of chips, according to the report.

After an investigation by GBI, two juvenile males, a 16-year-old from Friendsville and a 15-year-old from Frostburg, were charged with second degree burglary, malicious destruction of property, and theft.

Perry Nelson Hamilton Jr., 23, Frostburg, was charged with one count of theft under $500 after investigation revealed he was also present and received stolen goods from the store.

The juveniles were released to the custody of their parents pending action by the Department of Juvenile Justice. Hamilton is being held at the Garrett County Jail on bond.



RANKED FOURTH AND FIFTH IN THE WORLD — Two Garrett County Sportaerobic Team athletes, along with their many teammates, made an impressive showing at the recent National and World Sportaerobic Championships, held in Los Angeles. Kira Farley, pictured above, became the national champion in the junior varsity individual event, and Jennifer Feaster, below, won gold in the junior division. Feaster is now a 3-time national gold medalist. In the world competition, Feaster placed fifth in her division, and Farley came in fourth. Coach Brenda Brosnihan said the competition was intense for both girls, and for them to both achieve top 10 status in the world contest was very significant. Both girls earned additional medals with their teammates at the event. See story and additional photos.

TA Man Leads W.Va., Md. State Police On Chase

A Terra Alta man was jailed early Sunday after leading West Virginia and Maryland state police in a vehicle pursuit from Preston County into southern Garrett County.

Robert Paul Butler, 32, faces charges of fleeing and eluding police, driving under the influence of alcohol, and other minor traffic offenses.

The incident transpired shortly before 2 a.m., when local police officers joined W.Va. state troopers who had chased Butler across the line into Garrett County. MSP troopers from the McHenry barrack placed "stop sticks" on Garrett Highway just south of Monte Vista Road. Butler's 1992 Toyota ran over the sticks and was disabled as its tires deflated.

Butler was still being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on $10,000 bond as of this morning.

Garrett Co. Sportaerobic Team Brings Home More Gold, Silver, And Bronze

Twenty-eight members of the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team coached by Brenda Brosnihan and Amy Anderson earned numerous awards at the National and World Sportaerobic Championships recently held in Los Angeles.

The competition began with the United States National Championship and World Preliminary round. The team won six national gold and three silver medals, thus dominating the U.S. Nationals for the fifth straight year. Kira Farley became the national champion in the junior varsity individual event, with Jennifer Feaster also winning gold in the junior division.

The teams made a strong finish defeating teams from Virginia, North Carolina, and California.

"Our two junior varsity teams provided lots of excitement, taking the top two positions with a tied score," said Brosnihan. She explained that the team with the higher artistic score broke the tie, thus awarding the national gold medal to the team of Kira Farley, Kelsey Jones, Rachel Margroff, Alayna Gaither, Kellie Shotwell and Jessica Warnick, with the teammates Erin Beiler, Morgan Brosnihan, Paige Carr, Anna Keefer, Samantha Taylor, and Abby Wildesen earning the silver medal.

The junior team of Micaela Beckman, Carson Quigley, Sara King, Olivia Gaither, Callie Vernon, Raeslee Weimer, and Jennifer Feaster won a gold medal in the junior team event, and a silver medal was earned by the team of Mikaela Bernard, Leah Mowbray, Jordan Seaman, Kody Fike, Maddy Whittemore, Alli Shaffer, and Elizabeth Green.

In the trio category, Olivia Gaither, Sara King, and Jennifer Feaster earned a gold medal. Kira Farley, Kelsey Jones, and Rachel Margroff took a silver medal in the junior varsity trio division, and silver medals were also awarded to individual competitors Rachel Margroff (junior varsity) and Alissa Garland (varsity).

Marlana Beitzel competed in the U.S. Nationals Class One Women's event, ranking fourth place.

"Marlana competed against the very best in our sport and her success was truly inspiring," said Coach Brosnihan. "Our goals were for her to make the final round of competition, so when she was just one placement from the medal stand, we were elated. Being the youngest competitor and ranking so well her very first year gained her the respect and attention of the judges and fellow competitors."

Girl Killed In Accident, Five Family Members Hospitalized

A Tucker County, W.Va., girl was killed and her five family members were hospitalized following a motor vehicle accident on Rt. 219 just south of Jasper Riley Road around midnight Friday, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

William S. Friend, 41, was operating a 2002 Chrysler minivan northbound, when for an undetermined reason the vehicle crossed the center then traveled into a grassy drainage ditch on the southbound shoulder. The vehicle came to rest after striking a culvert pipe and embankment, police said.

Friend was flown by Trooper 5 to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland. Jennifer Friend, 33, and their four juvenile daughters were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

One daughter was pronounced dead at the hospital. The children's names and ages were not released.

Jennifer Friend was later transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va.

All five of the surviving family members were reportedly still hospitalized on Saturday, but their conditions were not available.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is continuing to investigate the accident.

Southern Rescue and Northern Rescue squads and Oakland firefighters assisted at the scene.

Polls On Bear Hunt Proposal Contradictory

In an apparent direct contradiction of a poll conducted by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources earlier this summer, an animal rights group said this week that its own survey revealed majority opposition to the state's proposed bear hunt.

The Fund for Animals said that 57 percent of the 847 Maryland residents it surveyed in a poll conducted by an Annapolis research firm opposed the hunt. Of that figure, 36 percent said they strongly opposed lifting the bear hunting ban, and 21 percent said they were moderately opposed. The survey's margin of error was 3½ percent, according to a spokesperson for Gonzales Research and Marketing Strategies.

DNR Wildlife and Heritage Service director Paul Peditto disputed the group's survey, specifically calling one question "misleading." The question was: "Black bears were once hunted to near extinction in Maryland, but after a half-century of protection, they have made a comeback and established a small population of a few hundred bears in the western part of the state. The state of Maryland now proposes allowing recreational trophy hunters to kill black bears for the first time in more than 50 years — Do you strongly favor, moderately favor, moderately op-

The contest was held at the Snowshoe Mountain Resort (W.Va.) and involved 4,000 competitors from the United States, Germany, Canada, Mexico, and Australia. Paugh is a certified bow mechanic, and is employed by the 219 Outdoor Center, which helps to sponsor him in his archery endeavors. "I can't say enough about how the 219 Outdoor Center has helped me out," Paugh said. "They've been great to me." He said he has plans to soon become officially certified in archery and hopes to eventually organize a local youth archery club.

Over $232,000 Is Generated By Annual 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale

The 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale sponsored by the Garrett County Livestock Association was held Saturday, Aug. 14, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, generating a grand total of $232,631.75 with the selling of market beef, hogs, lambs, goats, chickens, and pen of three rabbits.

"A record number of 175 buyers supported the youth exhibitors this year," said Ann Sherrard, 4-H educator. "The young people work hard to prepare for this week, and we all appreciate this great showing of support from the community."

Cool temperatures on the night of the sale did not deter bidders as they purchased 80 beef steers for an average price of $1.62. The Grand Champion Market Beef was owned and sold by Ashley Rodeheaver, daughter of Jack and Terry Rodeheaver, Friendsville. Her 1,382-pound steer was purchased by Eric Paugh Contracting for $4 per pound. The Reserve Grand Champion Steer was purchased by Bill and Claudia Spiker, John Carr, and Shelly Lloyd for $2 per pound. Oakland Man Arrested Upon Jail Release

An Oakland man was arrested last Wednesday, Aug. 11, when he attempted to drive on a suspended license after being released from the Garrett County Detention Center. Oakland police officers made the 11 p.m. arrest after receiving a tip.

Kenneth Allen McRobie, 23, was stopped along South Third Street by police officers who had observed his vehicle exiting the town parking lot. He was positively identified and placed under arrest for the suspended license offense.

McRobie was subsequently released from the Detention Center after he posted a $500 bond.

Two Injured In Separate Four-Wheeler Mishaps

Two women reportedly received minor injuries in two separate all-terrain vehicle accidents Saturday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

The first accident occurred at noon at the Youghiogheny Mountain Resort. Gloria Defontes, 36, Baltimore, was transported by private vehicle to GCMH for injuries she received.

At 12:52 p.m. Kristina Conrad, Aurora, W.Va., 29, was injured when her ATV crashed near Potomac Camp Road. She was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by private vehicle.

No charges were filed in either incident by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who investigated the accidents.

Charges Pending In Single-Vehicle Mishap Tuesday

Charges are pending in a single-vehicle accident that occurred Tuesday afternoon on Glendale Road near Paradise Heights Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jesse Warren Kane, 19, was eastbound on Glendale road in his 1997 Mercury SUV when it entered the east bound ditch, re-entered the roadway, skidded across Glendale Road, and struck a wooden barrier located off the westbound shoulder, which caused the vehicle to overturn.

Kane was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries.

Also responding to the 12:50 p.m. scene were Deep Creek firefighters.

According to police, alcohol was a factor.

Second Annual Parking Meter Fundraiser Set

The second annual Adopt a Parking Meter is being offered as a fundraiser for the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. For a donation of $50, businesses, organizations, or individuals would be responsible for decorating that meter during the Autumn Glory season.

Decorations can be any style, but should reflect the season and be in good taste, according to a spokesperson.

All meters on Second Street and Alder Street (the Autumn Glory parade route) are "up for adoption." The downtown business owners will be given the first opportunity to claim a meter before Sept. 1. After that, it will be offered to other businesses, Scout troops, churches, schools, and organizations. Individuals are also encouraged to participate.

Decorations must be put up beginning Oct. 9 and completed by Tuesday, Oct. 12. Decorations must be removed between Nov. 1 and 3.

For an application, persons may contact the town of Oakland at 301-334-2691.

MSP Probing Sand Flat Rd. Vandalisms

The Maryland State Police are seeking the public's assistance in solving a rash of Sand Flat Road mailbox vandalisms that occurred during the early morning hours of July 27, according to a release submitted to local media this morning.

Between the hours of 1 and 6 a.m. that morning, police say several mailboxes were damaged with a baseball bat or similar object, apparently from a moving car.

Any persons with information on this incident are asked to contact Tpr. Huber of the MSP McHenry barrack at 301-387-1101.

Accident Woman Faces Charge In McHenry Crash

A two-vehicle collision in McHenry injured both motorists yesterday morning, according to Maryland State Police troopers, who charged one of the drivers involved in the 8:19 a.m. mishap.

Lucille Campbell, 30, was traveling south on Garrett Highway when she attempted to make a left-hand turn onto Pysell Road and collided with an oncoming vehicle operated by Virginia Hooper, 31, also of Accident. Police said that Campbell failed to yield right of way to Hooper's car, and charged Campbell accordingly.

Both women were transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for evaluation of minor injuries, police said. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the accident scene.

Frostburg Man Arrested On Sex Offense Charge

A Frostburg man was arrested following an investigation of a sex offense allegation of a 15-year-old female, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Perry Nelson Hamilton Jr., 23, allegedly had sex with a 15-year-old female in the Friendsville area.

Hamilton was arrested and charged with third degree sex offense and second degree assault. He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center, where he was held on $75,000 bond. As of Aug. 13, his bail was reduced to $10,000, police said.

Oakland Domestic Altercation Leads To Two Arrests

The Oakland Police Department arrested two people in the wake of an alleged domestic-related altercation last night.

At approximately 11 p.m., police who had been summoned to the South Third Street residence of Betty Jean Cooper, 50, arrived to find that she and her fiancé, Paul Edward Schmitt, 52, Mtn. Lake Park, had apparently come to blows during the course of an argument. Although the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene, both parties refused medical treatment for their injuries.

Both Cooper and Schmitt were arrested on respective charges of second degree assault and transported to the Garrett County Detention Center, where they were subsequently released on their own recognizance.

Garrett Announces Reduced Fees For Specialized Computer Classes

Garrett College will offer a variety of courses this fall leading to specialized computer certifications, and the college has announced a significant reduction in fees associated with those classes. The courses, which will be taught by Richard Seese, prepare students to take exams leading to A+ (computer repair) and Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer (MCSE) certification. According to Dr. Virginia Broaddus, dean of academic affairs, each class provides extensive hands-on instruction in the information technology field.

Classes preparing students for A+ certification are taken in sequence and include CIT 260 (Introduction to PC Hardware), which has a fee of $200, and CIT 261 (PC Operating Systems) and CIT 262 (PC Repair and Troubleshooting), which each have fees of $500, for a total fee of $1,200 for the course sequence. All three courses also carry the college's regular tuition and combined fees. Each is designed not only to train students in the computer repair field but also to enable students to take the standard industry exam offered by CompTia, leading to the widely acclaimed A+ certification.

Seese will instruct classes on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings from 6:30 to 10 p.m. that will prepare students to take exams for MCSE certification. These courses, typically taken in sequence, include MCS 112 (Microsoft Windows 2000 Professional); Microsoft 113 (Microsoft Windows 2000 Server); MCS 114 (Managing MS 2000 Network Environment); and MCS 115 (MS 2000 Network Infrastructure Administration). Additional courses preparing students for MCSE certification will be offered in the spring semester. Each course carries a fee of $750, for a total fee of $3,000, in addition to the college's regular tuition and combined fee. MCSE certification is widely recognized as the industry standard for computer systems engineers.

"Garrett is excited about the ability to offer these courses at competitive prices, particularly as we survey the marketplace," noted Broaddus. "Students have a tremendous opportunity to realize a return on their investment in taking these courses, particularly when they see the job opportunities and financial rewards waiting for computer repair technicians and certified Microsoft Systems Engineers. Rich Seese brings years of experience and a strong ability to motivate students for success, and we feel certain that his expertise will lead students not only to pass certification exams but also to find jobs in the exciting and evolving field of information technology."

Registration is ongoing for fall semester at Garrett College, with the first MCS class beginning September 8 and the first CIT class beginning September 14. For more information about registration, students should call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

Man Arrested For Drugs At County Fair

A Swanton man was arrested on drug charges Thursday evening after police noticed a bag of suspected marijuana hanging out of his sweatshirt pocket, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Joshua Guy Damron, 19, was charged with possession with intent to distribute marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

According to police, deputies were speaking with Damron and a group of other individuals when they noticed the bag sticking out of his pocket.

A search of his backpack revealed approximately 1½ ounces of marijuana, which was individually packaged for resale, police said.

Following a bond hearing, Damron was released on his own recognizance.

Motorcycle-Van Collision Injures Both Motorists

A Saturday afternoon collision in McHenry between a motorcycle and a van injured both motorists, according to Maryland State Police troopers who charged the motorcyclist with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

At approximately 4:40 p.m. Charles Franklin Graham, 67, McHenry, was driving a 2001 Harley Davidson motorcycle north on Deep Creek Drive when his motorcycle struck the rear of a 1998 Ford van that had stopped in the roadway ahead as it attempted to turn into a private driveway.

Graham, who was thrown from the motorcycle, sustained a leg injury and was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The van driver, Zechariah Jason McPhail, 18, Kitzmiller was also taken to the hospital for a possible back injury.

Police charged Graham with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

FREDERICK PRE-TRIAL HEARING SLATED – Army Staff Sgt. Chip Frederick, pictured at left with his military attorney Cpt. Robert Shuck, will be appearing before a military judge soon in connection with allegations of abuse of detainees at Iraq's Abu Ghraib Prison. Frederick, Shuck, and Gary Myers, Frederick's civilian attorney, are scheduled to appear for a two-day Article 39 hearing, the military's equivalent to a civilian court arraignment, commencing Tuesday in Mannheim, Germany. "The civilian defense attorneys requested that the Article 39 hearings not take place in Iraq due to the travel, the expense and the danger," said Army spokesperson Col. Jill Morganthaler. "However, the venue for any courts-martial has not changed. They will still take place in Iraq." Although the proceedings are certain to garner international publicity, Frederick's Garrett County family is maintaining the web site www.freechipfrederick.com, which contains their son's side of the story, and an online petition is available for signing at the same web site. Approximately 12,500 computer users have visited the site since it was created early this summer. Meanwhile, fellow soldiers with the 372nd Military Police Company returned to the U.S. recently, and the Western Maryland Chapter of the American Red Cross is tentatively planning a celebration later this year to recognize the achievements of the local unit. "These folks returning to our communities have carried out their life-threatening missions with honor and dignity," ARC spokesperson Leona Lavin stated. "They deserve not only our thanks and praise, but also a big, collective 'hug' to show we care. Some of them may be emotionally hurting right now, so anything we can do to show them that we are supportive of them will help to ease their transition back to a normal life here in western Maryland."

Not An Endorsement...

A new book hit the shelves this week titled Unfit for Command, a scathing account of John Kerry's "real" service in Vietnam and his alleged anti-American actions following his four-month tour of duty there. The major U.S. media have so far offered about 20 seconds of coverage about the release of this book, and that coverage amounted to little more than the announcement that it has been released. There have been, at least so far, no segments whatsoever on a single news program (60 Minutes, Dateline, 20-20, etc.) about the contents of this book. How odd.

Compare this to the coverage ad nauseam given to Michael Moore's Bush-scathing documentary film Fahrenheit 9/11, as commentators were literally lined up to have Mr. Moore on their shows for an interview. The film was among the leading topics of practically every newscast for days and days, despite the fact that even proponents of the film admitted that at least some of the content was distorted and/or inaccurate.

We also had to endure several weeks of coverage about George Bush's questionable military service in the National Guard, as reporters dug and dug to try to find documentation that would discredit (or exonerate) the president. Why aren't those same reporters right now digging and digging to find out the truth about Kerry's service in Vietnam? Has any reader out there seen or heard about any such effort? Have we missed it?

Another example that is starting to brew right now centers on the "free speech areas" or "protest zones" that have been established in New York City for next week's Republican National Convention. The lead editorial in today's Washington Post is all about the danger that these zones pose to our freedom of speech and assemblage. "...Something precious is threatened when demonstrators — even rowdy, obnoxious, and possibly misguided demonstrators — are kept at such distance from the objects of their protest," writes the Post editor. "What's at risk is democracy, and it deserves a bit more respect... America needs to do better." It's fascinating that none of these thoughts were shared when the same "free speech zones" were utilized at last month's Democratic National Convention in Boston.

This column today is not intended to be an endorsement of George Bush, nor a swipe at John Kerry. For all we know the contents of the new book about Kerry are also distorted and inaccurate, and if so, should not warrant a lot of coverage by the mass media. The point of this column is to express how utterly disappointing it is that the major media of this nation, which is supposed by be fair and unbiased, is, simply, grossly unfair and biased. It would be just as outrageous if the media were pro-Bush rather than pro-Kerry, because the media is not supposed to be pro-anybody.

EXAMINATION

There are ways of being wrong that we can never imagine. One such way in my life was when I said to myself at the end of my seminary career in 1979, "That's the last exam I'll ever take."

Even though I proceeded to another degree program at Oxford University in England, the work was all in writing papers toward a thesis. There was an oral defense of the thesis, but that was more of a very formal conversation about the work I had been doing for the previous two years.

My teacher at Oxford thought me especially well suited to practical work, and for the next 20 years I ran a parish, worked on my home, and participated in community and political activities. In many ways, that generation of my life fed on the nine years I had studied in college, seminary, and graduate school.

Something that grew in me over those 20 years was that I had ideas which increasingly I did not have the tools to flesh out. It would be like having a vision of a house, but not possessing a hammer or a trowel, let alone the skills to use those tools.

Something else that had happened in those 20 years was degree inflation. Whatever degree a person had needed in A.D. 1983, he or she needed the next degree up in A.D. 2003. There are some exceptions to that rule (there always are), but if a high school diploma sufficed then, today two years of college or technical school are required.

I was accepted into a graduate program in philosophy two and a half years ago. That meant I was going to have many more tests. These tests, however, were not the standardized tests which prove so faulty. No, these were real exams. I was expected to read books, attend lectures, and digest my new learning in creative ways.

In 14 graduate courses I have had, there has not been a single exam which I thought unfair either in what was asked or how it was graded. The program, aimed ultimately at a Ph.D., is split approximately in half. The halfway point is marked by the satisfactory completion of both a thesis and an oral examination, and then the conferral of a half-way degree.

My thesis had been approved two months ago, and the date had been set for my exam. Many friends have supposed that the exam was a defense of the thesis. That was not the case. This was a real, stand-alone examination on eight philosophical topics, with a total of 31 questions spread among the eight topics.

Of all the requirements toward the Ph.D., this was the only one which I expected to be really daunting. On a given day at a given hour, the student presents himself to the dean and three professors who take turns at asking questions. Each has 15 minutes to examine the student on two of the eight topics.

When I described this exam to someone he said, "I get it; it's like a Jackie Chan karate movie when he takes on his opponents one at a time." At least in its grueling character, it is very like that.

The four examiners substantially shape the character of the exam, however. The best examination is a method of instruction. One of the examiners exemplified this method. His questions were instructive. They were catalytic to the conversion of passive knowledge to active knowledge. At the end of his quarter-hour I knew more than I had at the beginning.

In the end, I passed. I was told that it was a strong pass, which was gratifying. I had worked hard for two years toward that exam. For a fortnight I had done little else but prepare exclusively for it.

Adrenaline had so taken over my system that I found it difficult to sleep the night after my oral exam. Even the next night I woke up several times spouting Greek words. A few days after that I am starting to resume some calm in my life. I have drawn strength from my morning cup of coffee, sitting on the porch in prayer while watching the corn grow as it rai.s.

The official effective date of my new degree (this halfway degree) is October 31 (trick or treat?). I look forward to adding three more letters after my name. And if I have a dollar and a quarter in my pocket, I'll still be able to buy a cup of coffee – in some places.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Historical Society wishes to applaud last week's editorial regarding the need to presently restore the front of our historic and once so attractive courthouse.

The modern jail addition of the 1970s greatly marred the front of the county courthouse and ruined the "street appeal" of a once gorgeous and regal setting. There is no redeeming this unsightly architectural addition, hence the need to demolish it now that the sheriff's office and jail are due to vacate the building. Removal of this poorly designed addition would likely cost significantly less money than any remodeling that would be required.

We at the historical society heartily join you in appealing to county government to take the bold steps necessary to return this beautiful, historic courthouse to the setting it held 100 years ago. We are convinced, as were you, that the time is right for this move. The county is financially very sound and the present jail has now outlived its usefulness. We join you in urging county government to "seize the moment," move forward and restore our county heritage.

To the Editor:

In answer to Edward Livengood's letter about the Maryland parole board, even thinking about paroling or releasing Mr. Tichnell for killing one of our law officers is completely ridiculous. He should have been put to death years ago. Did anyone think about our officer putting all his time and work trying to keep our community safe from people such as Mr. Tichnell? He should pay the same debt that our friend did, but never deserved.

I hope that hundreds of thousands of officers and people everywhere will respond to Edward Livengood and his family members by writing a letter to Maryland Parole Commission, 6776 Reistertown Rd., Suite #307, Baltimore, MD 21215-2343, before September and ask for no leniency for Mr. Tichnell at all.

Thank you,
Deloris Murphy

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Mr., Ms., or is it Mrs. Reynolds? Yikes!! I'm surprised that they found time to write with all the Fox News that obviously they watch. I was going to try to stay above the fray, but it's just this kind of whacked out thinking that got us in our current situation. The Taliban wing of the Republican Party should spend more time on their own sex lives and just get over Clinton's Monica connection.

So maybe we should let George run on his record:

Volunteered for Vietnam...no that wasn't him. That was Cheney...no that wasn't him either. George flew in the National Guard in Texas...no Alabama...refused to take a drug test and never flew again...a real question that he ever finished his service...and yet the Republicans do all they can to discredit John Kerry.

Record job loss. He and Herbert Hoover are running neck and neck for the gold medal. Record trade imbalance. Absolute all-time record national deficit. Failure to eliminate Al Qaeda in Afghanistan or elsewhere. Huge roll-backs of environmental laws that only help big business. A two-year attempt to stall the 9/11 Commission and an unwillingness to accept all their recommendations. Exposure of a CIA operative by someone in the White House with no cooperation in the investigation. Exposure of a turned Al Qaeda operative in Pakistan who could have led us to bigger guys. And a war based on misinformation with absolutely no plan for anything passed the Macho roll over them. Almost 1,000 Americans killed, 10,000 wounded and 37,000 men, women, and children of Iraq killed.

Is there any wonder that at least 50% of the American people disagree with this administration? It's time for a change. The neo-conservatives have done their deal and it's a dismal failure. America can't take four more years.

Bill Thomas

To the Editor:

As participants of the Garrett Covenant House, we wish to let everyone know how much we enjoy going there and what a great place it is. A lot of us have met there and became very good friends. It means a lot to have someone to talk to and have fun with rather than being alone at home. Here we have various activities every day, such as arts and crafts, musical entertainment, and church services.

VACATION 2004:
An Adventure of Colonial Proportions, Part IV

I wonder who came up with the idea of a roller coaster? What prompted him or her to imagine being pulled through the air at top speeds and experiencing the physics of momentum, positive and negative Gs, centrifugal force, and absolute terror? He must have been high. But boy, I do love a good roller coaster, and there are plenty to choose from at Busch Gardens in Virginia. That's where we are this week, as the chronicle of the McEwen Family Vacation continues.

It was Wednesday and we were ready to tackle the coasters. Well, Michael (8) was ready, John and I (old parents) were sort of ready, and Alex (9) and Rob (12) were not at all sure they wanted to get anywhere near those freaky buckets of bolts. But Mikey— he was chomping at the bit. So within minutes of being at the place, he and John and I were in line for the Alpengeist, a ski lift gone mad, apparently, in Germany. (Busch Gardens is divided into countries, each with an appropriately named thrill ride.) Rob and Alex decided to sit this one out and check into the nearby quarter-sucking arcade, named something Germanyish that I don't recall.

So we're standing in line, watching other mindless humans subject their bodies to being tossed upside down and around and back again. Michael was nearly drooling at the prospect, but my anxiety suddenly switched to another issue. There was a woman in line in front of us who was rather large. When she got in the seat of the coaster, she began to wriggle and writhe, trying desperately to close the harness around her girth. She struggled and worked and sweated, still unsuccessful. The attendant came by, assessed the situation, and called over two other guys. Big, burly boys. They both descended upon the woman and began to wrestle with the harness. They pushed and pushed, grunting, her little legs kicking and kicking from underneath. Giggles bubbled out of her, and her husband was smiling from ear to ear. Everyone watched as this went on, and my fear grew. "What if that happens to me?" I asked John. "Mary, you're about half her size," he scoffed. But I didn't think so. "You're just used to me — I might be exactly her size." John rolled his eyes. "Well, we'll just have to wait and see, won't we?" he said. Great. More anxiety. All I could think about was how they were going to have to call over those two goombahs to jump me while everyone waited. Gad. At last the harness clicked for the poor woman, and she was secure. In fact, I don't think she could move. Or inhale. But she was in there, and off they went. When it was our turn, I jumped into that seat and buckled my harness so fast I think I sprained something. "I told you," John said. Doesn't love mean never having to say "I told you"?

That ride was fantastic, as was the Loch Ness Monster. (Michael convinced John to do that one twice, after which Daddy was lookin' a little wobbly.) The whole family rode the Big Bad Wolf, a coaster John and I remembered as not as scary as some of the others, so we were able to convince Rob and Alex to climb aboard. As it turned out, we hadn't remembered it right. It was indeed scary, and Rob, halfway through the ride, yelled to me through clenched teeth, "How did you talk me into this?" I opted out of one coaster — Apollo's Chariot — mainly because I again was plunged into harness-phobia. ("Not intended for those approaching 48 inches," the sign said. "But you're not approaching 48 inches," John said wearily. I'm not so sure. One more funnel cake and I might be there.) But Michael went on it, along with his fearless dad. That thing goes 73 mph and has a 210-foot drop! Cheesh. While they did that, the other boys and I rode the Roman Rapids, a totally soaking river ride. We ended up getting on with three people from Connecticut. That's just a tiny bit uncomfortable, riding along, making small talk — "Oh, Connecticut? Wow, that's a long trip ..yada yada" and then "AGGGG!" as an entire pond of cold water crashes down over our heads, soaking us utterly. It is unsettling to be in such proximity of strangers while being subjected to that sort of abuse. But what the hey? We'll never see them again.

The Escape from Pompeii water ride was terrifying in a way, not because of the incredible drop at the end, but because of the eruption of real fire inside. That was just a little too disturbing for me. I'm far too much of a worry wart to be smelling gas and feeling the heat of real flames. Huh-uh. After we dripped our way off that one, we were all beginning to drag. It was time to move on to the next phase of our trip.

So we said goodbye to Williamsburg, with the promise to come back again someday, and went on down the road to Virginia Beach. It's a straight shot to the coast and we didn't get lost at all. John and I were ready for it. We had our fill of slogging around amusement parks and taking tours. It was time to plop down on the sand, stare at the waves, and consider the universe. Or our bellybuttons. Whichever.

Our arrival to the Atlantic was heralded by the onset of a wild thunderstorm. We barely made it into our room and it let loose. What a show! I realized that I had never seen such a storm on the ocean before. The sun had set, but the lightning lit up the whole horizon in quick flashes. Then the thunder boomed across the water. Quick and frothy waves rushed up the beach and tried to reach the boardwalk (which isn't so much boards as concrete at Va. Beach). People scattered as the storm thrashed. We were safe in our room, entertained by Mother Nature's antics through our deck window. The boys dropped off to sleep as John and I continued to watch and listen. At last the front moved out to sea. We hit the sack, too, happy that we had reached the most relaxing portion of our adventure. The ocean lay waiting, and we were ready for it.

Next Week: Playing in the waves and stepping on really sharp shells. Ouchies all around.

To the Editor:

The fourth annual Lisa Wade Memorial 5K Run was held in Westernport on Saturday, July 17. It was organized by Lisa's soccer coach from Westmar High School, Steve Amann. The proceeds each year are used to fund monetary awards to four senior athletes from Westmar, Lisa's school. The recipients for 2004 were: Lacey Lee, girls' soccer, Jordan Zais, girls, cross country; Jared Rowan, boys' soccer; and Aaron Shockey, boys' cross country.

Later in the afternoon, there was a benefit concert, "Wadestock," which was organized by friend and neighbor Scott Lee of Swanton. The following groups and individuals volunteered their talents for a great evening of entertainment: Distorted Penguins, High Pressure, Dead Bury Dead, Fake Eddie, Kenny Thompkins, and Scott Paxton. Proceeds from the concert also benefited the scholarship fund.

Lisa, a lifelong resident of Garrett County, was a member of both the soccer and cross country teams at Westmar High School until a vehicle/pedestrian accident in 2000 tragically ended her life at age 15. The annual race is held the third Saturday of July, and is increasing in size each year. Over 200 participated in this year's race.

The success of the Lisa events would not be possible without the generosity of local businesses and individuals. We would like to sincerely thank all who have helped to make the race/concert the continued success that it is, and for their help in keeping "Lisa" alive in our hearts and memories.

We would also like to thank the Garrett County 2004 sponsors/donors for their generosity. Major sponsors of the event include: G&S Coal Company, M&T Bank, Dr. Ihor and Sandra Zakaluzny, Dan Holtzschneider (DHS Services Inc.), and The Comfort Inn of McHenry. Trophy sponsors were First United Bank and Wepco Federal Credit Union. Very nice door prizes were donated by Uno's, Garrett Cinemas, Deep Creek Brewing Company, Pizza Hut of Oakland, and Smiley's Pizzeria. We truly appreciate your support.

To the Editor:

Throughout this presidential campaign, I have regularly heard the supporters of the Bush administration demanding four more years. I wonder if they have ever taken a moment to think about what it is they are actually requesting. Should George W. Bush remain president, this is what the nation, and the world, has to look forward to:

Four more years of deceiving the American public. Four more years of sending our mothers, fathers, brothers, and sisters off to war with no plan for peace. Four more years of abusing National Guardsmen and reservists, and discarding veterans. Four more years of a questionable economy, of squeezing the middle class, and outsourcing the jobs of the working class. Four more years of tax breaks for the wealthy, and no hope for the poor. Four more years of corporate greed, no corporate governance, and complete corporate influence. Four more years of losing the pensions we deserve for a lifetime of work. Four more years of Saudi Arabian influence in the White House. Four more years with a growing national debt for as long as we can foresee. Four more years of being the most hated nation in the world. Four more years of seniors having to choose between food and medicine, of energy and healthcare costs rising while wages are decreasing. Four more years of investing in Iraq what should be invested in the United States.

Four more years of leaving children behind. Four more years of being considered unpatriotic if you disagree, or have your own opinion. Four more years of an administration that the majority of Americans did not want in the first place. Four more years without life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness for millions. Four more years without liberty and justice for all.

Our nation cannot survive four more years of the Bush administration deceiving, dividing, discarding, and denying Americans. Thankfully, there are millions of Americans who believe our country's best days are yet to come. I am one of those millions who believe John Kerry and John Edwards have the optimistic vision and the well-thought plans that will rebuild a strong, united America. Their plans will not only leave no child behind, they will leave no American behind. So to those who say "Four more years," I thankfully say "Only three more months."

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to R. Reynolds' letter about the Democratic party that was in last week's edition of The Republican. First off, I would like to remind people that while Teresa Heinz Kerry's remark "shove it" likely did not take a whole lot of thought to conjure up, Republican vice president Dick Cheney's remark to a Vermont senator likely took much less thought, and in my opinion represented far less class. Not only did Vice President Cheney make the remark, instead of owning up to his mistake and apologizing, he sat on Fox News and said that after making the remark, he "felt much better."

While I am on the topic of great Republican remarks, let's not forget what Rush Limbaugh said, calling the abuse of Iraqi prisoners of war "Good old American pornography." Obviously, the Republican president George W. Bush has a rough time making a point via words, as several authors have compiled entire books of his Bushisms. In addition to that, I don't think that President Bush is really all that versed at leading an entire country when he almost assassinated himself with a small piece of snack food my 7-year-old cousin has no problem eating.

When former vice president and U.S. Senate president Al Gore compared George Bush's administration to that of the Nazi empire, he was not making such a far fetched comparison. It is proven that United States military personnel have hidden mistreated prisoners from Red Cross officials much like Hitler withheld Jewish death camp prisoners from them. It is also hard to argue the fact that George W. Bush has gone about the war in Iraq in a very arrogant and disrespectful way when he sat on national television and told our Iraqi enemies to "bring it on."

To bash people like Mike Moore for trying to expose the truth behind the administration of George W. Bush I also feel is wrong. While I will agree that some of the facts that Mike Moore places in his films are rather stretched or maybe misrepresented, when you have video of President Bush making "funny faces" at the camera before his 9/11 address to the nation, I feel that shows the dignity and quality of a leader who several months earlier was spending all of August on his Texas ranch.

Also, looking at the war record of George Bush as compared to that of John Kerry I think speaks for itself. While George Bush was "absent from base," John Kerry was patrolling the rivers of Vietnam, saving his fellow soldiers from death at the hands of the Viet Cong. In addition to that, John Kerry returned here to the United States to speak out about the horrors taking place in Vietnam.

In my personal opinion there is no comparison between John Kerry and George W. Bush. On one hand you have a man who in his four years in office has started a pre-emptive war, ruined our economy, and made the United States one of the most resented nations worldwide. On the other you have a man who served his country in Vietnam, looks towards a brighter future for America, wants to bring our friends and family home from the Iraq war, and has a natural and soft compassionate nature about him.

Also, I don't remember Bill Clinton's lasting legacy as a semen stain, but a great economy, growing allies, and eight years of peaceful alliances with the United Nations. As far as the Republicans having their turn to expose lies, I wish they would start by telling the truth themselves.

To the Editor:

In the late 1990s on the east coast of the USA, someone walked into the emergency room of a medical hospital and squirted some pepper spray from a canister. Many of the folks in the emergency room were treated for respiratory distress and one or two were treated for respiratory arrest, according to the newspaper article at that time! Recently, another newspaper article mentioned that a young man in a jail system previous to August 2004 was medically diagnosed by the Baltimore coroner as a "homicide" victim, due to three cans of pepper spray having been emptied into his small jail cell previous to his being removed from that cell to another area.

Recently, also, Delegate George Edwards, representing folks who use that same jail system, said he feels all is being accomplished that should be accomplished where that jail system is concerned. For a first time, I heartily disagree with Mr. Edwards for the preceding reasons. However, the following should be weighed carefully, too.

We are only humans, and many of us reach points where more support from our friends for the purpose of helping our reasoning abilities grow is needed and appreciated.

In Memory of
CARROLL G. DEWITT
AUGUST 8, 1922 - AUGUST 23, 1997

Our hearts still ache with sadness, and secret tears still flow.
What it meant to lose you, no one will ever know.

Each morning when we awake, we know that you are gone.
And no one knows the heartache as we try to carry on.

We hold you close within our hearts, and there you will remain.
To walk with us throughout our lives until we meet again.

Our family chain is broken now, and nothing seems the same, but as God calls us one by one the chain will link again.

Until we meet again,
Wife Huldah and family

CELEBRATING THE 500TH CHILD SERVED – The Family Support Network of Garrett County Infants and Toddlers recently held a Family Picnic celebrating the 500th child served recently. Many past and present families attended and spent the afternoon sharing food, fun, and the opportunity to meet and share with one another, according to a spokesperson. Garrett County Infants and Toddlers is a collaborative program offered by the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, Garrett County Board of Education, Garrett County Health Department (Healthy Families and Personal Health), Garrett County Community Action Head Start and Early Head Start, and Garrett County Department of Social Services. The program offers free evaluation and therapy services to families with an infant or toddler who may be experiencing a developmental delay, at risk for a developmental delay due to a medical condition, or experiencing atypical development. Studies have shown that early intervention in these children is the best way to head off and or possibility correct these problems early and the children that receive early intervention services do much better in school, added the spokesperson. The book "Teeth Are Not For Biting" by Martine Agassi was handed out to all the children that attended courtesy of the Partnership for Children and Families. For information on Garrett County Infants and Toddler Program or the Family Support Network, persons may contact the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families at 301-334-1189.

Thank You

We wish to express our gratitude to the many friends and neighbors for their support upon the sudden and unexpected death of Bill Mahaffey, our son, brother, companion, and friend to so many. Our grief has been lessened by the attention and support of all of you. Thanks to Pastor Randy Nairn for his quick and kind attention, to Ben Sincell for his fine words at Bill's memorial service, to Jeff and Liz Gilbert for their musical contributions, and to Uncle Schrock for the inspirational Scripture readings.

Thank you for the many cards, telephone calls, offers of help, and words of sympathy. We miss Bill, but we are comforted by the kindness of our community. God bless you all.

Call Of Reported Disturbance Leads To Man's Arrest

A reported disturbance at a residence on Herrington Manor Road at 4:40 a.m. on Sunday led to the arrest of Jon Matthew Howell, 19, Swanton, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Upon arrival deputies learned from the resident owners that an unidentified man was pounding on their front door. They observed him gain entry to the owner's vehicle and close the door. Deputies located Howell in the vehicle.

According to police, he was "extremely intoxicated" and could not provide an answer as to where he was or what he was doing there.

Howell was charged with disturbing the peace, disorderly conduct, and possessing an alcoholic beverage while under the age of 21.

He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center and was later released, police said.

In other police news, Jeremy Charles Green, 22, Frostburg, was arrested for drunk driving after his vehicle was stopped on Sand Flat Road near Pergin Farm Road early Friday morning for failing to drive right of center.

Further investigation led to the discovery that Green had been consuming alcohol prior to driving, police said.

Green was charged with driving while impaired, driving under the influence, failure to drive right of center, and driving on a suspended driver's license.

ONE MORE WEEK OF FREEDOM – There is just one more week of summer vacation left for local youngsters, as the Garrett County Public School System will open its doors next Thursday, Aug. 26, for the first day of class. Wasn't it just a few weeks ago that they were released for the summer? After about 10 fairly cool days, the temperatures are on the rise again, so everyone should be able to get plenty of fun and sun during this last week. This photo was taken at Deep Creek Lake State Park, a very busy place and perfect for those searching for warmth and relaxation before the toil of school begins. Photo by John McEwen.

View from My Window

KITCHEN (ALMOST) COMPLETE

Sometime between A.D. 1800 and 1825 the original part of my house was built. An architect friend dated the house for me by the remains of the first instrument of cooking. The house was built with a walk-in fireplace in the kitchen. In a Victorian renovation that original fireplace was replaced with a stove and a stove chimney. That chimney was still here when I took the place over on August 1, A.D. 1984.

The architect told me he always likes to see cellars and attics because they are the parts of the house typically changed the least. In my cellar are the supports for the fireplace which was removed a century ago. That is how he dated my house.

At some point a lean-to type pantry was built onto the back of the kitchen. In my childhood, when this place was our hired man's house, that was where a lot of the cooking got done. By the time I moved here, that pantry was gone.

In 1992 I married a woman with three children. Part of the deal was that I add 900 square feet and to make such changes as she deemed necessary to make the place fit for habitation. At that point the Victorian chimney was torn out, and replaced with a chimney external to the house with a flue-liner.

I had the old plaster ripped out of the kitchen. The room was stripped to joists and original flooring. We had a quarry-tile floor installed with plywood and concrete-board underlayment. There were new walls and ceiling as well as a new floor.

What I did not do, and what perhaps I should have done, was to have a new kitchen installed inside those six new surfaces. Because we built according to quality rather than quantity I ran out of money before I ran out of work to be done. I repainted the old cabinets, and had everything put back where it had been.

As the years past, I lost my wife, though I have managed to keep the children. I confess to wondering whether a new kitchen a dozen years ago would have helped us stay together, but that lies in the realm of what shall never be known.

This spring when I refinanced, the appraiser told me, "This is a great house, but you have to do something with the kitchen." Since I need to rent the house while I am in France for a year, renovating the kitchen shifted from optional to mandatory. Enter: my Cousin Wilson (one of six Cousin Wilsons).

How it came about I cannot tell at this point in time, but he offered to oversee the installation of a new kitchen. I bought new cabinets, with his advice and counsel (they came home on his trailer), a new refrigerator (replacing one that was 20 years old, and which had nearly rusted through on the door), and a new dishwasher. I personally did not need a new dishwasher. I bought it for the wife of my prospective and as yet undiscovered tenant.

Wilson, in turn, called up his craftsman pal Jeff to serve as master in this transformation of the kitchen. They came; they saw; they conquered.

The cupboards are white. The door and drawer pulls are bright brass. The countertop looks like green marble. It all works well with the earth-toned quarry tile floor.

There are other actors in this drama, or actresses. Wilson's wife Deb pretty well repainted the kitchen walls and ceiling. I was supposed to be helping, but Tom Sawyer has nothing on me. My grandmother came to clean the gas range. She has spent two days on it, and she is still not quite satisfied.

You might wonder why I did not buy a new range. Well, on the new and improved gas ranges one can light the stove rings with a match, but not the oven. A main reason I want a gas range is to have a back-up source of heat in case of a lengthy power outage.

I could have bought a new gas range just like the one I have for $260, but why should I have purchased a range just like the one I have when there is nothing functionally wrong with the range I do have? That is a man's way of thinking, but then I am a man.

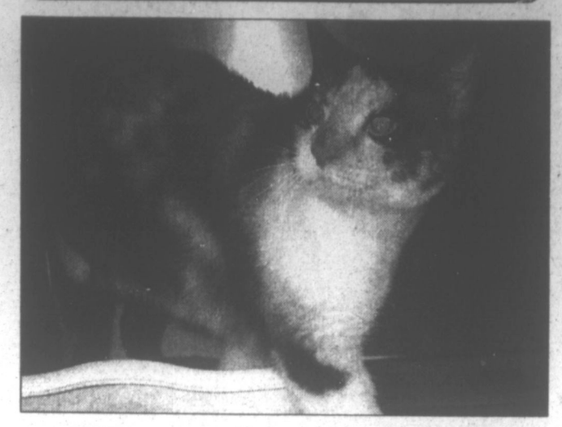
My grandmother is pretty well ecstatic over my new kitchen. I am pleased about it. The new kitchen is lovely and fresh. If I can just find a tenant I shall be absolutely delighted about the kitchen.

The Beatles – I think it was the Beatles – had a song which ran, "I get by with a little help from my friends." I have to add "and my family." I am richly blessed in friends and family who step into my life to help me in ways that I am largely incompetent.

There is still a small amount of work to be done on toe-kicks and an adjustment on the dishwasher hook-up, but we are just about there.

In two centuries the kitchen is the room in this house which has changed the most. Without Wilson, Deb, Jeff, and Grandma, I would not have the kitchen I have today. And it is a beauty!

Adorable Adoptables



LILLY, a female Siamese mix, is 4 years old, spayed, vaccinated, and ready to be adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter. "She will need to adjust to you since she is an owner give-up," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Also looking for a new home is this longhaired calico female who recently had kittens. "She needs a good home where she will be cared for," the spokesperson said. The calico will also need to be spayed so that no more unwanted kittens are brought into the shelter. "Unlicensed dogs are still being brought in or picked up by the shelter," said the spokesperson. "Please purchase a new tag for your dog and cat at the courthouse or shelter. You will need to bring in proof of rabies vaccination and spay/neuter with you. A license enables the shelter to contact you if your pet is brought in as a stray. A pet ID tag would also be a good idea. If someone else finds your pet, he or she can contact you directly." For more information, persons may call 301-334-3553. The shelter is located along Oakland Sang Run Road and is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., and Thursday until 6 p.m.

Edgewater Man Receives 60 Days For DWI Charge

An Edgewater man pleaded guilty last week in Garrett County Circuit Court to driving while impaired by alcohol. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Derrick Ashley Elseth, 35, to 60 days in the Garrett County Jail.

That sentence will run consecutively to one that Elseth is currently serving in Anne Arundel County.

He was arrested by sheriff's deputies who had responded to the scene of a motor vehicle accident along Sang Run Road on March 23, 2003. Upon arrival, the deputies found Elseth behind the wheel, attempting to remove a truck from a creek.

After failing a series of field sobriety tests, Elseth was arrested and charged, according to the state's attorney's office.

In other Garrett County Circuit Court news, William Gary Riggleman, 33, pleaded guilty to violating his probation by not paying a $1,000 fine and monthly supervision fee of $25.

Sherbin extended Riggleman's probation to another year and ordered him to pay $200 this month and $100 a month thereafter for one year.

He was originally sentenced in December 2002 to one year in the Garrett County Jail for possession of methamphetamine and other charges. He was also fined $1,000.

pose, or strongly oppose the hunting of black bears in Maryland?"

Peditto contrasted that question with this question from the DNR poll: "Do you support or oppose regulated hunting as a way to control black bear populations in Maryland?"

Sixty-five percent of respondents to the DNR poll said they supported a limited bear hunt.

The proposed hunt may get a final ruling as early as this coming week. If approved, a maximum of 30 bears could be killed as a result of a lottery hunt slated for the weeks of Oct. 25-30 and Dec. 6-11.

FSU Professor Wins Coveted Pushcart Prize

Dr. Barbara Hurd, Garrett County resident and English professor at Frostburg State University, has been awarded the Pushcart Prize for her essay, "Squeeze," which appeared in Orion magazine last summer. Now in its 29th year, the Pushcart Prize honors the best of small presses, and the award has been named among the most influential projects in the history of American publishing by Publishers Weekly.

"Squeeze" ultimately became Chapter 1 in Hurd's latest collection of essays, Entering the Stone: On Caves and Feeling Through the Dark, which was published by Houghton-Mifflin a year ago, to critical praise.

The essay will appear in The Pushcart Prize XXVIII: Best of the Small Presses, 2005 Edition, which is due out in late fall. The anthology will include 61 other works, including poetry, essays and short stories, from 48 small presses.

Hurd's honor at receiving the award was enhanced by the way she learned that she had been chosen.

"I was the writer-in-residence for two weeks at the Haystack Mountain School of Crafts in Maine this summer. Ten minutes before I was to give my reading there to a packed auditorium, Haystack's director comes up to me with a man who, he says, wishes to be introduced," Hurd recalled.

"The man turns out to be Bill Henderson, Pushcart's director, who goes on to tell me I'd won one of this year's prizes. I could hardly settle down to read. It was such a thrill."

Henderson, who founded the Pushcart Prize in the early 1970s, said he normally doesn't inform award winners in person, but when it came time to inform Hurd, she wasn't at home in Frostburg.

"It turned out she was going a reading just five miles from me. She just happened to be here when I needed to find her," he said.

Hurd's previous collection of essays, Stirring the Mud: On Swamps, Bogs and Human Imagination, was chosen as a best book of 2001 by The Los Angeles Times. She also has published two collections of poetry, The Singer's Temple, for which she won the Bright Hill Press Poetry Award, and Objects in this Mirror. Her essays and poems have appeared in numerous journals and collections, including Best American Essays 1999, and Best American Essays 2001.

The local author was the recipient of the 2002 National Endowment for the Arts Fellowship in Creative Nonfiction, one of numerous awards she has earned for her writing.

Hurd was awarded the Wilson H. Elkins Professorship from the University System of Maryland for 2002-03 and 2003-04. She has worked at Frostburg State since 1977, and has been a faculty member in the Department of English since 1986. She specializes in teaching creative writing and literature of the environment.

OTT To Host Reading Of Play By Area Educator

The Trial of Houdini's Agent will be read at Our Town Theatre (OTT), 121 Center Street, Oakland, on Sunday, Aug. 22, at 7 p.m.

The author, Albert Magro, is a professor at Fairmont (W.Va.) State University. He said the idea for the play originated from his "long-standing interest in the biological basis of ethics and aesthetics." In addition to publishing in this area, he has developed specialized courses exploring the relationship of science and theology, an OTT spokesperson said.

Magro is also a sailor and competes in the Master's Fleet of Deep Creek Lake Sailing Association with his wife Alice as crew.

The OTT spokesperson said the play is an allegorical representation of biblical figures that focuses on the circumstances surrounding the life and death of Houdini.

"In its inextricably woven blend of fact and fiction, the play explores ways of knowing," the spokesperson said. "By presenting fascinating and intricate details of Houdini's life, the play dramatizes how one strives to arrive at the truth."

There is no admission fee but donations are appreciated, the spokesperson said. Refreshments will be served.

Guests may volunteer to read parts or participate as the audience. This reading is appropriate for persons age 12 and older. A discussion will follow, including whether the play is suitable and "doable" for OTT, the spokesperson said.

TONY ELLIS AND THE MUSICIANS OF BRAEBURN

Penn Alps Performance To Feature Appalachian Music With Celtic Flavor

Tony Ellis and the Musicians of Braeburn will perform Celtic, folk, and original music starting at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday, August 21, in the Penn Alps Great Hall. Part of the Music at Penn Alps summer concert series, the concert is sponsored by Railey Mtn. Lake Vacations.

"The backwoods Bach" of the banjo, Ellis describes his music as "Appalachian Eloquence," a medley of folk music from the Appalachian and Celtic traditions with original tunes written in the same vein.

The bluegrass veteran has performed at the Grand Old Opry with the legendary Bill Monroe and the Bluegrass Boys, and at Carnegie Hall with Mac Wiseman. His music has been used in films and television programs, including Ken Burns's Baseball and Horatio's Drive, the BBC documentary Echoes of America, and TV's Party of Five. The most recent of his four albums, Farewell My Home, was cited as one of the top 10 recordings of 1993 by the Washington Post.

Sharing the Great Hall stage with Tony Ellis will be his band, the Musicians of Braeburn. The band's members are Tony's son William (Bill) Lee Ellis on guitar; Larry Nager on double bass, mandolin and washboard; and Tony's wife, Louise Adkins, on a small children's pump organ.

Bill Ellis has recorded four albums of traditional and original country blues and is the music writer for the Memphis Commercial Appeal newspaper. Nager has performed with Harley Allen and Bill Ellis, written the book Memphis Beat, and is the music writer for the Cincinnati Enquirer newspaper. Louise Adkins and Tony Ellis own and operate the Braeburn Farm Bed and Breakfast in Circleville, Ohio.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by season and corporate sponsors and by the support of individuals. Season sponsors are Sincell Publishing Company and the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop. Information is available at www.musicatpenn-alps.org.

REL Teen Book Club To Discuss Fantasy Novel

The Ruth Enlow Library Teen Book Club will meet at 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 18 in the Oakland library to discuss Jan Siegel's highly praised first novel, Prospero's Children, a fantasy based on the legend of Atlantis. All students age 12 and up are welcome to attend.

"A young girl who is more than she knows," reads the publisher's book description. "A man who is more than he seems. A beautiful woman in love with death. An evil older than mankind. All in search of a magical key that will open a door leading beyond time and space to the ending of all things.

"It began ages past in fabled Atlantis, when a mad, power-hungry queen forged a key to a door never meant to be opened by mortal man — its inception would hasten her own death and the extinction of her vainglorious race. For millennia the key lay forgotten beneath the waves, lost amid the ruins of what had been the most beautiful city on Earth. But however jealously the sea hoards its secrets, sooner or later it yields them up. Now, in present day Yorkshire, that time has come. And for young Fernanda Capel, life will never be the same again," the description continues.

Readers interested in participating in the discussion may stop by the Oakland library, or call 301-334-3996 to reserve a copy of the book.

The Ruth Enlow Library offers three book clubs serving first graders through teenagers. Persons may call the number listed above or consult the library's web page at www.relib.net for more information. All book clubs are funded in part by the Friends of the Library.

Mystery Writer Donates Signed Books To REL

AYELET WALDMAN
by Peggy Santamaria

Mystery writer Ayelet Waldman recently donated to the Ruth Enlow Library autographed copies of her four novels in the "Mommy Track" series: Nursery Crimes, The Big Nap, A Playdate with Death, and Death Gets a Time-Out. The Berkeley, Calif., author is a Harvard Law School graduate who left her position as a public defender in Los Angeles to raise her four children. She subsequently launched a successful writing career.

The donation of the Mommy Track series was arranged by Aimee Thomas Goodrich, a friend of the author. Goodrich's mother and stepfather, Peggy and Eddie Santamaria, live in the Accident area, and Goodrich is a frequent visitor to their home.

"Every time I come to Garrett County, we make at least one trip to the Accident library," Goodrich said. "I have always been impressed with how friendly and helpful Janet, Ruth, and Evalou are. Now that my son Calen is 4, we make multiple library stops per visit."

Because her mother is an avid reader and a fan of mystery stories, Goodrich decided to ask Waldman if she would inscribe a book as a donation to the library. The author responded by autographing and donating the complete series, which will be available at the Accident branch of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County.

Vendors' Tables Available For AG Craft & Gift Sale

Limited space is still available for the Autumn Glory Craft and Gift Sale, slated for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16-17, at Dennett Road Elementary School. The event will take place from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

The remaining spaces at the school will be filled on a first come, first served basis, said Karen Reckner, special events coordinator. Vendors interested in participating should contact Reckner at 301-334-5093 or karen@garrettchamber.com for a registration packet before Wednesday, Sept. 15.

"Crafters and artists of all types are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to market their product to the 60,000 plus visitors who will attend the 37th annual festival," said Reckner.

Local and regional crafters will be selling a variety of items at the event, including handcrafted wood furniture, candles, jewelry, floral arrangements, Christmas decorations, birdhouses, and more. Craft and gift displays will be set up in the entrance lobby, the cafeteria, the gymnasium, the hallway, and outside the school.

The sponsorship of Farmers and Merchants Bank makes it possible for the Autumn Glory Craft and Gift Show to be offered free to the public, noted Reckner. The show is hosted by Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

"Last year we filled Dennett Road school with artisans and giftware suppliers from all over the Mid-Atlantic region," said Chamber president Charlie Ross. "This year shouldn't be any different. The quality of offerings is the highest and best around."

Heselbach Works Now On Display At GC Gallery

Recent paintings by local artist Carl Heselbach are currently on exhibit in the Garrett College Art Gallery through Sept. 17. The public is invited to an artist's reception on Saturday, Aug. 28, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Heselbach, who considers himself a "colorist," has developed a technique of eliminating subject matter in his paintings so the viewer can concentrate on the qualities of such elements as color and texture. He works primarily with acrylics mixed with polymer to achieve the versatility and aesthetics he seeks, and emphasizes the arrangement of visual elements – color, shape, texture, and space – rather than the re-creation of a particular scene.

"In art," Heselbach says, "color is basic to all things and we must analyze three main properties – hue, value, and saturation, which are continually and inseparably present in normal vision." He defines hue as the reflection of light waves from the surface of an object that produces different effects, value as the range of dark and light in colors, and saturation as the relative purity of a color from bright to dull. "It is my philosophy," he states, "that colors in art, like society in life, do not not function in isolation from one another, but rather as part of the whole."

Heselbach's works have been awarded first place in mixed media at the National Boardwalk exhibition in Atlantic City, N.J., and have been displayed at the Jinx Harris Art Gallery there, as well as several other galleries, including Scordato's Gallery in Cherry Hill, N.J., the Golden Door Gallery in New Hope, Pa., Accents in Washington, D.C., and the Cracked Wall in Baltimore. For five years he owned and operated his own gallery in Ellicott City, where he also redesigned and refurbished five buildings for a community renovation project.

Once an art major at Baltimore City College, Heselbach has also studied art at a number of Baltimore art schools, including the Rinehart Graduate School of Sculpture, the Maryland Institute of Art, and the Le Millet School of Art. His recent educational endeavors have included courses in printmaking and ceramics with Prof. Ron Skidmore at Garrett College, where he is employed as director of the copy center.

This exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, persons may contact the Art Dept. of Garrett College at e-mail rskidmor @garrettcollege.edu or phone 301-387-3024.

I have personally been in Mr. Edwards' home and visited with him and his family. Years earlier, I encouraged and supported 300 neighbors to invite Mr. Edwards and his opposition into their own homes, when Mr. Edwards was first running for political recognition, on the basis that communication with folks is one of the best ways to get to know someone and the things for which they stand as individuals.

I have also sat with Mr. Edwards, in his own office, in Annapolis, just to thank the man for his helpfulness in getting more funds for the meals-on-wheels program in the state of Maryland, because in rural America, many folks here in the USA have little or no contact with nutrition support otherwise (or even with other humans for that matter!). That nutritive support has helped many older folks, or folks deteriorated in vitality, to much more healthiness!

I am still in favor of Mr. Edwards, generally speaking. However, I am asking Mr. Edwards and other residents, and authority figures in this state of Maryland to please wake-up to the activities occurring within our communities! Read the foregoing and recognize the fact that those practices are heinously sadistic crimes towards living, breathing humans, that have no place in the United States of America!

Peter Jennings has citizenship in both the USA AND Canada. In September of 2001 it was Mr. Jennings who helped prevent many of us from walking around in denial. An automobile "glue-on" says, Denial isn't a river in Egypt! Believe it!

To the Editor:

The way the Bush administration cloaks its policies in deceptive initiative titles is shameful. We have the Clear Sky Initiative and the Healthy Forest Initiative, which in reality promote and expedite the logging of forests (with no public input) and the lowering of air quality standards. There is a reason Bush's Texas is the most polluted state, and now the Bush/Cheney team is working on polluting America to the benefit of the wealthy corporations they serve.

Now we have the proposed 145-million-dollar New Freedom Initiative. The New Freedom Initiative proposes to screen every American, including you, for mental illness. It's interesting to note that many on the staff appointed to the commission have served on the advisory boards of some of the nation's largest drug companies. Children and school personnel will be the first to be screened. One recommendation of the commission was that the screening be linked with "treatment and supports," using "specific medications for specific conditions." It is no coincidence that the treatments recommended for specific conditions are the newest, state-of-the-art treatments that will bring in the most revenues for the drug companies. You and your children will be tested and, if the government deems you in need, medicated. There is some good in this new initiative, but hidden within are the facts I mention.

Let's not forget the free speech zones set up by the Bush Administration to remove protestors of government policies to fenced off locations far from where the president and vice president are giving speeches (speeches funded by taxpayers, of course). There's no such thing as a member of the public trespassing on public property at a public event, yet the secret service continues to get local police authorities to arrest and detain folks carrying signs questioning Bush.

Our founding fathers would be rolling in their graves to learn that public grievances against government policies are being shut up, secluded, and individuals arrested. The hypocrisy of calling a fenced area far from the president a free speech zone is typical of the hypocrisy and deception this administration is renowned for.

Elections decided by the Supreme Court. Failure to prevent 9/11 with numerous warnings. Wars based on falsehoods. Increasing terrorism caused by out actions and a world turning against us. God's sacred earth and the water of life being destroyed by the rolling back of countless environment protecting regulations. These are facts that cannot be denied.

If you are a true patriot, moderate, and believe in democracy, vote ABB (Anybody But Bush). One Man taught us all clearly the evil of hypocrisy and the evil of living for and serving money/mammon. We must not forget this man who was crucified for throwing the merchants and money changers (corporations) out of the temple and setting the doves free. We must not forget this peaceful barefoot man, whose Father commanded us, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," and "Thou Shalt Not Bear False Witness." Words that leave little doubt as to their meaning.

Sincerely,
Crede Calhoun

Letter to the Editor:

In the past few weeks the Democrats have ramped up their attacks against President Bush. They are trying to distort the Bush record with cheap MTV-style ads and have the help of the likes of Michael Moore with his "Fahrenheit 9/11" documentary. They think that they can appeal to the so-called undecided voter and to the younger voter with these ads. I ask, do they really think we are that stupid? As a young voter, I know what we stand for as young voters, and the Kerry campaign just does not get it. So let's clear up John Kerry's record.

John Kerry is trying to portray himself as a leader. He said, "John Kerry, reporting for duty." He did this to try to appear strong and seem in charge. Well, let's start with that. He has chosen to run on his Vietnam record instead of his 19-year senate record. And Senator Kerry has missed over ¾ of the vote during this session of Congress. This shows he does not even care about his job as a senator. So since John Kerry has chosen to not tell you what he as done in the senate, let me enlighten you.

He voted 350 times to raise taxes on the middle class, and voted to cut defense and intelligence spending almost every time it came up for a vote.

He voted against the 87 billion dollars for the support of the troops in Afghanistan and Iraq.

He voted against the Laci and Conner, bill which protects the mother and unborn child from violent crime and allows prosecution for anyone who causes the baby to be killed through violence. He voted against the ban on partial-birth abortion, a procedure in which the child's head is born and then the skull is punctured and the brain is sucked out, killing the baby.

He voted for a federal 50-cent-per-gallon increase in taxes, which would cost the average person $750 more per year. He voted against the child tax credit, which allows a $1,000 tax credit to those in the middle class who have children. He voted against ending the marriage penalty tax, a tax that actually penalizes people for getting married by increasing the taxes on each individual who is married who works, so if both people work, you pay a penalty for that.

He voted against the prescription drug coverage for seniors in the Medicare program, which means, if he had his way, seniors would not be getting prescription drug coverage in 2006.

Oakland Sweeps To Pen Mar Title; Bidding For Md. Semi-Pro Crown

The Oakland Oaks took the Pen Mar Baseball League championship with a 15-7, 3-2 sweep over Parkersburg in the semi-pro circuit's best-of-three playoff finals this week. The Oaks, who took the Maryland semi-pro title two years ago, will open their bid for the 2004 crown Saturday in Taneytown when they take on the Westminster Falcons, champs of the Carroll County League, in a nine-inning state quarterfinal contest slated for a 2 p.m. start.

Saturday's eight-run romp over Parkersburg in the Pen-Mar finals opener was a blowout from the beginning. The visiting Oaks wasted no time in unleashing a torrent of runs, scoring six in the top of the first stanza and four in the second en route to stake starting pitcher Dan Vagnetti to a 10-1 lead after just 1½ innings of play.

It took the Oaks just two hits and two walks, along with a pair of Parkersburg errors, to mount their six-run first-inning flurry.

Oakland scored six runs on two hits, and was aided by two Parkersburg errors and two walks in the first inning. Parkersburg answered with one run in the bottom half of the stanza, but the Oaks put three runners aboard in the top of the second before Jeremy Fitzwater ripped a bases-clearing double.

Parkersburg attempted to chip away at Oakland's big advantage over the next several innings, and managed to narrow the gap to 11-7 after six, but that was as close as the West Virginia squad would get. The Oaks added insurance tallies of three runs in the eighth and one in the ninth.

Oakland recorded less hits than Parkersburg over the course of the contest, with the Oaks tallying a dozen hits to the hosts' 15, and the victors were also tagged with six errors overall to Parkersburg's four. However, Oakland's miscues caused far less damage than Parkersburg's errors.

The Oaks' Tobi Stoner recorded a triple, double, and single, while James Altobello and Jeremy Fitzwater both doubled and singled. Vagnetti worked the first four stanzas on the mound to claim the victory, giving up nine hits while whiffing two Parkersburg batters and issuing just one walk. Fitzwater notched the save by scattering six hits over five innings of relief work.

The tables turned for both squads in the series' deciding game the following afternoon at Garrett College, as Stoner and his Parkersburg counterpart Wheeler engaged in a classic pitchers' duel that was not decided until the final play. Each hurler worked the entire seven-inning contest, with Stoner tossing a two-hitter and netting nine strikeouts, while Wheeler held Oakland to just three hits.

Parkersburg drew first blood by scoring once in the top of the leadoff stanza, and Wheeler went on to record three shutout innings. Oakland grabbed the lead in the bottom of the fourth with a pair of runs as Billy Reams pushed the go-ahead run across with his RBI. The visitors tied the score at 2-all in the top of the fifth.

The score remained knotted until the bottom of the seventh inning, with Oakland at the plate and two outs showing.

With Bryan Lenhart, aboard base after a successful pinch-hit, the Oaks' Ryan Hess cracked a sharply hit ball between the Parkersburg shortstop and third baseman. The ball caromed off the shortstop's glove into left field, where the outfielder gathered it and fired the ball to the plate as Lenhart scampered home. Although the throw actually beat the runner to the plate, the Parkersburg catcher mishandled the ball, and Lenhart was able to score the winning run.

Looking ahead, should Oakland triumph Saturday in its quarterfinal match-up with Westminster, the Oaks would be crowned the state's semi-pro Western Region champions, and would advance to a semi-final battle slated for the following Saturday, Aug. 28, at 3 p.m. at Brunswick. The state championship will be decided that same evening in a 7 p.m. contest on the same diamond.

Local Water Skier Places Third In Natl. Competition

Swanton resident Sam Ingram finished third in his age group during last week's Water Ski National Championships at Okeeheelee Park, West Palm Beach, Fla. Ingram was joined by two other Swanton skiers, Ray Bennett and Brad Dugan, both of whom also competed in the field of 989 waterskiers.

"The season for waterskiers on Deep Creek Lake is not much longer than the ice-fishing season," a spokesperson for the Deep Creek Lake Watersports Club said in underscoring the local skiers' accomplishments. "In spite of this, Ingram leads a group of local enthusiasts who train tirelessly to compete in slalom waterskiing. The sport has numerous tournaments throughout the summer, and top skiers qualify to compete on regional and national levels."

At the conclusion of the Men's 3 competition, Ingram was tied for third place with two other skiers, just short of the first- and second-place finishers — both of whom have competed professionally.

Ingram and the two other third-place finishers had each skied around three buoys at a line length of 39½ feet off the standard line length of 75 feet, so the trio skied again to determine third place. Ingram came out strong at 11.25 meters and had a perfect pass. He came back at 10.75 meters (39½ feet off) and again skied around three buoys.

Neither of the other two skiers was able to repeat the performance, and Ingram was awarded third place. His run was only 2 buoys short of the first place skier's performance of 5 buoys at 10.75 meters.

Bennett placed 31st in Men's 2 with 3 buoys at a 13 meter line length, while Dugan placed 31st in Men's 1 with 4 buoys at a 13 meter line length.

TOP WATERSKIERS SPAWNED AT DEEP CREEK – In a sport dominated by residents of states where waterskiing is a year-round sport, several local waterskiers have made the most of the relatively few months they have to perfect their skills on Deep Creek Lake. The three Swanton area residents capped their competitive season last week by advancing to the Water Ski National Championships in West Palm Beach, Fla. Pictured above to the left are Sam Ingram, who took third place in Men's 3 Slalom for skiers age 35-45. Shown above right, from the left, are Ray Bennett and Brad Dugan, who joined Ingram for the national meet, which featured a field of 989 competitors. See story.

MLP Tennis Tournament Hosts Competitors From Near And Far

Germantown residents Colin Parker and Jennifer Stoker took the men's and women's open singles crowns, respectively, of the recent 83rd Western Maryland Tennis Championship. The tournament took place during cool but excellent playing conditions on the historic red clay tennis courts of the Mtn. Lake Park Tennis Club. Event referee David DeGrafft certified the results of 16 divisions of competition.

Parker won the men's open title by defeating Tim Halter of Frederick in the championship match, 6-1, 6-3. Halter is expected to be the top-seeded men's singles player for the Shepherd University tennis squad this coming season.

Stoker, ranked fourth in the Mid-Atlantic section, had a relatively easy win in the women's open championship defeating Marina Getz, 6-0, 6-4.

Chris Stambaugh, Frederick, was the repeat champion in the men's senior 35 singles winning easily over Pete Mudre Jr., New Albany, Ohio, who was ranked No. 9 in the Midwest, 6-3, 6-1.

William Moldoch, Annapolis, who stopped Hal Zorger, Elkins, W.Va., 6-3, 6-2, won the men's senior 45 championship.

David Simmons, Elkins, defeated Sam Sain, College Park, 6-1, 6-1, in the men's senior 55 singles.

In the men's senior 65 singles division, John Manoughan, Silver Spring, handily won the championship over Jack Fraser, Clarksburg, W.Va., 6-0, 6-1.

Jack Dorsey, Wheeling W.Va., won the men's senior 75 singles championship defeating Ed Anania, Silver Spring, 6-3, 6-3.

The top seeded men's doubles team of Tim Halter and Brandon Simmons, Elkins, defeated the brother team of Chris Stambaugh and Mike Stambaugh, Hagerstown, 6-3, 6-3, for the championship.

In the women's open doubles championship, the team of Barbara Bower, Fairmont, W.Va., and Candy Dauses, McHenry, defeated the team of Kathy Johnson, Oakland, and Anita Scheffel, Mtn. Lake Park, 6-1, 6-3.

The brother team of Pete Mudre Jr. and Steve Mudre, Galena, Ohio, won a closely contested men's senior 35 doubles championship defeating Bill Rublee, Brooklandville, and Sean O'Neil, Jefferson, 6-3, 7-6 (1).

In a hard fought men's senior 45 doubles championship Ken Howard, Frederick, and Harvey Rathner, Silver Spring, defeated Steve Dauses, McHenry, and Steve Yost, Ridgley, W.Va., 7-5, 6-7(5), 6-2.

Steve Dauses and Jay Franklin, Falls Church, Va., easily won the men's senior 55 doubles championship over Tom Hanna and Alex Lawrence, both of Clarksburg, W.Va., 6-1, 6-2.

In the division title for the men's senior 65 doubles championship, the team of John Manoughan and Harvey Rathner defeated Buck Atherton, Del Ray Beach, Fla., and Brit Kirwan, Pikesville, 6-1, 6-4.

Buck Atherton and Dave DeGrafft, Mtn. Lake Park, easily claimed the men's senior 70 doubles championship defeating Jack Barnes and Ron Peterson of Lutherville, 6-2, 6-2.

In a hard fought mixed open doubles championship, the team of Jennifer Stoker and Bill Riblee defeated Marina Getz and Fred Yost, 2-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Ken Howard and Robin Zimmerman, Frederick, won the mixed 45 doubles championship by defeating the brother-sister team of Steve Dustin, Gambrills, and Cathy Cummings, Lovettsville, Va., 6-1, 6-1

Serving as officials along with DeGrafft were tournament director William Tritt, and tournament secretary Kathie Smith. Other members of the tournament committee were Barbara Chesley, Nan Gangler, Kathleen Gibbs, Kathy Johnson, and Patrice Tritt.

The tournament received support from Pepsi-Cola, tents were provided by Stewart Funeral Home, and food was made available at the courts by the Winner's Circle Convenience Center.

DeGrafft noted the "excellent cooperation" of the mayor and town council and from the numerous volunteers who assisted with preparations and/or hosted various social events throughout the four-day tournament.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

LASER AND WOMEN'S REGATTAS SAILED IN LIGHT AIR

by Dan Muss

Like many outdoor sports, sailboat racing is subject to a wide variety of conditions, from raging line squalls to rain, fog, and, of course, no wind at all. So, if you want to participate, you have to be prepared to sail under any condition; any condition, that is, that is safe. And safety in a sailboat is primarily involved with sensitivity to the weather. The forecast for this past weekend was for no rain with winds "light and variable," and that's what we had.

On Saturday the principal race officer (PRO), Dave Mahan, postponed the start for about an hour and then started the fleets when a little NW breeze came up. The Lasers got off to a good start and so did the FS Championship Fleet. But there was no wind at the first windward mark off Thousand Acres and, while Carrie Carpenter got around and headed up the lake, the rest of the fleet bobbed helplessly in the motorboat wakes. Barbara Elster reported going around this mark three times! She said that every time she'd get almost around, a wake would shove her back.

On the down-wind leg, Carpenter chose to sail out in the middle while Dodd and Felix stayed in close to the Holy Cross shore. Dodd and Felix pick up a nice zephyr and scooted ahead to finish first and second. On days like Saturday it's just a matter of finding the little wind there is. It may seem like it ought to be a crapshoot, but the same boats always seem to sniff out those little breezes.

There was so little wind that the second race on Saturday was canceled. Sunday, if anything, was even worse with light wind 0 to 4 knots. Dodd was caught behind the line at the start, but, while Carpenter went out into the middle, Dodd again hugged the shore and squeaked around the mark first. Carpenter took her on the downwind leg while Dodd held second place to win the regatta. At one point Stephanie Mahan was shoved onto a mark she was rounding by a motorboat wake and she had to do a 360-degree penalty turn.

It may have been a frustrating weekend for the racers, but I'm continually struck by how helpful and supportive sailors are to each other. Joni Palmer, Meredith Dodd, and Ashley Dodd, the winning team of the U.S. National Championship, gave a workshop last Friday afternoon. They started with a lecture and Q and A session on shore, and then these young women went out with the attendees in their own boats and gave them 2-hour, on-the-water coaching sessions on racing technique.

Suzanne Shaw, a new member of the Turkey Neck Club, was bound and determined to sail in this women's regatta, but was held up by a sick child. When she needed help getting her boat rigged she was helped by her crew, Lynn Silverman, while Barbara Elster and John and Anna Blake also pitched in.

There was a three-way tie for first place in the FS Challenger Fleet so our official tie-breaking system was applied. The first tiebreaker is "who beat whom the most times." If it is still tied, it's "who beat whom last."

TOO BIG FOR A YARDSTICK – Friendsville resident Brandon Bennett shows off a 38-inch northern pike he pulled from the Yough Lake Reservoir recently. Bennett was fishing from shore when the big pike chomped down on his minnow, and the ensuing battle finally ended with dad's help in landing the whopper. Defending U.S. Sailing Champs Going To Hawaii

by Dan Muss

A team from Deep Creek Lake, winners of the 2003 Adams Cup – the U.S. National Women's Sailboat Racing Championship – has won the Area C Regional Semi-Final races and will be heading for the finals in Hawaii this coming October.

Last year the team of Joni Palmer, skipper, and Carrie Carpenter and Meredith Dodd, crews, won this prestigious award in Flying Scots supplied by Flying Scot Inc. of Deer Park at Lake Norman, N.C. This year the Adams Cup is being sailed in the J24, a large, fixed keel, racing sailboat.

With the addition of Ashley Dodd to bring the crew complement to four, Palmer's team had only one day on a J24 out of Annapolis to get familiar with the boat's rigging and handling characteristics before going on to the Area C semi-finals in Raritan Bay, N.J.

In 2003 the Area C semi-finals were sailed here on Deep Creek Lake, and there were a total of six teams competing. With the Deep Creek team as defending national champs, only one other unintimidated team showed up to challenge them, and an exciting challenge it was. With only two boats sailing it was, de facto, a match race. Deep Creek won the first race, lost the second, and won the third. The tie-breaking rules (described in the Sailing Column of this issue) dictate that the winner of this fourth race would go on to the finals. But Deep Creek won the start and covered their opponents the whole way to win.

Our Deep Creek team will now go on to the finals in October against nine competitors from all over the U.S. at Kaneohe Yacht Club, Oahu, Hawaii. They will have Ashley on the bow calling the puffs, Carrie in the pit calling the tactics, and Meredith on jib and spinnaker sheets – and keeping Joni Palmer, skipper, calmed down.

owns the Heinz Ketchup Company. John Kerry speaks about large companies exporting jobs overseas. Well, 80% of Heinz Ketchup is based overseas. It is one of the largest exporters of American jobs. He claims he is for the middle class, and between him and his wife, they are worth over a billion dollars.

John Kerry claims he will bring the world community into Iraq. By the world, he means France and Germany, who did not want to invade Iraq because they had deals with Sadaam Hussein to get oil cheap if they agreed to protect Saddam. John Kerry will bring in the UN, which means turning control of our troops over to the UN, instead of their being controlled by American commanders.

John Kerry claims he will make America independent of foreign oil, yet he voted against funding for alternative energy research, and will not allow us to drill our reserves in Alaska, despite the fact that we can safely drill our own oil. So, if Kerry and his party have their way, no alternative to oil and no oil at home. So where will it come from?

If you are a young person, prove to Mr. Kerry that we are not stupid and are not automatically on his side. Vote this November 2, 2004. If you are not registered, get registered. It is very easy. If there is any chance you will not be able to get to the polls, call the Garrett County Board of Elections at 301-334-6985 and request an absentee ballot as soon as possible. There is no reason to not vote.

To the Editor:

While I do not want to engage in a debate over zoning and environmental issues in the newspaper, I am compelled to respond to certain allegations and false statements made by Mr. William Trepp in his letter to the editor, dated August 12.

As the owner of Black Bear Tavern and Restaurant, I have been before the Garrett County Zoning Board of Appeals on several occasions to apply for and be granted the right to operate a tavern and restaurant at "The Fort" in McHenry, an area zoned Town Center.

Mr. Trepp stated that my testimony "proved" that the noise levels measured from the Black Bear exceeded the permissible levels by the Maryland Department of Environment (MDE) by 70%. My testimony to the Zoning Board of Appeals was that the noise levels measured in the summer of 2001 from Black Bear did not exceed 62dB(A) at the adjacent property lines, which were within the allowable limits for the night time (10 p.m.–7 a.m.) period in the Commercial land use category, COMAR 26.02.03.03 (A1) Table #2. The commercial tables were cited because Black Bear is a commercial business located in Town Center. If this were a hearing for a business in an area zoned Lake Residential, the lower residential tables would have to have been used. Just because a person has a residence in Town Center does not mean he or she has the protections afforded someone in Lake Residential.

I also stated that, of the 41,000 acres in the Deep Creek Lake Watershed, a mere 1.7% are allocated as Town Center, and run predominately along U.S. 219 from Foodland Fresh to Uno's. It is very important for your readers to understand that Town Center is defined in the Development Plan for Garrett County as an area intended to provide for higher-density, more compact village or small town settlements. Town Center represents the core areas of most of the existing towns, which contain a mixture of residential, commercial, and service uses. Single-family homes, apartment buildings, retail stores, churches, restaurants, apartments above shops, offices, and other uses are intermixed in these Town Center areas "to accommodate those persons who prefer (or at least do not mind) living in this setting" (my emphasis). It is because of this mix-use classification in Garrett County that single-family residences, townhouses, and condominiums are allowed to be built with substantially reduced frontage, lot sizes, and setbacks, and with that, lower taxes. This rapid, high-density development in the McHenry Town Center area is a major concern by many and just listed by ERM in the recent Deep Creek Lake study meeting in early August. Last year, Doug McClive's restaurant was torn down and replaced with 18 condominiums and several homes, many of which are directly adjacent to the high noise traffic of U.S. 219 and the commercial noise from the businesses in The Fort.

With regard to Mr. Trepp's statement of complaints levied against Black Bear from residents across the lake, I will tell you that Garrett County Planning and Zoning does an excellent job of dealing with the many issues before them, and if there ever has been a complaint or perceived violation of an operational nature with my business, John Nelson or Jim Torrington would not hesitate to contact me for clarification or corrective action. Planning and Zoning has never notified me of any complaints by persons across the lake, as Mr. Trepp has stated.

It appears to me that Mr. Trepp is unhappy where he lives because of the proximity of his residence to one of the few large commercial business complexes in McHenry. He didn't mention in his letter that he bought his condominium just one year ago, August 2003, in Hartwood Village, directly across from "The Fort." For nearly 15 years, the Fort has had restaurants, bars, go-carts, miniature golf, retail stores, and high intensity lighting as a part of their commercial businesses. Black Bear has been in the Fort for over five years, offering our local and visiting customers summertime entertainment on the deck since Memorial Day 2002, as permitted by a Garrett County Planning and Zoning, and operating within the limits set forth by the state of Maryland, Department of the Environment. Mr. Trepp must have clearly noticed (or heard) this when he chose to purchase a residence so close to this establishment, one which he now so vehemently opposes.

Deep Creek Lake is not a bedroom community completely void of noise, light, traffic, and trash. A person buying a home on top or near the Wisp must be prepared to accept the bright lights from the slopes and the constant noise of the snowmaking guns in the winter. Anyone interested in buying property at Deep Creek Lake for investment, or for part-time or year-round residence should carefully evaluate the many different locations of the lake area and determine what is right for them. 91% of the acreage around the lake is zoned Lake Residential, which prohibits or severely restricts commercial growth. Only 1.7% is allocated for Town Center, which is the area adjacent to the lake, permitted and established for business growth, and residences for "those persons who prefer (or at least do not mind) living in this setting."

To the Editor:

Phil Malone's recent letter to the editor suggested that we should gladly sacrifice our landscape and wildlife upon the altar of clean, renewable energy because doing so would reduce our dependence upon dirty coal-burning power plants. He criticized those who do not support this sacrifice as NIMBYs led astray by realtors concerned only with short-term self-interest. But are these opinions informed? No!

Mr. Malone greatly overstated the benefits of the wind turbines planned atop Backbone Mountain, which will generate only a third of the electricity he believes because the wind doesn't blow constantly. Consequently, his estimate of how many tons of coal would need to be burned to equal the electricity output of these wind turbines was inflated by a factor of 3. The nearby Mt. Storm powerplant burns over five million tons of coal each year. Over 3,000 huge wind turbines would be needed to equal the output of just one coal-fueled facility. Without siting regulations this could cover over 500 miles of ridgeline. Garrett County has over 400,000 acres of land, and the Friends of Backbone Mountain believe appropriate studies of all impacts that lead to siting regulations and places shorter off-ridge clustered units is a far better option.

What's Happening At The Drane House?

by Becky Aiken and Sherry Georg

This Saturday, Aug. 21, members of the Flowery Vale Garden Society will be working in the garden to set the last of the raised beds. The Drane House will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., and will feature a display of pictures and memorabilia from some of Garrett County's first families.

One of the pictures, on loan from the collection of Mrs. Arlene Georg, is of the blacksmith shop of Edwin Georg (shown above). According to Mary Miller Strauss's book, A History of Accident, Maryland, Edwin was a skillful and much sought-after blacksmith.

He and his wife Mary lived in Accident and opened a blacksmith shop around 1900. His first shop was destroyed by fire in 1950. He rebuilt his business and worked there until his death in 1955.

Do you know the people in the picture? To find out, come celebrate the past at the Drane House. For more information, persons may call Becky Aiken at 301-746-8427, or Sherry Georg at 301-746-8766.

We need to understand that wind and other "renewable" energy sources in our region are very limited and capable of supplying only a small percentage of the energy levels we presently consume. We are rapidly increasing our demand for energy. Maryland – and the entire Mid-Atlantic region – likely will double its rate of electricity consumption within 30 years. Even if we could maximally tap all of the realistically developable sources of alternative energy – erecting over 30,000 gigantic wind turbines throughout Maryland and neighboring states – we would not reduce the current rate of mining or burning of coal in this region. It is sadly likely that we will burn far greater levels of fossil fuels in coming decades to fulfill our huge and growing demand for energy.

The relatively small power output form potentially thousands of 4-story tall wind turbines atop all of our ridgelines is not worth the sacrifice of our region's valuable scenery and wildlife and heritage. Neither is it worth the risk to neighboring property values or the local tourist economy. Full-scale development of wind energy in this region will only slightly lessen the increasing rate we will consume fossil fuels in the future.

If Congress authorizes tax credits for wind developers, we the taxpayers will be fleeced. This is because the enormous tax credits and revenue for the wind industry's investors is subsidized by money we all pay in federal taxes. Energy ratepayers will be paying more too because inefficient wind energy costs more than other electricity sources. Coal plants will still be puffing away, and without siting regulations the ridgelines everywhere in the region will be littered with reminders about the ineffectiveness of our energy policy. Despite Mr. Malone's wishful thinking that the electricity generated from wind turbines in our area will supply local demand, the electricity with very large profits to investors will be exported far from Garrett County!

If renewable Portfolio Standards and Production Tax Credits were used to create appropriately scaled and sited wind projects like those constructed at Searsburg, Ver., and Princeton Mass., (where all turbines are under 200 feet tall), few would object.

The Friends of Backbone Mountain is seeking a moratorium on all wind projects in Garrett County until a thorough proactive scientific review process can be completed. There is real, new evidence regarding bird and bat kills, noise, and property devaluation regarding the wind industry. Friends of Backbone Mountain is not saying NO to alternative energy, it is saying YES to acting with accountability and responsibly.

The growing group of over 200 citizens dedicated to the goal of preserving the state's highest ridge as a natural heritage resource include county natives, those who have recently retired here, environmentalists, businessmen, institutional leaders, farmers, realtors, nurses, physicians, teachers, and therapists. People from other states have learned about the potential to ruin Maryland's highest ridgeline and have joined the group too. The philanthropic Sprenger-Lang Foundation, Citizens for Responsible Windpower, and Friends of Blackwater Canyon have all joined in the campaign to enact a moratorium with the Friends of Backbone Mountain.

Unless it is due to being misinformed, I personally find it difficult to understand the ethics of those supporting illuminated, 40-story, inefficient, bird-killing machines along Backbone Mountain. Why would anyone sacrifice the wildlife and beauty which defines our county's identity to perpetuate profit driven investment mechanisms using tax dollars to ruin our sacred heritage and daily horizon viewshed? Sadly, the answer is money. This is exactly why the project was placed on hold last December when Congress appropriately failed the Energy Bill. Please check these facts for yourself. Speak to people in Meyersdale, Pa., whose lives have been made miserable by windtowers there. These people are real examples of the ripple effect that starts with the illusion of "free, no-impact energy alternatives." Their property and homes that have been handed down from generations before them are now ruined with no hope for appeal or reversal. This is the reward for citizens who have worked their entire life to build and create their dream homes to pass on to their children. Our heritage and scenic views should not be up for grabs to the highest bidder without any consideration to those who are effected directly.

Please, Mr. Malone and others, consider all the facts and work with us to create appropriate, enforceable siting regulations for all wind machine projects. Let's do the science and examine alternatives first, before we clear-cut and ravage our resources and fall victim again to profiteers who exploit our regional beauty and wildlife and leave town with the profits. We need your help and want you as an ally.

Respectfully,
Eric Tribby

The success of the team in the U.S. National and World Preliminary round earned all 27 youth athletes an opportunity to advance to the World finals.

"Anytime you make it to the final round of the world competition, it is rewarding. The pressure we felt was to win the national competition because only two athletes or teams from one country are allowed to advance to the finals. This year was one of the most competitive national events we have faced since 1999," said Brosnihan.

The World Championship finals resulted in the local team winning two silver medals and one bronze. The junior varsity team of Kira Farley, Kelsey Jones, Rachel Margroff, Alayna Gaither, Kellie Shotwell, and Jessica Warnick earned a silver medal in the junior varsity team division, beating teams from China and Brazil.

"This team is comprised of our most experienced athletes," the coach said. "They have been competing together for three years. We are all very proud that they were able to earn silver medals two consecutive years. The junior varsity division is one of the most competitive categories."

The junior varsity team of Erin Beiler, Morgan Brosnihan, Paige Carr, Anna Keefer, Samantha Taylor, and Abby Wildesen ranked fourth following their first-ever junior varsity competition.

The world champions for the junior teams were from Brazil. The World silver medal was awarded to the junior team of Sara King, Olivia Gaither, Sara King, Micalea Beckman, Carson Quigley, Callie Vernon, and Raeslee Weimer. The junior team bronze medal went to Mikaela Bernard, Kody Fike, Elizabeth Green, Alli Shaffer, Jordan Seaman, Leah Mowbray, and Maddy Whittemore.

"With the exception of Jennifer Feaster, our entire junior team was new to the world championships," Brosnihan said. "Their training paid off as they delivered two strong performances. Following the final round of competition, the differences between our routines and those of the Brazilians came down to just a few slight technical points.

"The experience both teams received from competing at the world championships will make them strong contenders at their next competition," she said.

Parent Paige Quigley said she is grateful for the life experience her child received from her participation at this event.

"It was fun to watch them interact with the kids from Japan, China, and Brazil," Quigley said. "They exchanged pins, cards, and T-shirts. There are many lessons they all learned that go way beyond the competition."

Amy Anderson, assistant coach, said the individual competitions were "as exciting as ever" with an increased number of competitors in each category. Jennifer Feaster finished fifth for the junior division.

"This is the first year the event added a junior individual competition. Jennifer Feaster not only won the U.S. gold medal, but she also finished with an impressive fifth place ranking, beating out 10 other competitors in the final round," Anderson said.

In the junior varsity individual category, Kira Farley just missed the medal podium by placing fourth out of 34 competitors. Also making the top 10 in the same category was teammate Rachel Margroff.

"Having two athletes make the top 10 in such a competitive category was really exciting," Brosnihan said. "Each of these girls has worked very hard throughout the year, and their discipline and training are what makes each of them a true winner. It is the process and yearlong training that makes their experiences so valuable."

Alissa Garland competed in the varsity individual category with a ninth place finish.

"Alissa had a nearly flawless routine. The competition among the top 10 in her category can sometimes be separated by just hundredths of a point," the coach said. Chelsea Sullivan from Greensboro, N.C., defended her world title by becoming the first U.S. athlete to win for two consecutive years. Sullivan and two of her teammates also won gold in the varsity trio division, giving the United States two gold medals for this year's world championships.

Eighty-two family members accompanied the Garrett County team to California, Brosnihan said. After the competition, the group went sightseeing around Los Angles and took a trip to Disneyland.

GC Museum Anniversary Bash To Feature Music, Open House, Tours

By Mary Sincell McEwen

The Garrett County Historical Society will commemorate the 35th anniversary of the launch of its museum by hosting a two-day celebration Aug. 27 and 28.

The ribbon was cut at the museum on Nov. 9, 1969, at its original location, the building that is now Our Town Theatre on Center Street. The museum was moved to Second Street in downtown Oakland in 1997 into the former First National Bank building. The museum is a busy place, according to Bob Boal, president of the Garrett Count Historical Society.

"Last year we had over 6,000 visitors from most states of the U.S. and several foreign countries," Boal said. "This year we are going exceed that."

To celebrate the 35th birthday of the popular place, the Society has planned two days of activities at the museum. The festivities will begin on Friday, Aug. 27, with light refreshments on the museum's porch, a replica of the veranda of the historic Deer Park Hotel. Guided tours of the museum will also be offered, Boal said.

Musical entertainment will be provided on Saturday, Aug. 28, at Dailey's Park, which adjoins the museum, beginning at 7 p.m. The Mountaintop Dixieland Jazz Band will perform from 7 until 8 p.m. Band members are Jeff Gilbert, guitar; Moe Turrentine, trumpet; Larry Perez, trombone; Bill Boehmer, clarinet; Dave Wheeler, tuba; Barbara Peters, piano; Greg Was, sax; and Robbie Kutchman, drums.

The Crellin Quartet, with members David Martin, Tim Miller, Bob DeWitt, and Lloyd Decker, accompanied by Cliff DeWitt on keyboard, will perform from 8 until 8:30 p.m.

The concert is free. Guests are asked to bring blankets or chairs for use on the lawn of Dailey's Park during the concerts. Electronic equipment for the performance is being provided by the Sincell Publishing Company.

The celebration comes after two significant deaths in the historical society "family." Beth (Shirer Callis) Friend, curator of the museum from 1984 to 2000, and Carol Davis, curator from 2003 to the first part of 2004, both passed away this year. They were much valued by Boal and the entire organization.

"These were terrible losses for us," he said. "We miss both Beth and Carol very much."

The president said he credits Mrs. Friend for a significant aspect of the museum.

"When we first bought the present building, we initially thought we would take down the walls and have one very large room for our displays. But Beth had a better idea," he said. "She went room by room and designed themes for each one. This has turned out to be one of the most popular features of the museum. People love it."

If a visitor is interested in the musical heritage of Garrett County, there is a room designed in that theme. If clothing or household items are of more interest to another guest, there are rooms for those things as well. Local war history can be found in a room, as well as displays focused on local landmarks.

"The success of the room-by-room set-up is a real tribute to Beth," Boal said.

Before Friend served as curator, the role was that of Mary Virginia Jones, who was the first. She served from 1968 (before the museum officially opened but while pieces were being gathered) until 1984. The current curator is Gretchen Shaffer, assisted by Eleanor Callis.

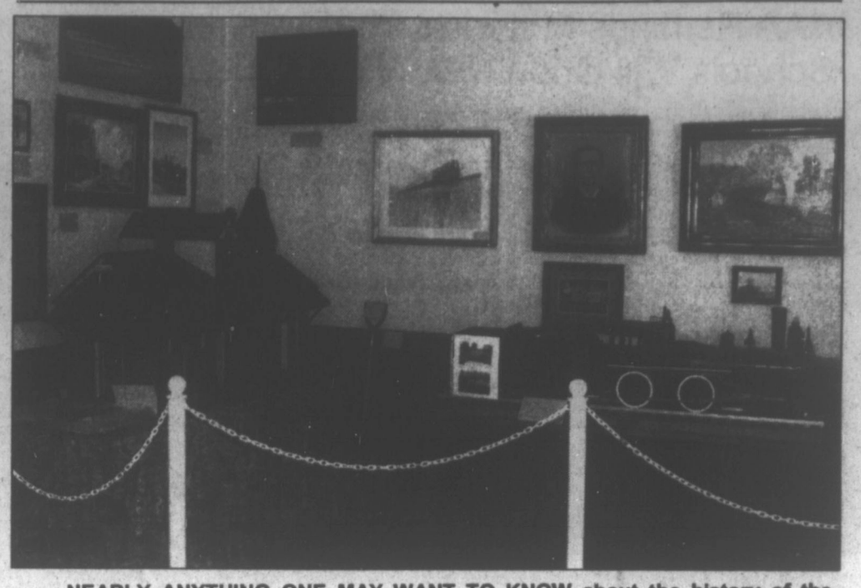
Boal said the historical society members are thrilled by the continued increase in foot traffic at the museum, and that he especially likes to see young people come in.

He had special thanks for the Smith Foundation, as that organization pays to transport every fourth grader in Garrett County to the museum every year. The kids are taken on tours by local historians John Grant, Bob Shaffer, or Junior Ferguson.

"This is such a great program," Boal said. "I love having children in the museum. It's so important for them. They really are our future."

The museum offers something of interest for nearly everyone of every age. There is genealogy information, local old photography, interesting art, and much local family history on display. Those who have never visited will surely be impressed by the volume of items and information, and those who have been in the museum already know how much more there is yet to see. So all are encouraged to come celebrate 35 years of the museum's existence by taking a walk through the facility, and taking a look at more than a century of the mountaintop's rich history.

THE MUSEUM DOORS WERE OPENED 35 YEARS AGO and the visitors have never stopped coming through them. In fact, the number of visitors to the Garrett County Historical Society Museum continues to increase every year. To celebrate that 35-year success, the historical society will host a celebration on Aug. 27 and 28 at the facility, which is now located along Second Street in Oakland. See story. Pictured above are Paul and Ruth Calderwood in 1969 as they enter the original museum, which was first in the former Episcopal church parish house. The building now houses Our Town Theatre.



NEARLY ANYTHING ONE MAY WANT TO KNOW about the history of the mountaintop area can probably be found at the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, located along Second Street in downtown Oakland. The museum has been in operation for 35 years, and that milestone is being celebrated by the historical society on Aug. 27 and 28 with musical entertainment and an open house. See story. Shown above is the museum's B&O railroad display, complete with information about John Garrett, a dominant figure (and name, of course) in the county's history. In the photo below is the music room, which celebrates the important role music has played in the county since the beginning. Photos by John McEwen.

DAILY LIFE WAS HARD in the early days of Garrett County, as can be at least partially understood by visiting the local museum and imagining the routine chores required of all men, women, and even children. A vast array of early kitchen utensils and appliances is on display, along with many styles of clothing worn (and washed) by early residents of the mountaintop.

In Loving Memory of
BARRY E. BEACHY
It is just a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared you
For many, many more years.
We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died.
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.
Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has plannned
Beyond our power to see.
So looking back in tenderness
Along the path we trod,
We cherish the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.
No one knows how much we miss you
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
A million times we've needed;
A million times we've cried.
If love alone could have saved
You never would have died.
In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.
Sadly Missed By,

AAA Reminds Motorists That Schools Will Open Next Week

For millions of schoolchildren it is time to go back to school and for millions of drivers it is time to slow down and to be on the lookout for young, distracted pedestrians. For these reasons, AAA Mid-Atlantic is reminding Maryland motorists that schools begin opening next week – drive carefully.

"Children get caught up in the excitement of going back to school, seeing their friends again, and they often forget to look both ways," said John White, public and government relations manager for AAA Mid-Atlantic. "At the same time, many younger pedestrians have trouble accurately judging traffic speed and distance. For these reasons, drivers need to be particularly careful at this time of year in order to avoid tragic accidents."

Garrett County's students will return to school next Thursday, Aug. 26.

One-fifth of all children 14 years of age and younger who die in motor vehicle crashes are pedestrians, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. These pedestrian fatalities are more likely to happen in the afternoon hours. Nearly half of child pedestrian deaths routinely occur between 4 and 8 p.m.

AAA's School's Open - Drive Carefully campaign encourages motorists to stay alert in areas where children are present, paying special attention during the morning and afternoon hours while children are coming to and from school. Drivers should look out for children who may dart out into the street near school zones, playgrounds, bus stops, and in neighborhoods.

School-age children can be especially vulnerable in heavy traffic areas, where there is a higher posted speed limit, streets where vehicles are parked along the road, and where pedestrian-control devices, such as crosswalks and signals, are lacking.

As part of the School's Open - Drive Carefully campaign, AAA Mid-Atlantic offers drivers tips to keep schoolchildren safe:

•Recent studies have shown that more than one-third of motorists in school zones or neighborhoods just "roll through" intersections with a stop sign. Slow down in or near school and residential areas, and be sure to come to a complete stop at all intersections.

•Drive with your headlights on - even during the day- so children and other drivers can see you.

•Look for clues such as school safety patrollers, crossing guards, bicycles, and playgrounds, which indicate children could be in the area.

•Scan between parked cars and other objects for signs that children could dart into the road.

•Practice extra caution in adverse weather conditions.

•Pay particular attention in the morning and afternoon hours when driving near schools.

•Always stop for school buses that are loading and unloading students.

AAA Mid-Atlantic serves 3.4 million members in Maryland, the District of Columbia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Virginia.

"The winner of our 50/50 raffle, Lucinda Cartwright of Terra Alta, W.Va., donated 50 percent of her prize money back to us," said Lisa Baker, Humane Society member. Cartwright donated the other 50 percent to the Preston County Humane Society. "We appreciate her generosity," said Baker. "Most people would not give away prize money. The donation will help us continue to help neglected, injured, and homeless animals, plus enable us to keep promoting spaying and neutering."

Lucas, who completed an associate degree in dental hygiene in May, has transferred to West Virginia University to complete a bachelor's degree in dental hygiene. Following graduation she plans to work full time in private practice.

Lucas, a graduate of Southern High School, is the daughter of Gary and Melissa E. Lucas.

Community Team Being Formed For GC Girl Scouts

A community service team is being formed to direct the future of Girl Scouts in Garrett County. Area troops are part of the Girl Scout Trillium Council, which covers western Pennsylvania, Garrett County, and Monongalia and Preston counties in West Virginia.

The goals of the new Garrett County Girl Scout Community Service Team are to organize local troops, create more opportunities for local girls, and provide a certain future for a "strong Girl Scout presence in the county," noted Marta Schroyer, new troop leader.

"I always had strong memories of my years in the Girl Scouts and was shocked to learn that many girls would not have a troop unless I volunteered," Schroyer said. "Garrett County is so conducive to the Scouting experience, and every girl here should have the opportunity to be a Girl Scout."

The team is actively seeking adult volunteers as well as girls for troops. Recruiters have been assigned to Yough Glades, Dennett Road, Grantsville, Friendsville, Broad Ford, and Kitzmiller elementary schools.

"We hope to diversify our team by including adults from all walks of life," said Donna Simpson, membership coordinator. "You don't have to have a daughter in Girl Scouts to help."

A training day will be held in Garrett County on Saturday, Sept. 18, at Garrett College. The day will include an orientation, as well as age-related training. Anyone interested in learning more about becoming an adult volunteer is welcome to sign up to attend. In addition, anyone interested in joining the team, starting a troop, or registering a child may call Simpson at 800-248-3355, ext. 2528.

"This is an exciting time for Girl Scouts in Garrett County," said community manager Elizabeth Huxford. "The inception of this team will provide the foundation for a stronger Scouting experience for all of our girls."

SIRIUS AT THE GLEN REVIEW

GUTSY performance

Stewart finds a way to victory despite stomach discomfort

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Watkins Glen, N.Y.

There was a golf cart waiting to whisk Tony Stewart directly to his motor home immediately after winning Sunday's Sirius at the Glen at Watkins Glen International.

He didn't even stop in Victory Lane to thank God, Gatorade and the boys back at the shop. Radio announcers thought Stewart was being rude.

Stewart finally got to the victory ceremony about 20 minutes later, in a fresh uniform. But inquiring minds had to know: Tony, did you go directly to your motor home to take care of your stomach cramps?

"No," Stewart shot back, "I wanted to rush back and brush my hair to make sure I looked good for you [reporters]."

Stewart was feeling his oats again, if still a bit queasy in the stomach.

He had just completed one gutsy performance, wheeling the No. 20 Chevrolet 220.5 miles around the Glen's 11-turn road course for nearly two and a half hours. All the while, his stomach screamed for some relief.

He beat the cramps and road-course specialist Ron Fellows in the No. 1 Chevy by 1.517 seconds. Mark Martin, in the No. 6 Ford, was third.

It was Stewart's second victory this season.

Stewart's stomach pains were so discomforting, his team summoned road-course specialist Boris Said to stand by as a relief driver.

But Stewart soldiered on, buoyed by a great run. He led four times for more than half the race, 46 of 90 laps, including the last 24. He clearly had the strongest car.

The longer Stewart was in the car, the more reluctant he was to get out. "I just decided that I've worked too hard to get myself in this position, and I'm not going to give it up like that."

Stewart said the cramps began about Lap 15. They were a continuation of pains he had Saturday night. He dismissed the idea of food poisoning. He said it couldn't possibly have been anything his girlfriend, Krista, had cooked.

"They'd get bad for a while, then they'd subside for a while," Stewart said. "The good thing is the last 20 laps where I needed to be focused, that's the one part of the race where they went down a little bit. As soon as we took the checkered and slowed down, they came again. I'm glad it was over when it was over."

Stewart believes his perseverance will be a boost for his team.

"You can tell guys that you don't give up on them as the race goes on. When they know you are sick like that and to put on a performance like we did today shows them you aren't giving up on them," Stewart said. "These guys have never given up on me no matter what has happened. I'm never giving up on them."

SIRIUS AT THE GLEN NOTEBOOK

Championship race gets much tighter

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Watkins Glen, N.Y.

The chase for the race for the Nextel Cup championship got a bit tighter after Sunday's Sirius at the Glen.

The top 10 cars and those within 400 points of the leader qualify for the 10-race playoff.

The big winner was Jeremy Mayfield, who cracked the top 10, up from 12th, with a seventh-place finish. But five drivers behind Mayfield are within 99 points of the top 10.

"We're not going to look behind us," Mayfield said. "We're just going to look ahead."

Kasey Kahne, who finished 14th in the No. 9 Dodge, remained 11th in points, 24 points out of 10th.

Ryan Newman was the day's big loser, coming in 26th in the No. 12 Dodge and falling from 10th to 12th, 29 points behind Mayfield. "We just didn't have any brakes," Newman said.

Mark Martin moved two spots to 13th with a third-place finish in the No. 6 Ford. He's 72 points out of 10th. He showed more emotion, however, when asked about teammate Jeff Burton leaving the Roush organization for Richard Childress.

"I thought I was partners with Jeff Burton in careers," Martin said. "Now that this has happened, I realize that I was friends with Jeff Burton; it didn't have anything to do with careers."

Johnson, Gordon swap lead

Jimmie Johnson temporarily lost the Nextel Cup points lead to teammate Jeff Gordon during the segment of Sunday's race when Gordon led twice for 13 laps.

But Johnson eventually regained the lead sitting in the garage with the No. 48 Chevrolet with engine and transmission failure when Gordon lost a gear and finished 21st in the No. 24 Chevy. Johnson's lead is down to 40 points over Gordon. Johnson has lost 192 points of his lead the past two races.

JOHNSON

"I'm disappointed in myself," Johnson said. "I made a mistake. We tried a little different shifter combination. I made a few mistakes today on a restart. I came from second trying to hit third and fell right into first. It hurt first gear. I have nowhere to look but in the mirror."

Harsh words from Marlin

Sterling Marlin, driver of the No. 40 Dodge, was derailed by a wreck apparently caused by Greg Biffle, driver of the No. 16 Ford. "I got run over by a bug-eyed dummy, I guess," Marlin said. He finished 36th, 40 laps down.

Hamilton plays a victory tune at Nashville

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Gladeville, Tenn.

Nashville Superspeedway finally awarded its signature trophy, a custom-made Gibson guitar, to someone who could actually play it.

Hometown favorite Bobby Hamilton, who was taught to play the guitar by the late country singer Marty Robbins, picked apart the Craftsman Truck Series competition in the Toyota Tundra 200 to get the trophy he said he has wanted for years.

He led only three times for 17 laps, including the final eight, but his challengers said he spent most of the race playing them like a fiddle — riding along, sizing them up and saving his best move for the finish.

Second-finishing David Starr said he chased down Hamilton in mid-race only to be motioned on by.

"[Hamilton] is kind of smart," Starr said. "I caught him early, and he just pointed his finger out the window and let me go.

"It's pretty ironic that he came back at the end of the race and beat me."

In winning for the fourth time this season, Hamilton also padded his lead in the points standings from five to 84 over second-place Dennis Setzer, who finished 19th.

TRACK TALK

Watkins Glen better, but good enough?

Improvement plan in place to address track's shortcomings

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Watkins Glen, N.Y.

Years of neglect had turned Watkins Glen International into a less-than-major-league facility. But a $4.5 million improvement plan is turning things around.

The track has had the same wood bleachers near the start/finish line for 30 years. The press box would not be acceptable at most high school stadiums. A power failure two years ago caused the track to borrow generators and long extension cords so its race could be reported.

The garage area might have been big enough to accommodate little sports cars, but since NASCAR's stock cars first arrived here in 1986, they have had to park at an angle to fit in the doors.

"It was so bad there," said Rusty Wallace, driver of the No. 2 Dodge, "that we had guys elbowing each other from team to team trying to get the jacks up under the cars."

Now the garage has been widened. "We've widened all the bays to allow better access for the teams," track president Craig Rust said. "That's been something they've been looking forward to for years."

There's even new comfort for the drivers. "Five years ago, they had a latrine out back," said P.J. Jones, an occasional entrant in Cup races who has raced here many times and holds the track speed record in a sports car. "Now we have some nice bathrooms."

"There were some things that needed to be addressed; it wasn't a secret," Rust said.

The track and its community have a long and storied racing history.

Open-wheel racing in the United States began in 1948 through the village streets of Watkins Glen, bringing legendary drivers such as Jackie Stewart, Emerson Fittipaldi, Mario Andretti and Graham Hill.

Over the past 56 years, the Glen has hosted numerous racing series, including NASCAR, Can-Am, Trans-Am and Formula One, which raced its U.S. Grand Prix here from 1961-1980.

While Infineon Raceway in Sonoma, Calif., poured millions into its road course for fan amenities such as seating terraced into hillsides, the Glen did not until this year. Aluminum bleachers with backrests are coming in the fall.

When International Speedway Corp., recently announced it purchased land on Staten Island with plans to one day build a speedway near New York City, the Glen's race date was mentioned as vulnerable. ISC also owns this track.

"That would be a tragedy," Jones said. "It's almost a historic site, especially in motor racing. You get a great crowd there. I think it'd be a tragedy for this sport to see anything happen to that race track."

"When you look at all the tracks wanting dates," Wallace said, "it's definitely in [the Glen's] best interest to make these changes."

Veterans' Affairs Will Be Focus Of LWV Picnic

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County will host a forum on veterans' affairs at its upcoming annual picnic slated for 6 p.m. Monday, Aug. 30, at Broadford Lake Park, pavilion #1. This event is free and open to the public. All interested citizens are encouraged by the league to attend, rain or shine.

"Veterans' issues are one of the important issues to consider in this upcoming election as they impact many of our county residents," stated Cathy Ashby, LWVGC vice president. "A forum on this issue with speakers from both political parties, and in conjunction with our picnic, offers citizens an opportunity to gather for discussion in a social, non-partisan setting."

Guest speakers will include Republican Lawrence Kimble, former Maryland deputy secretary of veterans affairs, and Ken Braitman, currently representing Garrett County on the state Kerry for President Committee for Veterans' Issues. Local dignitaries will be among the invited guests.

Kimble, a graduate of Cambridge (Pa.) State University, served in the U.S. Marine Corps from 1973 to 1979 and was a member of the 3rd Marine Division, Southeast Asia, from 1975 to 1976. In addition to duties with the state Department of Veterans Affairs (where he was acting secretary of veterans affairs from December 2003 to May 2004), Kimble is a former chair of the Legislative Committee on the Maryland State Council for Vietnam Veterans of America. He is a life member of the Disabled American Veterans and a member of both the American Legion and Vietnam Veterans of America. Kimble is married and has two children.

A resident of Garrett County, Braitman is retired from Frostburg State University and is currently pursuing an active role in blacksmithing and metal sculpture. He received his B.S. and M.B.A. degrees from FSU and attended West Virginia University for post master's education. Braitman served in the U.S. Marine Corps during the Vietnam War and was wounded in the Tet Offensive (1968). He shares his farm with his wife Annie, their three horses, a mule, and other animals.

Food, beverages, and paper goods will be provided. All are invited to bring a favorite dish to share.

For more information, persons may telephone Susan Davis, LWVGC board member, at 301-245-4252.

Topics include basic alphabet and number keys, finger placement, and improving speed and accuracy.

Senior Surfers: the Internet and Web Literacy will be offered over four consecutive Mondays beginning Sept. 13, from 9 to 11 a.m. This course is designed for individuals who wish to practice and enhance their web surfing skills. Topics include using e-mail and sending attachments, hypertext documents, the ability to use search engines, and the social impact of the internet, including privacy, censorship, and fraud. Information on joining discussion groups and the use of related online services will also be provided. The prerequisite is Introduction to Computers.

Gretsch just isn't that 'Keen'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Joel Gretsch

Q: Is the actor playing federal agent Tom Baldwin in USA Network's "The 4400" the same actor who starred in "Keen Eddie"? If not, the two could be twins. –Alberta Lane, Sacramento, Calif.

A: The resemblance is striking, but no, that's Joel Gretsch playing Baldwin on USA's hit "The 4400." The actor previously had a high-profile role in the Sci-Fi Channel miniseries "Taken." What may be adding to your confusion, however, is the fact that "Keen Eddie" star Mark Valley also appeared (as a character named Lytell) in the first episode of "The 4400."

For the many readers who have asked for news about Valley, he'll be a regular in "Boston Legal," an ABC spinoff of "The Practice" with James Spader. Valley signed on for the David E. Kelley dramedy after an ABC pilot he made, "Harry Green and Eugene," didn't make the cut.

Q: I am disappointed that CBS canceled "The Guardian." Does Simon Baker have any new projects lined up? –Eloise via e-mail.

A: Yes. Baker stars with Frances O'Connor ("Madame Bovary") and Gregory Smith ("Everwood") in "Book of Love," a comedy-drama awaiting wider release since its January premiere at the Sundance Film Festival. He also stars with Naomi Watts and Sissy Spacek in "The Ring 2," due in theaters in November.

Q: A recent episode of "Strong Medicine" noted the passing of Richard Biggs, who played Dr. Milo Morton. What happened? –Joanne Moore via e-mail.

A: Biggs, whose previous roles included Marcus Hunter on "Days of Our Lives" and Clayton Boudreaux on "Guiding Light," suffered a fatal stroke on May 22. He was only 44 years old.

Q: How many DeLuise boys are there, and are they all in show business? I've seen David, Michael and Peter just on "Stargate: SG-1" alone. –Jo via e-mail.

A: Peter DeLuise, a producer on "Stargate: Atlantis" and "Stargate: SG-1," and brothers David and Michael are the only three children of actor Dom DeLuise and his wife, Carol.

Q: Some say that the mountain that appears in the Paramount Studios logo is in Ogden, Utah. Is that true? –Karl Turnbull, Roy, Utah.

A: Questions such as this always are open for dispute, but a number of sources do attribute the original logo to a doodle of a star-crested mountain by William W. Hodkinson, based on "an image he remembered of a mountain peak from his childhood in Ogden, Utah," during a meeting with film executive Adolph Zukor.

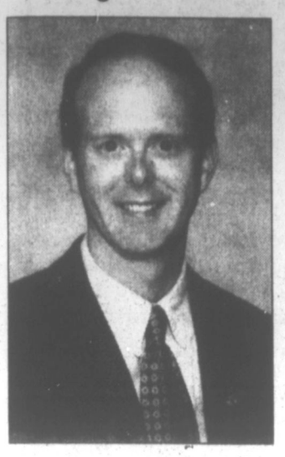
Former Resident Designated As Fulbright Scholar



Former Garrett County resident Brian Green, assistant professor of sociology at Keene State College, N.H., has been named a Fulbright Scholar. He will spend the spring 2005 semester teaching a course on political sociology in Europe at Comenius University in Bratislava, Slovakia.

"What I hope to do is take the information [my students will] already have and set it into a broader sociological framework," said Green. "I except this will work both ways. I'll teach them what I know, and they'll teach me what they know." He added that he also hopes to bring his students up to date with North American sociology and how North American sociologists view the work of their counterparts in Eastern Europe.

This summer, Green escorted a group of Keene State students to the Czech Republic, Slovakia, and Poland, where they studied social, geographic, and environmental issues.

Green is a native of Boring in Baltimore County and is a graduate of Franklin High, Reisterstown. He earned a bachelor's degree at Penn State University, a master's degree at Kent State University, and a Ph.D. in sociology from Ohio State University.

He is the son of Joyce and Steve Green of Deer Park.

Columbia Gas Donates $3,000 To ARC Fund

Columbia Gas of Maryland has donated $3,000 to the Local Disaster Relief Fund of the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"We are very grateful for the support we have received from Columbia Gas of Maryland," said Bill Crawford, executive director. "Columbia's gift will help us help others by providing immediate relief to local residents following house fires and other disasters."

The gift was given to support the chapter's emergency services program, which provides shelter, food, clothing, personal items, and referrals for disaster victims.

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross provides emergency services to approximately 130,000 people in Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and Mineral County in West Virginia. During the past year, the local chapter provided disaster relief to 43 families, including the Kitzmiller family that was recently displaced by a house fire.

Columbia Gas of Maryland serves more than 32,000 customers in three counties. It is one of the 10 energy distribution companies of NiSource Inc. (NYSE:NI). NiSource distribution companies serve 3.7 million natural gas and electric customers primarily in nine states.

Donations for the local Red Cross may be sent to American Red Cross, 12 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550. Red Cross is a participating agency of the United Way.

A Summons from the Sea

In the oppressive heat of midsummer, how we anticipate traveling to the beach. The suntan lotion is packed. Our umbrella is ready to pierce the sand, joining the myriad of colorful "polka dots" lining the silver strand. What draws us in droves for the journey toward the sea?

Of course, we crave the cooling breeze as it quenches the sun's heat. The sounds of the surf can excite and soothe as well...so strong, yet reassuringly rhythmic. In some cases, three or four generations travel and fellowship together...a bonding opportunity for young and old alike. Perhaps the fresh seafood beckons. Nowhere is it more delectable.

Finally, when we stare out at that endless expanse of God's Creation, it calls to mind His power and the infinity of His love. It refreshes our knowledge of the Creator's greatness and how small our problems can be when we have faith in His timeless wisdom. Our Lord says in Matthew 21:21, "If you have faith, and never doubt...even if you say to this mountain, 'Be taken up and cast into the sea,' it will be done."

As you worship this week, reflect upon the mightiness of our Heavenly Father and His boundless love for us, His children.

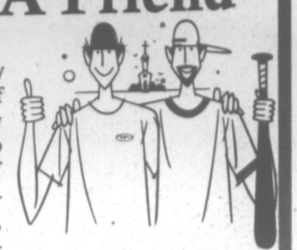
Being A Friend



There are many different kinds of friendship; and they often initially develop simply because of shared common interests. For example, friends who play tennis or go bowling together may never see each other off of the court or outside the bowling alley. Friendships can also develop because the friends listen to each other and share intimate parts of their lives with each other. The listening and sharing that take place in these relationships usually create a bond of love and caring which makes them deeper and more meaningful than the friendships of shared common interests. But, there is an even deeper level of friendship wherein friends value and respect each other's goodness. These friends may share common interests, and may listen and share intimacies with each other, but they also believe in the essential goodness of the other. This type of friendship is deeper than the other two, because the bonds created by respect for the friend's goodness is not a transitory thing like the shared interest or the shared intimacy. In fact, we may withhold our deepest love or friendship from those whom we deem not to be good people. Conversely, when we really love someone we may feel the need to be a good person so as not to lose the respect of our beloved. And, we may be more honest with a friend about their moral failings than we would be with a casual acquaintance. So, we should make ourselves a good friend by cultivating virtue, and take our responsibility to our friends seriously, even if that means occasionally pointing out their moral failings, which we should always do in private.

Faithful are the wounds of a friend; profuse are the kisses of an enemy.

New Uses for Capsicum Supplement Discovered

Capsicum is the chemical ingredient in peppers that make them hot. Commonly found in bell peppers, chili peppers, tobasco, and paprika, capsicum is also gaining popularity as a supplement to prevent and treat different health problems. The active constituent of capsicum known as capsaicin in U.S. government approved as an over-the-counter medicine in skin creams to help relieve arthritis or nerve pain. Some studies suggest that applying capsaicin cream to tender points daily might help relieve the pain of fibromyalgia.

New research has concluded that naturally occurring capsaicin directly stops the growth of leukemia cells in the lab. This effect could possibly explain the abnormally low cancer rates of the stomach, intestine, and colon in South American countries where pepper is a big part of the diet. Other studies suggest that applying cream containing capsicum seems to relieve burning and promote healing of lesions associated with certain skin conditions. Capsicum has been known to thin the blood and could, in theory at least, be used to prevent heart attacks or stroke when taken internally.

Strange BUT TRUE

• In Russia, many fishermen have begun using a new lure that they find to be more effective than many traditional lures: the blond hair from a Barbie doll.

• E.B. White defined a commuter as "a man who shaves and takes a train and then rides back to shave again."

• Famed TV journalist Peter Jennings has been a news anchor for ABC since 1965. That was the year he set a record for being the youngest anchor on that network — 27 years old.

• You don't know nearly as much about fruits and berries as you think you do. Botanically speaking, grapes, bananas, dates, pears, apples, oranges, lemons, cucumbers and tomatoes are all scientifically classified as berries. Raspberries, however, are not berries; they're drupelets. Strawberries aren't berries or fruits — they're considered to be "false fruits." And the "seeds" on the outside of strawberries aren't really seeds — they're the actual fruit part of the strawberry plant.

• Everyone has seen rainbows during the day, but have you ever seen one at night? It's fairly rare, but nocturnal rainbows do occur — if the moon is bright enough.

• You may picture pirates as swashbuckling men — and the women of the era as delicate, swooning creatures — but that view isn't entirely accurate. Though their numbers were few, female pirates did exist. One of the most famous was Mary Read, who was raised as a boy by her mother in order to secure an inheritance. Still disguised in male garb, she joined the Regiments of Foot and Horse and was a successful cadet at the Battle of Flanders. She was on board a ship that was taken by pirates, and ended up joining the crew of her captors.

Skin Bumps Plague Cocker Spaniel

Q. My 13-year-old female cocker spaniel, "Sandy," has numerous bumps on her. I have been told they are not contagious and are somewhat like a wart. However, they do bleed when she rolls, and more seem to be appearing. I would like a second opinion on this matter. Do you know if these are a serious condition to the dog? She is also on hormone treatment for urine leakage. — Christine C., via e-mail

A. After a bit of research, I found two possible types of skin bumps similar to those you describe on your pet: warts, and a growth called a sebaceous gland tumor.

Before you get too worried, please note that sebaceous gland tumors are a benign growths — as are warts — and pose no threat to Sandy.

Warts, or skin papillomas, are caused by a virus and can be found in dogs of all ages. Incidentally, this virus cannot be passed to humans. They are often located along the lips and sometimes the eyelids of dogs, but can appear on any part of the body and in any number. Sometimes they bleed when brushed or rubbed.

Sebaceous gland tumors are common in dogs over 9 years of age, particularly in certain breeds (including cocker spaniels and some breeds of poodles, terriers and hounds). Sebaceous glands are located all over a dog's skin and secrete sebum, an oily substance that keeps the skin soft.

Neither warts nor sebaceous gland tumors are removed by veterinarians unless a bump is giving the dog problems. However, your dog should be checked periodically to make sure no suspicious growths are occurring, and your should keep an eye out for skin infections.

Because your dog is taking synthetic hormones, check with the veterinarian about the possibility of a suppressed immune system (a possible side effect of this treatment). Diet or medication to boost her immune system may slow the occurrence of warts, though it won't get rid of the ones already there.

Selling Antiques

Q. I am 86 years old and have a house full of antiques. I do not know how to sell these things and hope you can give me some ideas. — Donna, Shawnee, Kan.

A. The first thing you should do is secure the services of a good, reputable appraiser. You should expect to pay for his or her services, since free appraisals are generally worth just about what they cost. After you have an idea of values, decide what you truly want to sell.

The next step is tricky. You can have a tag sale at your home, or you can contact antique dealers in your area. If you sell to a dealer, expect to be paid about half of the appraised values. This is fair, since dealers have to make a profit if they are to remain in business for any length of time.

If you decide to sell to a dealer, don't hesitate to get several offers. Don't be rushed into selling. Calmly make your decisions, and if a dealer attempts to pressure you, break off all negotiations and step away from that person.

Q. I have a tray that features the likeness of Marilyn Monroe. Who can I contact to find out its value? — Bertha, Mount Vernon, Ky.

A. Clark Kidder is a dealer who specializes in Marilyn Monroe memorabilia. His address is 3219 East Country Road N., Milton, WI 53563. For a second opinion, Denis Jackson is also interested in Monroe. His address is P.O. Box 1958, Sequim, WA 98382.

CRELLIN WATER SYSTEM
NOTICE OF VIOLATION
Surface Water Treatment Technique

The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities is providing the following notice regarding the Crellin Water System. The springs for the water system have been evaluated for protection against surface water influence as required by the Surface Water Treatment Rule (SWTR), as adopted in the Code of Maryland; COMAR 26.04.01, Quality of Drinking Water in Maryland. The spring was determined to be under the direct influence of surface water by the Maryland Department of the Environment. As a result, this source requires additional treatment, such as filtration, or replacement with a protected water source. Federal and state regulations require that the Crellin System install filtration.

What is the Department of Public Utilities doing?

The Crellin Water System disinfects the drinking water that is produced from the spring. The drinking water is tested monthly for coliform bacteria and results have met state and federal standards.

The Department of Public Utilities is in the process of testing the design for a new water treatment facility. After the pilot test is completed, design for the project will proceed.

What should I do?

People with severely compromised immune systems, infants, and some elderly may be at increased risk. These individuals should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. General guidelines on ways to lessen the risk of infection by microbes are available from EPA "Safe Drinking Water Act Hotline" (800-426-4791). If you have specific health concerns, consult your physician.

What does this mean?

This is not an emergency. This notification is provided to advise Crellin Water customers of the treatment requirements for their water system. Any questions or concerns should be directed to Allen Festerman at 301-387-9141. Please share this information with others who may find it useful.

WHICH WAY DO WE GO? Cove Run Farms, Accident, is once again offering corn maze tours to the public. This year, the 8-foot-plus corn was cut to form a map of Garrett County, offering visitors a chance to "tour" the entire county by foot. See story for details. Local Corn Maze Offers Opportunity To "Tour" Garrett County On Foot by Jo Donaldson, public affairs officer, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce

Garrett County's only corn maze now offers people the chance to tour the county on foot.

"This is not your typical maze," said Alice Bender, who is in charge of the maze portion of Cove Run Farms in Accident. "I'm excited about this."

Using GPS (Global Positioning System), the 8-foot-plus corn was cut to form a map of Garrett County. Regular size road signs lead people to different towns, schools, parks and special sites within the 10-acre cornfield. Deep Creek Lake also is cut out, and solar lights show the airport runway.

County Agriculture Extension agent Willie Lantz helped with the GPS design. Kelly Bender drew it to scale. This year, 10 businesses are advertising inside the maze.

"It's a good idea to know your county roads if you want to get out of there," said Laura Reilly, Chamber of Commerce. "I really enjoyed it. I think it would be a lot of fun for older kids to do at night."

Bender offers people a tall colored flag to raise if they get lost. She can watch over the maze from a short tower near the entrance.

Night tours are popular, especially near Halloween. "People like to go through it with a flashlight," Bender said.

The maze is designed to be educational and informative, as well as entertaining. School groups can focus on map reading skills, as well as county information. Next year Bender hopes to add more historical and heritage sites to the maze.

Cove Run Farms offers a family oriented fun day. Young children can enjoy the playground while their parents or grandparents relax at the picnic table or in the newly constructed maze building. Also "kiddie" tractor rides are offered through a smaller maze. Four pavilions are available for picnics.

This is a working dairy farm consisting of a herd of approximately 120 milking registered Holsteins and another 150 heifers. Corn, oats, hay and speltz are grown on 450 acres.

The maze is open from noon to 10 p.m. on Fridays and from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturdays through October. Persons may call Alice Bender at 301-746-8161 for an appointment for other times.

To reach Cove Run Farms Corn Maze from I-68, one must travel 3.5 miles south on Route 219, turn right onto Cove Road, go 1.5 miles, and turn right onto Griffith Road. The corn maze is a half mile ahead on the left.

Tuition Reduction Available For GC Trucking Students

A significant reduction in tuition costs of the Mt. Top Truck Driving Institute available to students who enroll under the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) has been announced by Lowell Bender, dean of continuing education and training at Garrett College.

For WIA eligible residents of Garrett County, the net cost of tuition will be $650 for the 10-week training program. Tuition for out-of-county and out-of-state eligible students will also be reduced. Rates will be the same for both credit and non-credit enrollment

To be eligible for WIA, students must apply at the office of the Western Maryland Consortium, 216 South Third Street, Oakland. Eligibility screening is based on income below a self-sufficiency rate determined by the local Workforce Investment Board and performance measures set by the state of Maryland.

According to Bender, many employers are currently seeking trained truck drivers. Both short-haul and long-haul jobs are available, some at starting salaries of $38,000 per year or more.

The next regular class of the Mt. Top Truck Driving Institute is scheduled to start Tuesday, Sept. 7; weekend classes will start shortly after that. Further information about the classes may be obtained by calling institute director Bud Poland at 1-866-851-6834, or by attending an Open House at the facility in Grantsville, which is set for Saturday, Sept. 11, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. (See separate story on Page C-9.)

Family Support Programs Offered By Social Services

The Garrett County Department of Social Services offers several community based programs to support families in the homes.

"The goals are to strengthen the family unit while insuring the safety of each member," said a DSS spokesperson. "The treatment approach is tailored to fit individual families."

The social worker meets with family members and with their participation establishes goals based on their strengths and values. The worker can act as an advocate, teacher, role model, and mediator.

Additionally, when needed, social workers provide counseling, child care, and support, as well as referring families to outside resources such as housing assistance, medical, and child care facilities.

"Other areas that families often find valuable are parenting education, therapeutic family recreation, and transportation," said the spokesperson.

Anyone interested in this free family service program may call 301-533-3054.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

First in the news is the fireman's picnic at the fire hall in Bittinger this coming Saturday, Aug. 21, beginning at 11 a.m. There will be the usual chicken barbecue dinner and there will be a pig roast, plus various other sandwiches, desserts, and drinks. Special entertainment will be provided. Come one, come all to this annual get-together with friends and relatives.

It is very rare for my girls and me to agree about what programs we should watch on television. Just about all of the network programs we can't tolerate, especially "Regis and Kelly" show. As far as the dish network channels, only occasionally do they like the old movies that I like to watch, with the exception of "Singing in the Rain." However, we were in complete agreement last evening about watching the Summer Olympics from Athens, Greece. We were very lucky to have some individual sports to watch, such as the men's team gymnastics and the men's swimming. Caitlin and Meredith were captivated by the twin-brother gymnasts from a farm in Wisconsin who used to jump from beam to beam in their barns.

Boy, that took me back to my childhood. Thank goodness my own children do not do the same risky activities as I did. I never aspired to be gymnastic athlete, but my biggest dream was to ride in the Olympics. But that was too high a goal for a poor farm girl with a self-trained horse. The closest we got was when we once beat a former Olympic team rider in a three-day event.

My two younger daughters and I stayed up way past my bedtime to watch and cheer on our athletes. That was fun, but it made me sleep in way past the time when I like to get up, especially on a special day like this Tuesday. Today, August 17, my oldest, college-bound daughter Claire turns 18 years old. How is it possible that it was 18 years ago I was in labor with her and saw the perfect baby I produced. She was the most beautiful baby that I had ever seen, and the strongest. She was able to lift her little head up and look me straight in the eyes the first time they laid her on my chest, which was a few minutes after her birth. Most ordinary babies can't lift their heads until several months old.

I thought that my life would be over when I had a baby. But my life just began at that moment when I gazed into the brilliant blue eyes of Claire. Nothing that had come before was close to the wonderful and exciting time as her growth and development from infant to baby, to toddler, to little girl, to child, and now a young lady. Every new milestone brings yet another step to more wonderful times. But now at the final step in raising her, it is so much harder on me now than was the labor to bring her into the world.

I never lost the feeling that we were totally connected when she was growing inside me as she kicked, stretched, and rolled. After her birth I never lost that feeling. A day without her is a day without sunshine. But I have to learn a new way to live when she moves away next week. Thank goodness it is only to Morgantown. She will never need me like she used to. I always wanted to give her everything she would want, but now that means freedom. That is the hardest thing to have to give to her. I was not afraid for her when I placed my tiny baby on the back of my high-spirited horse the first time. I just showed her to Joey and told him that this is my own baby and to be careful with her. He sniffed her and nuzzled her very gently. When she was sitting on his bare back with me beside her he walked slowly and carefully like he was walking on eggshells, and he knew he was carrying the most precious cargo in the world. I would trust my horse with her, but I can't trust the world with her. It is so scary.

However, she is celebrating as most teenagers do, as "Queen for a Day," just sleeping in and going out for lunch with her sister and her cousin, Blakely Glotfelty – probably also making a quick shopping trip. If I get lucky maybe we can do a quick cake and ice cream and give her my gifts before she takes off to Frostburg to spend the evening and the nights with her Lakeside Creamery co-workers and girlfriends. No normal, red-blooded 18-year-old girl would want to spend her birthday evening at home.

Since the fair is over, we are getting a rare dose of sunshine today. But the words that I heard last weekend around Bittinger is that everyone's gardens are pretty sub-par this year. However, my sister Carol's garden must be producing, as she has been busy canning as usual at this time of the year.

Sue Haydel delivered a fresh pie that she had made from their peaches and some wild blueberries from their woods, which are just up the hill from the new grave marked with my custom pet grave stones of their sweet little black shaggy dog Gypsy, who adopted them when she was a homeless stray 14 years ago. She knew she had found a perfect home when two young girls rushed out to play with her. Even Daddy Walter couldn't resist her charms. Of course, Walter was always a soft touch for an animal who might need a good home.

I know that Torrey Poholosky already turned 18 in July, but I'm not sure of the exact date. His parents, Lenny and Sally, took him to Greensboro, N.C., last Friday, where he will be starting his college career at Greensboro College. They all recently attended an Altoona Cruise baseball game in Altoona, Pa.

So it will be off to college for both Claire and her cousin Robbie Glotfelty. They will soon become rivals in their ball games, as Robbie will be attending University of Maryland. However, Claire has always been a big "Terp" fan, so maybe she won't lose all her loyalty to Maryland.

Emma Bass has been visiting her grandparents, Bill and Barbara Bass, in Anderson, S.C., for the past week. She will return home today, and we all will be celebrating her and Claire's birthdays later this week.

Cindy reported that Bible school was held on Monday, with 30 kids and 10 helpers at Emmanuel Lutheran Church. She reported that they all had a great time and also enjoyed their pizza.

Pete and Bob Smith and their classmates from the class of 1955 of Northern High School had their annual get-together at the fair this year. Imagine; they were high school seniors when I was only 2 years old.

Attending a family dinner at the Ida Reckner home Sunday evening were Karl and Cathy DeBoeser, Kara and Marc, Allentown, Pa.; Charee Reckner, McHenry; Tom Glotfelty, Detroit; Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa.; Julius and Karmen Carey, Frostburg; Olive Bender; and Donna Glotfelty. Other recent visitors of Ida were Anna Renner, Thurmont, Lois Kolb, Accident, and Roland and Norma Bernard, Canton, Ohio. Ida received word of the death last week of a nephew, William Oester, of Canton, where funeral services and interment were held.

Attending the Minneapolis convention were 1,257 members from all over the United States, five regions, and 14 countries. This being the 75th Anniversary, many "Jubilee Moments" were presented and special celebrations held. A 75th anniversary pin was designed and sold.

The convention members received greetings from several individuals, including the governor of Delaware, the mayor of Minneapolis (who proclaimed July 25-31 as Delta Kappa Gamma Week), and First Lady Laura Bush.

Presiding over the convention was Jean Gray, international president, from Maryland. Following the call to order was the presentation of flags, in the order in which those countries joined the organization. First was the United States, then Canada, Norway, Sweden, Mexico, Finland, Puerto Rico, Iceland, the Netherlands, Guatemala, Great Britain, El Salvador, Costa Rico, and Germany. The final flag was that of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International, carried by Harman.

Reports were heard from all officers and international committees: Expansion, Membership, Personnel, Scholarship, and the Educators Award committees. During the 2002-2004 biennium, the World Fellowship Committee gave out $247,600 in grants to individuals and state organizations, which is typical of other committees, a spokesperson said.

One notable partnership, the spokesperson said, is one Delta Kappa Gamma holds with UNICEF. In July of 2003, the organization was invited to support a partnership for teacher education in Afghanistan. The entire system of education there had been destroyed. For only $24, teachers are able to come together at the provincial level for training in lesson design and teaching methods. Approximately $2,400 was sent to them. Delta Kappa Gamma is attempting to develop a modern curriculum for Afghanistan's school children, the spokesperson reported, adding that the U.S. Fund for UNICEF has praised Delta Kappa Gamma for its extraordinary level of support. Those who want to know more about the partnership with UNICEF may e-mail Phyllis A. Hickey at pahickey@snet.net.

Proposed amendments to the International Standing Rules were passed, and the new officers for the 2004-2006 biennium were elected. They are Jacklynn Cuppy, Alberta, president; Sandy Whitney, Texas, first vice president; Sharon Henderson, Indiana, second vice president; and Diane L. Robinson, District of Columbia, northeast regional director.

Keynote speaker Claudia J. Kennedy, lieutenant general, U.S. Army, retired, spoke on the topic of "It's Who You Are, Not A Job Title," telling the audience to stand up and speak out for themselves, and that a woman can make it as a three star general.

Speaker Crystal Kuykendall reminded the women of the power they have as teachers, the spokesperson said. "She challenged us to show our youth a consistent display of caring and compassion, saying, 'You are true merchants of Hope.'"

Numerous workshops were offered. The local women each attended three, including those on membership, communication, long-term care, tips for personal success, projecting a sparkling image, and improving music within the chapter.

The 2006 convention will be in San Diego, Calif. The program theme for 2006-2010 is "Passion for Learning – the Essence for Growth."

Accepts Position In Garrett College President's Office

Marcia Knepp, who once performed secretarial/clerical duties in the Garrett College president's office as a work study student, recently accepted the position of executive secretary to the president of the college.

She brings to her new position over 12 years' experience in various office functions, supervision, and management. For 10 years she was administrative assistant at the University of Maryland Garrett County Extension office, where her duties included assisting with all aspects of the 4-H program, record keeping, managing projects, bookkeeping, scheduling meetings, supervising AmeriCorps workers, developing brochures, and maintaining information databases.

Prior to that time she was a secretary receptionist at the Garrett National Bank Trust Department, and an administrative assistant/computer technician in the Coldwell Banker/Deep Creek Realty office.

During her years as a student at Garrett College, Knepp was the leading scorer on the women's basketball team and later served as assistant coach for one year. After graduating in 1991 with an associate of arts degree in secretarial science, she attended Frostburg State University as a part-time evening student for six years while working full time. In May 2004 she received a bachelor of science degree in business administration and management from the University of Maryland University College.

Knepp and her husband Bill reside in Red House, and have three children, Cassie, Katie, and Kevin.

INSURANCE RATES ARE RISING!

Insurance premiums for homeowners could rise as much as 8% this year (they rose 7% last year!). When you're looking to buy a home, what can you do to take a bite out of those increasing rates?

It's important to guard your credit rating, because more insurers are becoming like lenders – they use your credit report to establish an "insurance score" to determine your premium.

You may be able to save money by holding your automobile and homeowners insurance with the same company, since many offer incentives for multiple policies. Are there any other special discounts you might qualify for? If you're a member of an association or organization, there may be a group discount available through their insurance company. Another example of a special discount is for retired seniors, who may qualify for a discount on theft insurance since they're home more.

Get a CLUE! A Comprehensive Loss Underwriting Exchange is a report of the claims history of the property you're interested in, and you'll want to have a home inspection performed to address any problems identified in the report. Make your purchase contingent on it!

Finally, don't wait until the last minute to secure your insurance – do it right after your Offer To Purchase is accepted, because homeowners insurance is a requirement to complete your purchase, and you don't want any last minute surprises.

Nominations For Ag Hall Of Fame Being Solicited

To commemorate pioneers of local agriculture, the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) is accepting nominations of agricultural leaders for the Governor's Agriculture Hall of Fame, which honors those who have dedicated their lives to the state's leading industry – agriculture.

"We are looking for those Marylanders who have shown a high level of leadership and accomplishment in agriculture," said Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. "I encourage all Marylanders to identify the people who have made outstanding contributions to strengthen agriculture, this state's leading industry, and to nominate them to the Hall of Fame."

Any farm family that derives its income principally from farming is eligible for the award. Since 1991 when the Hall of Fame was established, 30 farm families from 17 counties have been honored for their high standards of conduct, personal values, contribution to community, and performance, leadership, innovation, and achievement in agriculture.

Previous Hall of Fame inductees include Garrett County farmers Charles and Lorraine Mason (2001) and Oren and Fannie Bender (1994).

Nomination forms are available from MDA or local Cooperative Extension offices, which serve as local nominating committee coordinators. Each local nominating committee, which is made up of the county Extension educator, county Farm Bureau president, county fair representative, and county Soil Conservation District chairman, reviews a pool of candidates from its county, and forwards a selection to the Governor's Selection Committee.

Nominations from the committees are due to MDA by September 15 and will be reviewed by the Governor's Selection Committee. The selection committee includes the dean of the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, the president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, and members of the agricultural community. The Hall of Fame induction ceremony will be held during the Maryland Agricultural Dinner in February.

For a nomination form or further information, persons may contact MDA at 410-841-5891 or contact the Garrett County Cooperative Extension office at 301-334-6960.

Farming On The Mountaintop

RYAN'S GLADE 4-H CLUB PARTICIPATES IN FARMERS' MARKET – Members of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club have been busy this summer selling their produce and other products at the Mountain Fresh farmers' market. Aaron and Levi Lantz sell vegetables that they grow in a "high tunnel." A tunnel is similar to a heated greenhouse but lacks the electrical components and automation of a conventional greenhouse. Katelyn Gnegy, pictured above, sells her handmade crafts and wood working items, eggs, and fresh herbs that she grew. The youth vendors are set up Monday evenings from 5 until 7 p.m. at the fairgrounds in McHenry. The evening market will run through mid September. The club members may also be found at the Mountain Fresh market in Oakland on Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. Photo to courtesy of Katelyn Gnegy, Ryan's Glade reporter.

CRP, General Sign-Up Dates Are Announced

Michael R. Kozier, county executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Garrett County, announced that USDA would fully implement President Bush's directive to sustain the environmental benefits of the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) by offering early re-enrollments and contract extensions for acres that begin expiring in 2007. He also announced that general sign-up for CRP will begin August 30 and end September 24.

"America's farmers and ranchers have made great strides to improve the environment, and this administration is committed to assisting their ongoing stewardship efforts to enhance soil, water, and air," said Kozier.

Early Re-Enrollments and Contract Extensions

In three years, 16 million acres under CRP contract will expire. Another 6 million acres will follow in 2008, 4 million in 2009, and 2 million in 2010. President Bush's directive to offer early re-enrollment and extensions of existing contracts to current CRP participants underscores a commitment to full enrollment of CRP up to 39.2 million acres.

A request for public comment on various aspects of CRP will be published in the Federal Register in early August 2004. Among other issues, USDA is seeking public comment on the following:

•How to manage the large acreage set to expire from CRP;

•How to manage future CRP sign-ups and acreage;

•How to evaluate the program's environmental effectiveness;

•How to better utilize information technology such as Geographic Information Systems that evaluate acreage for enrollment; and •How to improve CRP, including the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program, through partnerships that better address local environmental issues.

CRP Sign-Up

General sign-up for CRP will begin Aug. 30 and run through Sept. 24. CRP is the country's largest conservation program on private lands with a current enrollment of 34.8 million acres.

CRP protects fragile cropland from erosion and improves the nation's natural resources. By reducing water runoff and sedimentation, the program safeguards surface water and helps improve the condition of lakes, rivers, ponds and streams, many of which are used for drinking water supplies. Acreage enrolled in CRP is devoted to resource-conserving vegetative covers, making the program a major contributor to more abundant wildlife populations in many parts of the country.

CRP participants voluntarily remove environmentally sensitive land from agricultural production by entering into long-term contracts for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, participants receive annual rental payments and a payment of up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing conservation practices.

The 2002 Farm Bill authorized CRP enrollment up to 39.2 million acres. Since there is limited acreage available for enrollment, landowners are encouraged to work with their local USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) offices to maximize the environmental benefits of their CRP offers. During the last CRP general sign-up, held from May 5 to June 13, 2003, enrollment offers were highly competitive. Of the 4 million acres offered, USDA selected 2 million acres that offered the greatest environmental benefits.

USDA will use the Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) to rank the acreage offered. The EBI is based on costs and five other factors: soil erosion, water quality, enduring benefits, air quality, and wildlife enhancement.

Offers accepted under this sign-up will become effective Oct. 1, 2005, or Oct. 1, 2006, at the producer's discretion. More detailed information on CRP and the general sign-up is available at local FSA offices and on FSA's web site at: www.fsa.usda.gov/dafp/cepd/crpinfo.htm.

The Federal Register notice seeking public comment on CRP is available on FSA's web site at www.fsa.usda.gov and also will be available soon at www.gpoaccess.gov/fr/index.html. Comments on the issues must be received in writing by 120 days after the date published in the Federal Register. Comments may be submitted in writing or electronically via the means provided in the notice.

Further information on the Federal Register notice is available from Beverly Preston, CRP manager, at USDA/FSA/CEPD/STOP 0513, 1400 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, DC 20250-0513; telephone 202-720-9563; e-mail: beverly_preston@wdc.usda.gov.

Aid Available To Help Preserve State Grasslands

Landowners have just over one week to file applications for the Grassland Reserve Program (GRP) administered by the USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA). August 27 is the deadline to submit GRP offers and have them considered for 2004 fiscal year funding. In Maryland, more than $170,000 is available to qualifying applicants.

"The voluntary Grassland Reserve Program helps preserve and conserve our nation's grasslands by providing financial and technical assistance to the landowners," said Michael R. Kozier, county executive director for the Garrett/Allegany County FSA office.

Grasslands eligible for enrollment in this program may be native grassland, improved rangeland, or improved pastureland. Other acreage which may qualify for enrollment includes land containing forbs or shrubs, or land located in an area historically dominated by grassland. Offers for participation in GRP must include 40 acres on the same tract.

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) will evaluate each offer and rate the eligibility of the land according to specific criteria, including current vegetative cover, susceptibility to urban sprawl, and the potential for conversion to cropland. Landowners whose applications are selected for enrollment in GRP will receive assistance to support grazing operations, to increase and maintain plant and animal biodiversity, and to protect grass and range lands under the greatest threat of conversion.

Payments on approved applications will be administered through local FSA offices.

For more information regarding GRP and other FSA programs, persons may contact the Garrett County FSA office at 301-334-6954 or Allegany County FSA office at 301-777-1536 or visit the USDA web site at http://www.usda.gov.

Berkebile Earns Ag. Scholarship From Garrett

Lacie Berkebile, daughter of Gary and Nancy Berkebile of Accident, has received the Daniel Edward Offutt III Achievement Award scholarship from the Garrett College Foundation, according to executive director Bretta Reinhard. The scholarship is designated for a student who majors in agriculture management.

Lacie is a 2003 honors graduate of Northern High School, where she compiled a 3.6 GPA, was on the Distinguished Honor Roll and the National Honor Roll, and was a member of the National Honor Society. She was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students, and served as a teacher assistant and after-school tutor for two years.

Lacie has been a member of the Oak Hill 4-H Club for nine years, serving as president, treasurer, and secretary, and has taken leadership roles in a number of community projects as well as public speaking contests. Special recognitions she received include the Key Club Award, the Fair Record Keeping Award, and the Achievement Award.

In addition her participation in 4-H, Lacie has been active in FFA, for which she has held multiple offices and leadership roles, and received numerous awards. Among these are the Green Hand Award, the Chapter Award, and the Northern High FFA DeKalb Award. She has been delegate to the state and national conventions, a member of the Maryland State Champion Livestock Judging Team, and the Spring Judging Agronomy Team.

Honored as Garrett County Farm Queen in 2002, Lacie has been a member of the Garrett County Farm Bureau for eight years. She is also a member of the Garrett County Livestock Association and the Garrett County Fair Board, as well as the Lutheran Braille Workers, for which she helps with the fundraiser dinner and the printing of books in Braille.

At Garrett College Lacie has been secretary and treasurer of the Agriculture Club, and has tutored fellow students in accounting. Next month she begins her second year in the college's business management program, specializing in agribusiness.

USDA ANNOUNCES NEW CONSERVATION PROGRAMS

Eric M. McCartney, county executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, has announced that USDA will launch two new conservation initiatives.

The new quail initiative will create 250,000 acres of habitat for the northern bobwhite quail, a native quail species that has historically ranged in 35 states. And the new measure to restore the non-flood-plain wetlands practice will create an additional 250,000 acres of wetlands and playa lakes in non-floodplain areas.

"Today's conservation's announcements underscore President Bush's commitment to helping our nation's farmers and ranchers maintain a healthy environment that is compatible with a robust agricultural economy," said McCartney. "These programs and initiatives are a tremendous opportunity for USDA to work with landowners, other government agencies, and private groups, and will ultimately benefit all Americans."

Quail Initiative

Bobwhite quail are a valued inhabitant of farm landscapes, an important aspect of rural culture, and are vital to the heritage of hunting. However, the bobwhite quail's population has declined from an estimated 59 million to about 20 million birds over the last 24 years. Their habitats are disappearing because of urbanization, increased grassland cultivation, and a transitioning of grassy fields into woods and forests – a process called succession.

The CRP Northern Bobwhite Quail Habitat Initiative introduces a conservation practice aimed to create 250,000 acres of early successional grass buffers along agricultural field borders. USDA estimates this nesting and brood-rearing cover will increase bobwhite quail numbers by 750,000 birds annually. Planted buffers will also benefit reptiles, amphibians, aquatic species, and upland birds, many of which are being considered for listing as endangered species. Such bird species include the bell's vireo, orchard oriole, painted bunting, loggerhead shrike, sedge wren, grasshopper sparrow, dickcissel, and henslow's sparrow. In addition, the initiative will reduce soil erosion and protect water quality by trapping field sediments and nutrients.

USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) estimates it will provide $125 million in incentive, rental, maintenance, and cost-share payments to participants. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and 32 state fish and wildlife agencies are expected to offer technical, monitoring and evaluation assistance. Quail Unlimited, the Southeast Quail Study Group, Pheasants Forever, Ducks Unlimited, the National Wild Turkey Federation, and other conservation groups may provide outreach, technical expertise, and other assistance.

Because the initiative is limited to 250,000 acres, enrollment is targeted to specific geographic areas in 35 states that have the greatest potential to restore bobwhite quail habitat. West Virginia has been allocated 500 acres.

Non-Flood-plain Wetlands

McCartney also announeed another new program that will allow landowners to enroll large wetland complexes and playa lakes located outside the 100-year floodplain. Restoring these systems will provide vital habitat for many wildlife species, such as upland ducks and sandhill cranes. Wetlands also filter runoff, recharge groundwater supplies, protect drinking water, and reduce downstream flooding.

These announcements will further the large-scale accomplishments of CRP, which has already restored 1.8 million wetland and wetland buffer acres nationwide. In fact, this past year for the first time in recent history agriculture had a net gain in wetland acres compared with the previous year. From 1997 to 2002, farmers and ranchers produced a net increase of 131,400 acres of wetlands.

CRP currently offers wetlands restoration incentives that target for enrollment 500,000 acres located in the 100-year floodplain; and the Farmable Wetlands Program, which protects up to 1 million acres of farmed and previously converted wetlands of less than 40 acres per tract. USDA also offers the Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP), which targets enrollment of 2.3 million acres of larger wetland complexes and those with the most critical environmental needs under permanent easements, 30-year easements, and restoration cost-share agreements. In June, USDA announced the new Wetlands Reserve Enhancement Program that works with partners to leverage resources in order to further wetlands protections within the requirements of the WRP.

USDA estimates the total cost of the wetlands restoration Initiative to be $200 million. FSA will offer participants an incentive payment equal to 25 percent of the cost of restoring the hydrology of the site, an annual rental payment, and cost-share assistance of up to 50 percent of eligible practice installation costs.

Program sign-up for both of these new initiatives will begin Oct. 1, 2004, at local FSA offices and will run on a continuous basis until the total acreage has been enrolled or Dec. 31, 2007, whichever comes first. To determine individual eligibility for the initiative, landowners should check with their local FSA office. More information on these initiatives, including acreage allocation by state, is available at local FSA offices and on FSA's web site at: www.fsa.usda.gov.

Tropical Systems Bring Rains To Maryland Farmers

Hurricane season is here and is already affecting Maryland farmers. There were 3.7 days suitable for field work for the week ending August 15. Rain fell upon most of the state as a result of the two tropical systems that hit the eastern part of the country. Precipitation ranged from about 0.5 inch to anywhere from 3-5 inches for the week.

Despite the rain, soybeans are in fair to excellent condition. Soybeans setting pods jumped to 78 percent, compared to 45 percent the previous week. Corn is 75 percent dough, 39 percent dent, and 6 percent mature. Some corn may be ready for harvest as soon as next week if the weather cooperates.

The rain has affected vegetables most of all, resulting in quality and disease problems. Hay was baled in some parts of the state, while others were unable to dry hay because of the rain showers. Top soil moisture is 67 percent adequate and 33 percent surplus.

Friendship Quilt Show Bringing Back Preston County Memories

The Union District Friendship Quilt Show gets under way this Sunday, Aug. 22, with an opening reception slated from 1 to 6 p.m. at the Aurora Community Building. The exhibition will continue with viewing hours of 1 to 4 p.m. on Thursdays, Saturdays, and Sundays, and 5 to 8 p.m. on Fridays, through Sunday, Oct. 10.

Sponsored by the Aurora Area Historical Society and the Aurora Community Education Outreach Service (CEOS), the exhibition is part of a yearlong project that has engaged a number of residents of the Union District of Preston County.

Friendship quilts "preserve names of people who once knew or cared about each other, people who formed a community," explained quilt historian Fawn Valentine, who led local women through the process of collecting, documenting, and organizing the quilts as well as noting oral histories.

"In the process of researching the quilts, we recognize names we recall, and the names, dates, and notations bring back memories," Valentine continued. "And as women once gathered around the quilting frame, today we once more gather around a friendship quilt, pointing to names and remembering personalities."

In addition to the quilt exhibition, project participants have been working on quilted panels that will hang in the new Union District History Center when it opens in October. Quilt designer and artist Dorothy Demboski, whose residency was funded by the MountainMade Foundation of Thomas, lent her creative energy in defining the form the panels would ultimately take.

The Aurora Community Building is located along George Washington Highway. For more information persons may call Jo-Ann Helton at 304-735-5832 or Virginia Martin at 304-735-3402.

The Friendship Quilt Show is funded in part by the West Virginia Humanities Council and through the support of Union District residents.

PORTRAYING A QUILTING "BEE-LINE" IN PRESTON COUNTY, this mid-1930s photograph taken by Volkmar Wentzel, titled "Stemple Ridge Quilting Bee" appeared in the 1937 "Industry of West Virginia" issue of National Geographic. The quilt being worked on in the photograph is one of the 40 Friendship Quilts on display at the Union District Friendship Quilt Show, which opens this Sunday, Aug. 22, with a 1-6 p.m. reception at the Aurora Community Building, and continues through Sunday, Oct. 10. "This quilting bee was held behind the old Stemple Ridge Church at the home of my Uncle Wilmer and Aunt Vernie," recalled Aurora resident Delores Douglas. "Keith [Douglas] and I are related to nearly everyone in the photograph. Aunt Vernie was my great aunt, and Bessie Calcamp used to baby-sit me. Keith is from the Stemple and Harsh families. The people in the photograph, starting at the front left, are Mary Ellen Harsh, Lydia Harsh, Edith Harsh, Molly Harsh, Leroy McWilliams, Bessie Calcamp, Vernie Lantz, Viola McWilliams, Elva Bolyard, Keith Douglas, Mary Douglas, and Alice Douglas (Roth). Only four people are still living today – Leroy, Keith, Viola, and Alice." Photograph reproduced courtesy Volkmar Wentzel and National Geographic. See story for exhibition hours.

Beacon Outreach Members Help Out At GC Fair

Members of the Beacon Outreach participated in last week's Garrett County fair in McHenry. A peer-run group for consumers of mental health services, the Beacon Outreach meets at the Garrett County Lighthouse in Oakland.

Members Harrison Stewart, Jimmy Cogley, and Wayne Stewart helped staff the Garrett County Core Service Agency's display booth on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. They passed out helium balloons, magnets, and bubbles, and registered fair goers for a fish tank, tent, and fishing gear that CSA was giving away.

"Just to watch the excitement on the children's faces made it all worthwhile," said Harrison.

The Beacon Outreach also conducted a 50/50 raffle. A McHenry area resident won the $100 prize. Proceeds from the fundraiser will help keep the group in operation.

"Thanks to all who donated toward the 50/50 drawing," said a Beacon spokesperson. "We would love to express our thanks in helping us continue our efforts here in the county. We have just applied for our non-profit corporate status with monies donated from the Civic Club of Oakland and other fundraisers we have had."

For more information about the group, persons may call the Lighthouse at 301-334-9126.

The lives of seven young Garrett County children came to a sudden, tragic end on the morning of Thursday, Sept. 10, 1959, when their school bus was struck by a B&O train at the railroad crossing between Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

REMEMBERING THE CHILDREN

NANCY HARVEY

SHIRLEY LEE LEE HOFFMAN RICHARD HINKLE

These precious children will be remembered on the 45th anniversary of that horrific event with a ceremony on Friday, September 10, and the dedication of a beautiful monument at that ceremony will guarantee that they are never forgotten.

Two sisters of one of the victims of the tragedy have spent a large sum of their own money to help bring the project to fruition. A special fund has been established by the Mayor and Town Council of Mtn. Lake Park to help defray these expenses. Individuals, businesses, and organizations are humbly requested to consider making a tax-deductible contribution to this fund. The names of all contributors, except those of donors who wish to remain anonymous, will be published in this newspaper and noted at the dedication. All contributions, no matter the amount, will be greatly appreciated.

YES! I/We want to play a role in preserving the memories of these children!

Kitzmiller Annual Homecoming Deemed Success

The Mayor and Town Council of Kitzmiller recently sponsored the community's 16th annual Kitzmiller Homecoming. "The weekend was a great success," stated an event organizer. "A great time was enjoyed by all."

The homecoming commenced on Friday evening with a Family Fun Night sponsored by the town's Empowerment Group at the Kitzmiller Elementary School. The evening's theme was "Hawaiian Luau."

The festivities continued on Saturday with the Homecoming Celebration on the Kitzmiller School grounds and adjacent Kitzmiller Park. The celebration began with a 5K River Run and 2-mile walk.

Numerous booths and concessions were open throughout the day sponsored by several organizations within the local area, including the Kitzmiller Little League, the Kitzmiller Assembly of God's Women's Ministries, Kitzmiller Elementary School PTA, Kitzmiller Ladies' Auxiliary, Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department, Garrett Country Sheriff's Office, and Garrett County Health Department. The Kitzmiller Lions Club sponsored a chicken barbecue and quickly sold all 250 dinners.

DUCK DERBY WINNERS NOTED – New to this year's annual Town of Kitzmiller's Homecoming was the Derby Duck Race. The race was won my Missy Housden. Josh Nesselrodt placed second and Paul Keller placed third. Other weekend activities included a Family Fun Night, a 5K River Run, and a three-on-three basketball tournament. Pictured above are the derby winners. In the front, from the left, are Nesselrodt, Housden, and Keller. In the back is Mayor Browning. See story for more details.

New to this year's homecoming was the Derby Duck Race. The race was won my Missy Housden, first place, Josh Nesselrodt, second place, and Paul Keller, third place.

The Kitzmiller Historical Museum was opened to the public to view exhibits of the town's past. Musical entertainment was provided by the Channel Cats Blues Band. Funding to sponsor the group was supported by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. D&H Productions provided amusement rides, with the Circle R Ranch providing pony rides for the children.

The annual 3-on-3 basketball tournament was "very successful," with eight teams entering the competition. The winners of the event were Jimmy Browning, Michael Harvey, and Elliott Selbold. The annual horseshoe pitching contest was won by Loren and John Hawk. A cash prize was awarded to the winning teams.

A $50 gift certificate donated by Wal-Mart was won by Tammy Welch. A Kitzmiller sweatshirt was won by Rose Evans and a free chicken dinner, donated by the Lions Club, was won by Aaron Gregg.

The Kitzmiller High School reunion was held Saturday evening. Approximately 100 former Kitzmiller students attended the dinner and accompanying festivities. The homecoming gala concluded Sunday afternoon with a gospel sing. Several individuals and groups participated in the event, which the town hopes will become a regular part of the homecoming.

With this year's homecoming now over, organizers are already working on ideas for next year's event. The 17th annual Kitzmiller Homecoming Weekend will be held July 22, 23, and 24, 2005.

HS Electronics Students Can Get College Credits

Students who are currently enrolled in or who have completed electronics courses with at least a B average at Northern or Southern high schools have already earned college credit free of charge for these courses, according to Garrett College dean of Student Development Dr. Nancy Priselac.

The credits have been made available through an agreement that Garrett College and the Garrett County Board of Education have entered into with Fairmont State University. Qualified students can enter Garrett College with 12 college credits, take certain specified courses for one year, and transfer to Fairmont for a bachelor of science degree in either electronics engineering or aviation technology, both of which can lead to good-paying careers, according to Priselac.

Garrett County students will be granted in-state West Virginia tuition rates through the Academic Common Market, Priselac noted.

High school courses designated in this agreement are Electronics I, Electronics Lab, Electronics II, and Electronics III. They will be equated respectively to the following Garrett College courses: Electronics Circuit Analysis (EET 101), Electronics Shop Practices (EET 201), Basic Transistors (EET 215), and Digital Electronics (EET 230).

For further information about this opportunity to obtain free college credit through the Garrett-Fairmont agreement, interested persons may call the GC Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

Mental Hygiene Ad. Seeking Input On Peer Services

A meeting to discuss the expansion of peer support for adults with mental illness and their families will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 25, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the conference room at the Garrett County Health Department, Oakland.

Sponsored by the Garrett County Core service Agency, the event will help assess the local need for peer support services for historic and new vendors that can meet 501C3 status.

"The Mental Hygiene Administration is interested in expanding and furthering consumer run and peer support services," noted an agency spokesperson. "Please come if you're interested in presenting your ideas to the Core Service Agency for inclusion in a proposal to the Mental Hygiene Administration."

A CLOSE CALL – Six family members in this 1998 Toyota were injured when the driver, Yuri Kotliarov, 36, Montgomery County, apparently fell asleep and drove onto the right shoulder, struck a culvert, and overturned on Rt. 219 near Glotfelty Enterprises. Also transported by Southern Rescue Squad were Lyudmila Kotliarov, 67, Svetlana Kotliarov, 39, Sasha Kotliarov, 15, and Andrei Kotliarov, 3. Firefighters from Oakland and Deer Park responded to the 2:57 p.m. incident. No charges have been filed at this time, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies. Photo by John McEwen.

County Officials Adopt Policy On Reserving ERUs

The Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday unanimously approved a policy on reserving Deep Creek Lake wastewater treatment plant capacity units. For the purpose of this policy, a unit of capacity is an ERU (equivalent residential unit) based upon 262.5 gallons per day.

Upgrades to the plant, expected to be completed by December 2006, will allow the facility to process an estimated 2.2 million gallons of wastewater a day. Because of this "substantial" expansion, county officials adopted the policy to "provide an orderly and efficient process" for allocating the new capacity to Deep Creek Lake property owners.

With the adoption of the policy, reservations for ERUs were available for sale immediately. The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities already has a waiting list of property owners wanting to connect to the system when the expansion is completed.

Requests for single units will receive first priority. Public Utilities, however, reserves the right to allocate capacity and the reservations to ensure that the plant and facilities are operating in an efficient manner, noted director Mark Tonkovich.

Additionally, the department will review the reservation requests and take them in the order that it received them.

He also stressed that the reserved units would be assigned to specific parcels and could not be transferred to another party. Owners who decide not to build on their properties and do not need their units can only resell them to Public Utilities.

In the past, owners have sold their ERUs to the "highest bidder" or held onto them for many years, tying up units needed by others. The county officials said they wanted to avoid these problems with the new capacity.

Tonkovich also noted that the county does not intend to permit the reservation of the entire 2.2 million gallons of rated capacity for

A CELEBRATION OF GARRETT COUNTY HISTORY will take place this weekend, as the Garrett County Historical Society hosts a 35th anniversary party for its museum. Located along Second Street in Oakland in the former Garrett National Bank building (misrepresented in a story last week as the "First" National Bank — apologies), the museum first opened in November 1969, and was originally located in what is now Our Town Theatre along Center Street. It was moved to the downtown location in 1997. An open house at the site will be held on Friday, Aug. 27, and Saturday, Aug. 28, from 1 until 4 p.m. Guided tours of the museum will be given by local historians (including John Grant, pictured above right as he guides a group from the Swan Meadow School; Superintendent of Schools Wendell Teets is at left), and light refreshments will be served on the porch, a replica of the former Deer Park Hotel's veranda. Musical entertainment will be presented on Saturday beginning at 7 p.m., featuring the Mountaintop Dixieland Jazz Band and the Crellin Quartet. Guests should bring their lawn chairs and blankets to spread out on the lawn of Dailey's Park for the free concerts. All members of the public are encouraged to stop by and learn something new about their Garrett County heritage. Photo by John McEwen.

Oakland Police Probe Suspicious Person Report

The Oakland Police Department is seeking the public's assistance as it investigates a report of suspicious activity involving an adult male attempting to pick up a juvenile Monday afternoon in Oakland.

At approximately 3 p.m., just outside the Ruth Enlow Library, an older male operating a four-door black car with rust spots reportedly offered a 15-year-old girl $10 to let him give her a ride home. Anyone with information on this or similar activity that may have occurred recently is encouraged to contact the Oakland Police Department at 301-334-2100.

"Parents are asked to keep watch over their children, and firmly instruct them not to accept rides from strangers," said a police spokesperson.

Bear Killed When Struck By Two Vehicles Tuesday

A bear was struck and killed by two vehicles in McHenry Tuesday night, causing damage that required both cars to be towed from the scene. Maryland State Police investigated the 8:54 p.m. incident, which occurred in the vicinity of the McHenry barrack.

According to the police report, a 2003 Chevrolet Malibu was southbound on Garrett Highway when it struck a large black bear in the roadway approximately a quarter mile south of Friendsville Road. The bear then crossed into the

Oakland Native Donates Kidney To Save The Life Of A Friend

Submitted by Kimberly Shaffer

Mother, wife, daughter, teacher. Susan (Shaffer) O'Brien can now add "kidney donor" and "hero" to her list. However, the Oakland native and part-time resident of Garrett County considers donating her kidney no more a heroic act than participating in the Relay for Life or organizing students to send treats to patients at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Susan, a 44-year-old Damascus High School teacher, donated one of her kidneys to Dr. John Kijak on July 30.

"My husband Michael said I should do it. My daughters, Jessica and Julie, were all for it. My mother was the only one really concerned," O'Brien said.

The Kijak and O'Brien families have known each other for years. The children of both families are friends. Carla Kijak, wife of the kidney recipient, was the PTA president when the children were in elementary school. Susie, who teaches English, taught the three Kijak children. John Kijak, a general practitioner, took care of emergencies during Damascus High School functions. The families also both own homes in Garrett County, where they reside part of the year.

When O'Brien heard that Kijak needed a kidney transplant, her first thought was to organize a community drive to try to find a match, but she decided to check her own compatibility first.

"I really had no doubt I would be a perfect match," O'Brien said. She found out in March that she was indeed a match.

"You have two kidneys and you really only need one," O'Brien said. "It doesn't affect your health in the future in any way to be a donor. I've got the summer off. I'm a perfect donor."

Should O'Brien ever develop kidney disease and need another kidney, "I've got seven brothers and sisters," she said. "It's not my concern."

Bender Finalist For Teacher Of The Year Award

Dave Bender, world history teacher at Southern High School, was recently selected as one of the seven finalists for the 2004-05 Maryland Teacher of the Year, according to Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent.

Bender has been a teacher in Garrett County for 24 years, and is known for his local, state, and national leadership in programs such as the Maryland News Bowl, the Model United Nations, and the State History Day competitions.

His class teams placed first, second, and third in the 2004 Maryland News Bowl Competition, "an achievement of which Garrett County is very proud," said a school spokesperson.

The finalists were narrowed down from a group of 24, and were selected by a panel of judges from key Maryland education organizations representing principals, teachers, school boards, superintendents, and higher education.

Finalists were measured against a rigorous set of national criteria that include teaching philosophy, com-

Four Arrested After Alleged Jewelry Theft

Two adults and two juveniles were arrested after police were called to the jewelry counter at Wal-Mart for a reported theft Monday afternoon, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

It was discovered that Sean Buckle, 19, and Benjamin McCurdy, 19, both of the Oakland area, and two juveniles asked to look at a ring at the jewelry counter. After being handed the ring, they then allegedly switched the ring with a fake one that one of the juveniles had in his pocket, police said.

McCurdy was charged with being an accessory after the fact. Buckle was charged with theft over $500 and being an accessory after the fact. Both juveniles were charged with theft over $500 and being an accessory after the fact.

Blaze Damages Oakland Area House Monday

An accidental fire caused an estimated $10,000 in damages to an Oakland area house Monday evening.

Firefighters from the Oakland, Deer Park, and Terra Alta volunteer fire departments were alerted at 6:24 p.m. after fire was discovered in the basement of the William Thomas residence, located at 50 Cherry Creek Lane off Underwood Road, south of Oakland. Heavy, black smoke was pouring from the structure when the first units arrived.

Tanker units from the Aurora and Gorman VFDs were then summoned to the scene.

According to Oakland VFD chief John Feather, Mr. Thomas had carried a box of trash from the house and burned it in the back yard. He took the empty box back to the house and put it in the basement. Unbeknownst to him, a spark from the fire had evidently landed in the box, which caused it to ignite shortly after Mr. Thomas had left the house. Feather said that Mrs. Thomas discovered the fire when she opened the inside door to the basement.

"There was not much fire

Pedestrian Hit, Severely Injured Near Swanton

A pedestrian was struck and seriously injured Friday morning after she stepped into a traffic lane of Swanton Road in order to avoid three dogs that were barking and running toward her. No charges were filed by Maryland State Police troopers who investigated the 9 a.m. mishap, which also sent the three occupants of the vehicle involved to the hospital for observation purposes.

Kathleen Anne Hebb, 52, was walking with northbound traffic near 4 M Road (a private lane off Swanton Road), when three dogs ran toward her from a nearby yard. Hebb, who told police she has a fear of aggressive dogs, stepped into the roadway and into the path of a northbound 2005 Ford Explorer operated by Rita Kolb Fitzwater, 40, also of Swanton. The Explorer struck Hebb before Fitzwater could begin braking, according to police report.

Hebb was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, while Fitzwater and her two 14-year-old juvenile passengers were taken to the hospital by personnel from the Deer Park Community

Bloomington Crash Injures Five Tuesday

A collision of two small sedans on Maryland Highway at Bloomington injured six persons who required hospital transports, according to Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack. Charges were filed against one of the drivers.

The accident occurred in front of the Bloomington Apartments, as a 1998 Ford Escort operated by Larry Paul Smith, 62, Oakland, struck a 2001 Dodge Neon that was decelerating to make a left turn from westbound Maryland Highway onto Hampshire Avenue. Police said that Smith had been attempting to pass the 2001 Dodge Neon, operated by Bloomington resident Eva Catherine Sweitzer, 48, on the right when his Escort struck Sweitzer's car from behind.

Sweitzer and her three passengers, Diana Sue Reeves, 55, Lisa Denise Nelson, 13, and Samantha Renee Nelson, 8, all of Swanton, were each transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, while Patricia Ann Smith, 51, Oakland, a passenger in Smith's car, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Ambulance units

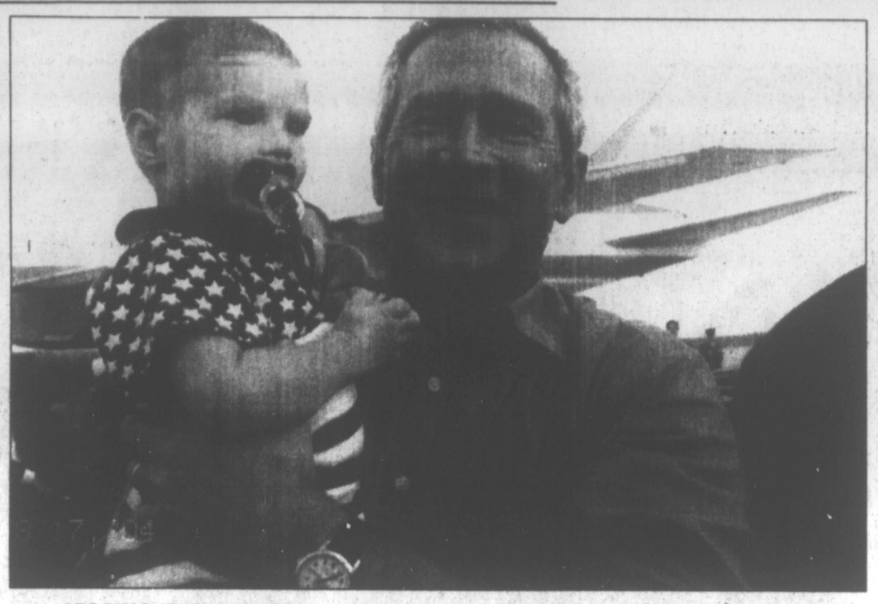
Single-Vehicle Accident Injures McHenry Man

A McHenry man was treated at the hospital Saturday after his pickup truck went out of control on a rain-slicked section of Garrett Highway south of Accident and crashed. Maryland State Police troopers investigated the 6:42 a.m. mishap, which occurred during a heavy downpour.

Wilbur Keith Ware, 73, was traveling north between Hoyes and Doerr roads when his 1992 Ford Ranger began hydroplaning. The truck traveled off the roadway, overturned several times, and came to a stop when it struck a storage shed.

Ware was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the accident.

State troopers reported that Ware was traveling at a speed too fast for the wet road conditions, although they declined to press charges.



KISSING THE BABIES, or at least holding the babies, is fundamental to any political campaign, and this youngster with local connections is among the "little people" recently held by President Bush. He is 17-month-old Aiden Turney of Harpers Ferry, W.Va., who was in the crowd at the U.S. Air Force base in Martinsburg, W.Va., on Tuesday, Aug. 17. The president met there with members of the 167th Airlift Wing, Air National Guard, and their families following a rally held earlier in Hedgesville. President Bush thanked Aiden's father, Major Kurk Turney, a C-130 pilot, for his commitment to the 167th, and also spoke with Aiden's mother, the former Carrie Kurtz, expressing his appreciation for the sacrifices that family members of military personnel must make. He also greeted Aiden's siblings, Kendall and Bryce, who, like Aiden, were also dressed in patriotic garb for the occasion. Kurk Turney is the son of Jack Turney, Oakland, and Nancy Learey, Mtn. Lake Park. Carrie is the daughter of Bob and Susannah Kurtz, Oakland.

Vehicle Found In Ditch, Driver Arrested For DWI

A 1996 Toyota truck was discovered by Oakland City Police in a ditch on Totten Street just outside the city limits on Sunday, which resulted in drunk driving charges against the driver, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Paul Douglas Pezold, 48, Cecil County, failed a series of field sobriety tests and was arrested. A search incident to arrest led to the recovery of several controlled pills, which were identified as Percocet and Clonazepam.

Pezold was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), driving under the influence (DUI), and two counts of controlled dangerous substance.

In a separate incident, Sheri Dean Sensabaugh, 50, LaVale, was arrested after she failed field sobriety tests early Friday morning on Sang Run Road near Marsh Hill Road. Her vehicle was stopped after it was observed crossing the center of the roadway numerous times, police said.

Sensabaugh was charged with DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and failure to drive right of center.

Approximately 15 minutes later, another driver was arrested for drunk driving on Mayhew Inn Road after the vehicle was observed crossing the center of the road.

Rhonda Lynn Billings, 38, Oakland, was charged with DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and failure to drive right of center.

Driver Injured After Swerving To Miss Deer

The driver was injured in a single-vehicle accident Tuesday when she reportedly swerved to avoid hitting a deer on Herrington Manor Road just north of Fingerboard Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Sarah Schmitz, Oakland, was operating a 1994 Dodge car on Herrington Manor Road and served to miss a deer and struck an embankment, which caused the car to overturn, police said.

She was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. There were no passengers in her vehicle, and she was not cited in the accident. Oakland firefighters also reported to the 11:34 p.m. scene.

Two Injured When ATV Hits Vehicle

The driver and passenger of an all-terrain vehicle were injured when the driver failed to negotiate a turn and struck an oncoming vehicle on Blue Ribbon Road Friday evening, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies. The accident remains under investigation and charges are pending.

David Monroe Sisler, 34, Oakland, was operating a 2002 Yamaha four-wheeler when he failed to stay right of center and negotiate a turn and struck an oncoming car operated by Loretta Ann Glotfelty, 24, Oakland.

Sisler and his passenger, Bobbi Jean Wilt, 23, Oakland, were both ejected from the four-wheeler, police said. Both were transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Oakland firefighters also responded to the 7:25 p.m. scene.

In another ATV accident, a female juvenile was injured when an ATV operated by a male juvenile accelerated and ran the rear tire over her right foot, police said.

The accident occurred on private property in the area of Sand Flat Road Wednesday. The female was treated at GCMH. No charges were filed, police said.

In a separate incident, a 10-year-old male was treated at GCMH after he was involved in a dirt bike accident on a private road near North Hill Road Sunday afternoon.

ON THE BLOCK AT COUNTRY FEST – These locally made items, a solid oak secretary's desk and a "Bears in the Woods" quilt, are just a few of the products that will be auctioned at the 2004 Country Fest and Auction, set for 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 28, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The event will also feature a variety of demonstrations, crafts, children's activities, and foods. For more information persons may consult its Web site at www.countryfest.org. See story.

McHenry Fairgrounds To Host 10th Country Fest & Auction

The 10th Country Fest and Auction is slated for 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 28, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Admission and parking are free, and last year's event drew approximately 2,400 persons from 12 states.

This year's auction, slated to begin at 10:30 a.m., will offer an oak pie safe and a pine blanket chest, both made by local craftsmen. Also being auctioned will be a wide variety of home decor items and framed prints, and other Amish-made wood furniture, including a solid oak 30-inch secretary's desk.

The quilt auction, set to begin at 1 p.m., will feature 20 king- and/or queen-sized, locally hand-made quilts. Among the original designs this year are an Underground Railroad Sampler, a Mariner's Crown, a Christmas Cactus, and a Flowering Star. Many smaller quilted items will also be auctioned. Last year's average winning quilt bid was $1,019, with the top quilt going for a record $4,000.

The Underground Railroad Sampler, measuring 113½ x 113½ inches, was designed and made specifically for this auction, according to Country Fest and Auction publicist Lucy Maust. "According to oral tradition, quilt blocks were used as coded messages for slaves on their way to freedom in the North," Maust explained. "This quilt is not offered as a statement about the validity of this oral tradition, but rather as a tribute to the men and women who were involved in the Underground Railroad."

In addition to the auction, the Country Fest demonstrations such as apple cider pressing, soap making, and chair caning. Vendor booths will offer crafts, home-baked goods, homemade noodles, jams and jellies, while a fresh produce stand will feature locally grown fruits and vegetables.

A gift and card shoppe will also be available.

For the children, there are pony and "Barrels of Fun" train rides, and a farm animal petting zoo. A pedal tractor pull is set for 11 a.m., and an aerial candy drop will take place at 2 p.m. Wholesome videos will be shown for families, and parents can join their children for horse and buggy rides or hay rides.

The Country Fest offers a variety of made-on-the premises food including raised doughnuts, hand-rolled soft pretzels, funnel cakes, turned ice cream, barbecued chicken, and varied breakfast and lunch menus.

The Garment of Praise Men's Quartet from Reading, Pa., will be performing gospel music throughout the day.

The Country Fest and Auction is sponsored by the Bittinger Mennonite Church and School, and the event primarily benefits the expansion and building programs of the church and school. Part of the proceeds are donated to Christian Aid Ministries, a Mennonite relief agency.

For more information, and to see photos of the quilts and other auction items, persons may visit the event Web site at www.countryfest.org. For further information, persons may call 301-245-4564.

New Autumn Glory Brochure To Be Distributed

The Autumn Glory brochure has a new look for 2004. With the Garrett County's premier festival rapidly approaching, the Chamber of Commerce has its brochure ready for distribution.

"So many people and organizations, working together, make this festival something special," said Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross. "We want to do our part to make this festival fun and successful for everyone. This brochure is just a start."

Some of the county's colorful fall foliage decorates the front of the brochure for this 37th annual Autumn Glory Festival. Inside, the schedule begins with the Wednesday, Oct. 13, Autumn Glory kick-off reception. Activities for each day follow, interspersed with pictures from past events as well as other examples of autumn's glory. The map showing the location of the events is still included to help visitors find the different activities.

"It is important to make it as easy as possible for people to get from one event to the other," said chamber director of communications Rachel May. "The black circles stand out in the schedule and are easy to see on the map."

There are other plans to change the program slightly for next year's event and input is welcome, said Ross. "This is Garrett County's largest festival, and we want people to know about it," he said.

With this early publication, brochures will be distributed throughout a larger area, besides being used during the festival.

Persons wanting copies now may pick them up at the Visitors Center in McHenry or at the Visitors Center at the 1884 Train Station in Oakland. The brochure is partially sponsored by WEPCO Federal Credit Union. Other festival sponsors are First United Bank & Trust, M&T Bank, F&M Bank, Railey Realty, Verizon, Allegheny Power, and Marvin's Men's Wear. The brochure was designed and produced by Advertising Art Design Inc.

For more information persons may contact the chamber at 301-387-4386 or through the web site at www.garrettchamber.com.

Breath of Fresh Air...

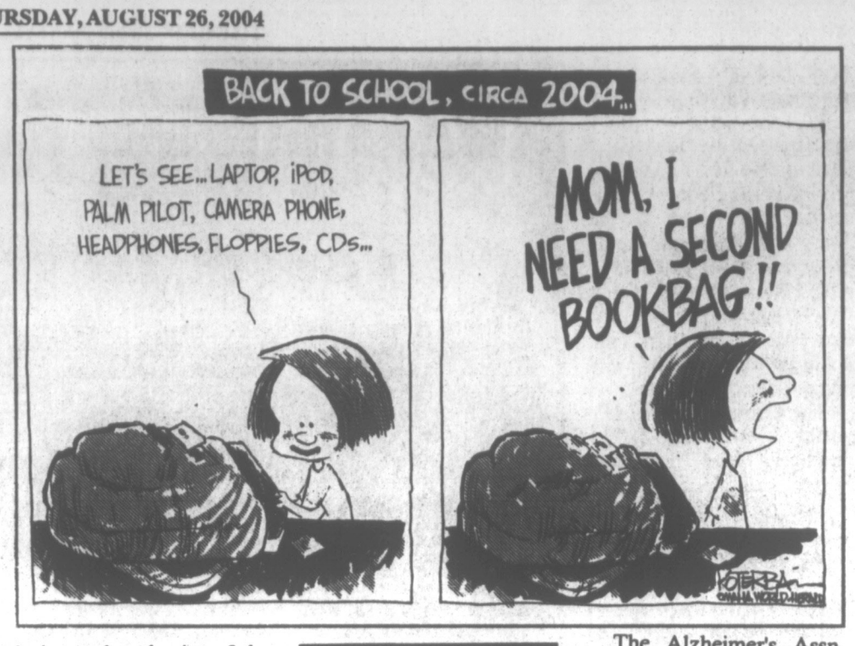
Isn't it nice that the Summer Olympics are always held during a U.S. presidential election year? It seems that this was intentionally planned just to give us Americans a break from all of the political rhetoric being exchanged between the Democrats and the Republicans, an exchange that this time around is getting nastier by the day.

It is such a breath of fresh air to turn on the television and, for hours on end, be able to not only totally escape the politics, but also to witness examples of "enemies" on the athletic field shaking hands and, in many cases, hugging each other just after competing against each other. Political, religious, ethnic, racial, and cultural differences mean nothing to the athletes in the Olympics arena. There is generally a great respect among them, as they recognize and appreciate each other simply as brother and sister athletes. They are all members of the same body, as each has dedicated everything to his or her sport, striving to do one's absolute best and understanding fully the sacrifices it takes to be among the best.

That sense of respect and admiration transcends to the members of the audience, which in great majority also set aside all of the differences and cheer for the athlete, whether she is Christian, Muslim, or Jewish, whether he is American, Russian, Iraqi, or Nigerian. None of that matters.

The only criticism of the Olympic coverage that we offer is how much importance is placed by the commentators upon winning a gold medal. The interview of an athlete following his competition, especially if he does not win the gold medal as expected, goes something like this: "So just how devastated are you to have only won the silver medal? How does it feel to be the first loser across the line? I can't imagine how disappointed you must be!" The vast majority of the Olympic athletes know there is no way in the world they are going to win a gold, silver, or bronze medal; they're just thrilled beyond words to have the opportunity to be there and represent their country.

Sadly, the 2004 Summer Olympics will soon draw to a close. Sadder yet, we have over two more months before the presidential election. (Lord, give us strength…)



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Our town looks very nice with all of the improvements.

Now, move the jailhouse to the County Roads Dept. and make our courthouse the best historical site in Oakland.

My thanks to the commissioners who voted for this move.

Sincerely,
Bob & Melva Hauser

To the Editor:

Our town has been improved so much and looks very nice. Now, would you county commissioners please move the jail to the county roads garage and put our beautiful historical courthouse back the way it should be?

Thanks to the commissioners who voted for this!

Gary & Joann Schrock

To the Editor:

An editorial cartoon in the June 10 edition of The Republican showed a bishop comforting a church filled with empty pews, save for one lone worshipper, because "First you banned pro-choice politicians, then pro-choice voters," and so on. the implication, of course, is that pews are emptied by unpopular church policies.

One might also consider that pews are emptied by the logical outcome of all that pro-choice activity. With over 40 million lives lost to legal abortion since the early '70s, there are a lot of empty seats all over the place. I'm glad my mom is pro-life!

To The Editor:

I would like to thank the Garrett County Fair Board on a wonderful fair and for bringing back "The Hubcaps." They are an attraction and favorite of many fair going folks like myself.

Unfortunately, Wednesday night the first show was packed – no big surprise. So I waited for it to end thinking that I might be able to get a seat for the second show. Wrong! I walked into the building only to find people with their legs, blankets and towels laid across seats and benches, and not to mention signs on benches stating "RESERVED." Did these people pay extra to have "RESERVED" seats? I don't think so!

For those of you that had saved and hoarded seats, please be respectful and give everyone the opportunity to see the shows!

Thank You,

To the Editor:

The seizure of property or money from one class of people to give to another class is called socialism/communism. This is exactly what the Garrett County commissioners did by disbanding the former Sanitary Commission, assuming the duties and authority of that commission themselves, then restructuring (I call it destruction) the cost of water by increasing the price by 220%.

Out town officials worked for years, long and hard hours with the former Sanitary Commission to meet federal and state standards on water and sewage, only to have it wiped out by a know-it-all, a liberal, and

THE VILLAGE

My son and I were going out to eat, and then to a movie. We discussed various options for films we might see. We weren't getting anywhere, so I said, "Here is what we are going to do: we'll go eat, and then go to the movie theatre; whatever movie is showing when we get there, that is the one we'll see."

That is how I got to see M. Night Shyamalan's The Village. Nick had told me that most reviewers had panned it, and that his friends had said mixed things about it. I had never seen one of the films by Shyamalan. From what I had heard, I did not want to see one. The problem was that it really was the only film showing at the hour of our arrival at the multiplex.

Voices are important in this movie. It might have begun – it didn't – with a voice saying, "Once upon a time." The Village is a fairy tale for adults, a thoughtful reflection on the noble lie.

The village in question is like a Shaker, Quaker, Anabaptist community more than a hundred years ago. It is isolated from the rest of the world by an enveloping forest. No one goes into the woods because there dwell "those of whom we do not speak." Just inside the community perimeter are a continuous series of watch towers.

I liked this village, Covington. In many ways the people there lived life as I should like to live it, and think life should be lived. I say it was like a Shaker, Quaker, Anabaptist community, but "God" was curiously absent from their prayer-like meditations.

There was a spirit of gentleness about the place and people which I have known among Quakers and Anabaptists.

There was also an element of fear which I have never sensed among Quakers and Anabaptists.

There was something wrong about the whole business. I also noticed little things that were anachronistic, but I attributed them to faulty film making. In fact, they are essential clues to what is, if not wrong, at least, not quite right.

The story turns on young love. In that regard, the tale is an old one. There are two sisters both in love with the same man, but, of course, he loves only one of them. She is the younger sister, and she is blind. At one level The Village is about the blind leading the blind and the varieties of blindness.

A simpleton plays an important part in the unfolding of the love story. He represents at many levels the difficulty of dealing with someone who does not quite conform to the general plan of things.

To say much more of the story might spoil the seeing of this outstanding movie.

William Hurt plays the senior elder of the community. I recognized him not by his face, rather by his voice.

A favorite Christmas book of my children was The Polar Express (of which a movie version is ready for release in the run-up to this coming Christmas). That work too is about the noble lie. One edition of the book has a tape of William Hurt reading the book. He has an exquisitely distinctive voice which lends shivering power to The Polar Express.

It is that voice which captured my imagination during the early scenes. Shyamalan avoids faces in scenes where the villagers are interacting, lending them all a semi-anonymous quality. At other times he uses full-frontal, screen-filling shots of faces making them all the more poignant in contrast.

In the anonymous scenes it is the voices which stand out. They almost float, disembodied above the villagers. As the film goes on, the use of voices and the disembodied quality of those voices converge in revelation.

What is a noble lie? Going back at least to Plato, the noble lie is a literal lie told to people in order to help them live the truth. The story of George Washington chopping down the cherry tree was told by Parson Weems in order to illustrate Washington's honesty, underlined with the punch line, "I cannot tell a lie." That story never happened. Thus a lie is told in order to encourage people to tell the truth.

I am no fan of the noble lie, but Shyamalan's film explores the depths of its power to inspire people to live truly and nobly. It suggests the question – and it was Plato's question – if it is possible to found a human society without the aid of noble lies.

The Village is a remarkable film. The cinematography is stunning. The music is excellent; it always supports the film, and never gets in the way. The cast is as fine a set of American actors and actresses as one could assemble, and they do themselves credit.

At the same time, this is not a film for everyone. Those who want a horror or science fiction movie or who demand action will be bored and disappointed.

The Village is a subtle, nuanced, intricately layered film of deep philosophical import. Nick and I enjoyed it enormously. I almost certainly would never have seen it except that I made a rule which I did not want to follow when the time came. There is a lesson in that, too.

VACATION 2004:
An Adventure of Colonial Proportions, Conclusion

When I was about 9, I stepped into the waves at Ocean City for the very first time. I remember the thrill of that first experience, of learning that this constant, ever-changing, natural carnival ride was here all the time. It always has been and always will be. It was just the coolest thing to realize. And being a water bug, I stayed in those waves for hours at a time. I still do. So when we woke up on Thursday morning of our vacation with the sea right outside the window, I was thrilled. Just like you are, I'm sure, to be reading this overdone account of the McEwen Family Vacation 2004. This is the last segment, I'm happy to report, as I imagine you're happy to discover. So sit back — you're almost home.

Although we have dreams of taking the boys out West some day for an adventure, at this point in our lives we generally don't feel like we've been on a real vacation unless we have seen the ocean. It's just part of the deal. The waves, the sand, the salt, the gulls. All of that. And oh, yes, the shells. The smelly, smelly shells. Alex, the 9-year-old, was engaged in shell-searching. He was dragging everything he found up to our little square of beach, including a late blue crab. He was intact, albeit stone dead. "Can we keep it?" Alex asked, letting the deceased crustacean's legs and claws flop against his skin. I had to draw the line at that. "In a few hours, it'll smell like . . . well, like dead fish, Alex." He also found a bunch of clam shells all connected together. We did end up keeping that a while, until I was sniffing around the hotel room, ripping stuff up and going, "Man, what stinks in here?" (Have you ever noticed how mothers are assailed by stink so much more than fathers or sons? I wonder if daughters smell rot? Bet they do. I have heard that women have sharper olfactory senses than men. Explains a lot, doesn't it?)

Thursday morning broke beautifully, the sun beaming across the ocean, clear and clean after the storm the night before. I watched the waves while everyone else still slept. What I wanted to see most of all was a dolphin. I remember the first time I saw one, when my dad and I were on a Florida beach years and years ago. We were thrilled. Dad loved seeing animals in the wild, and he passed that on to us kids. So I wanted to see one, but there were none. The boys got out of bed and started yammering to get into the waves. After an inhaled free hotel breakfast, they and their dad hit the beach. Where did Mom go? To the grocery store, of course. But that was okay. After having worn out our credit cards buying our meals up to this point, I was happy to get lunch meat and bread and fruit at a fraction of the cost. And there is something to be said for a good old PB&J sandwich of one's own making.

I joined my family on the beach for the entire afternoon, the sun beating down on us and the waves tossing us around like rag dolls. The surf was rough, perhaps more than usual because of the storm, and one particular round of waves tossed Rob up on the shore and bounced his head hard against the sand. His back was to me, but Michael looked at him right afterwards. It's always unsettling for a kid to be staring at an injury of his brother and, without breaking that stare, scream at the top of his lungs, "Mom!" I ran up to Rob and saw blood coursing out of his nose and mouth. That must have been one heck of a wave! I talked to him calmly (feeling a little sick) and pressed a towel to his face. Some nice lady came up behind me and handed us a cold washcloth. "You just keep that," she said. People can be so nice, can't they? We got him cleaned up, and the upshot was that he had an impressively swollen nose to show off for a few days.

John got into a rather comical habit of finding stuff underwater with his feet. He would assume a position with just his head sticking out of the water. A thoughtful look would cross his face and he'd say, "Here's sump'm." Then he would drag a piece of shell or rock up from the bottom. His collection included one entire side of a horseshoe crab, several skate egg casings, various bits of wood and garbage, and very possibly Capt. Hook's prosthesis.

A day of the same was set for Friday, and the morning was glorious again. And this time, while squinting at the breaking waves, I got my wish. Dolphins! And not one or two, but 12 or 13. They leapt and dove, and I watched for a long time, thinking about Dad. The boys saw them, too. Thrilling. We hit the beach again, and after swimming awhile went shopping for cheapo souvenirs and the obligatory box of saltwater taffy for the office. We went back to the water again, and enjoyed perhaps our most pleasant few hours of the week. The crowd had diminished, the sun was casting long shadows of the beach hotels across the sand. We stayed in the water a long time, playing, laughing, romping. It struck me that this was one of those moments to gather up and keep. The most important place to the boys that afternoon was with us, their mom and dad. All five of us were where we wanted to be. We were safe, secure, having fun, and together. It won't always be like that. The boys will grow up, and we will not be the focal point of their lives. That's how it works. But for that day, that warm day in the sea, we were together, and so happy for it.

Saturday was our last day, and what we should've done was get in the car by about 9 a.m. and head home. Well, there are always should've, huh? Instead we went to an aquarium first, where we watched seals and sharks, and petted stingrays. (Yes, petted them. They are very rubbery.) And thanks to Finding Nemo, we enjoy things like sea turtles so much more. It's hard to look at one and not slip into Crush's surfer vernacular: "Aw, little dude, you so totally rock. Give me some fin. Chuh."

The junket to the aquarium made our return home horribly late Saturday night, but it was worth it. I think. (Okay, I wasn't so sure when we were tooling along in the dark, struggling to stay awake, on a busy highway. "We're too old for marathon car trips like this," John growled a few times.) So next time we'll leave a little earlier. Yeah, right. But we got home, with another store of fond memories. And you made it through another vacation, too! Thanks for reading. Now go rest up.

a yes-man. This action, coupled with a sports complex at Deep Creek Lake and the subsidizing of housing for families to work at that complex, reeks to high heaven of favoritism.

As a survivor, I will overcome their arbitrary actions, but if my "untainted" vote and influence are of any value, I wouldn't guarantee that their continuance in office will. Remember at election time – these three men betrayed your vote and your trust. If this is the best the Republican party can come up with, I am ready for conservative Democrats.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the Garrett County commissioners requests that it appear in this column.

Dear Garrett County Commissioners:

The purpose of this letter is to state my opposition to the Oakland Zoning Board's 3-2 vote for a variance to allow a jail to be built on the current site of the Garrett County Roads Department.

I believe they should take into consideration that this proposed jail site is surrounded by many residences, with most of these residents objecting to this proposal. Why not use one of the industrial parks already in existence but hardly used?

Having worked on the building of several large buildings in the Washington, D.C., area, including the MCI Center, the Victor building, the Mint Building, etc., I'm sure you're aware of, as much as I am, what goes on at a building site which is contaminated by oil, gas, etc. (as the Garrett County roads garage must be after this many years), when the Environmental Protection Agency is called in to check the soil. You can be assured the EPA will be called. I have loaded numerous loads of contaminated soil, which had to be hauled hundreds of miles to be properly processed, and I can tell you that that's a costly procedure.

I am asking that this proposal be stopped, before it gets started.

Sincerely,
Raymond Selders
Oakland

To the Editor:

A famous philosopher once said that life can only be understood backward, but it must be lived forward. This is why we believe that those who will live in the new century will never understand the beauty of the past if our historic sites are not preserved.

Thinking back to 30 years ago when we first came to Garrett County, we remember an elegant county courthouse with an unobstructed front view. The gently sloping lawn with a walkway to the front entrance and a wall with benches at street level greatly enhanced the beauty of this early 20th century structure. That is why we should tear down the incompatible structures of the '70s jail addition and restore the front of this landmark to its former glory. We are currently being presented with the perfect opportunity to do this.

The town has made progress with the community coming together, renovating the train station and the museum with county history inside, and expanding to the outside. Merchants and restaurants are all bringing something positive to the scene.

All of this has resulted in bringing people back to downtown.

Now it is time for the county courthouse to join this revitalization and once again become the focal point of Oakland.

McHenry

To the Editor:

We recognize that we are a very rich county; however, even with the money pouring in, shouldn't we view spending as if someone has to pay taxes? Many of us locals have to pay taxes, and our taxes should not be wasted on projects such as tearing down the relatively new jail, where we just spent a million dollars remodeling it. The taxpayer paid for this.

We all realize that the original building of it was not wise; however, once done, we should not (for cosmetic reasons) tear it down and restore the old courthouse appearance. Consider the cost to remove the now multiple million jail; consider the cost of burying the debris!

Shouldn't the commissioners consider the taxpayer in giving us a large rate reduction? We have so much money coming into the treasury that they seriously look for ways to spend. Our taxes should be close to ½ of what they are, in light of the increased assessable base!

Take the bridge between Rosedale and Oakland. Ask the gentlemen who demolished it how long it would have lasted! I saw it, took pictures. The concrete channels which rested on cut boulder foundations would have lasted until the end of the next two millenniums. The argument that it was not structurally sound fails the facts. The fact is that a walkway for pedestrians could have been added for minimal cost.

Commissioners, consider the taxpayer, please!

To the Editor:

The Kerry campaign has tried to portray George Bush as inarticulate and stupid, and criticize Bush for the way he says things. Many have tried to say Kerry would make a better president because he is much more articulate and would never make a stupid statement.

Well, John Kerry is not so articulate himself and has made many stupid statements. The following are all quotes from Kerry's recent speeches:

1. The vast majority of our imports come from outside the country."–John F. Kerry
2. "If we don't succeed we run the risk of failure."–John F. Kerry
3. "One word sums up probably the responsibility of any governor, and that word is 'to be prepared.'"–John F. Kerry
4. "I have made good judgments in the past. I have made good judgments in the future."–John F. Kerry
5. "The future will be better tomorrow."–John F. Kerry
6. "We're going to have the best educated American people in the world."–John F. Kerry
7. "I stand by all the misstatements that I've made."–John F. Kerry
8. "We have a firm commitment to NATO; we are a part of NATO. We are a part of Europe."–John F. Kerry
9. "Public speaking is very easy."–John F. Kerry
10. "A low voter turnout is an indication of fewer people going to the polls."–John F. Kerry
11. "We are ready for any unforeseen event that may not occur."–John F. Kerry
12. "For NASA, space is still a high priority."–John F. Kerry
13. "Quite frankly, teachers are the only profession that teach our children."–John F. Kerry
14. "It isn't pollution that is harming the environment. It's the impurities in our air and water that are doing it."–John F. Kerry
15. "It's time for the human race to enter the solar system."–John F. Kerry

And as for his running on his Vietnam record, that's fine, but why does he keep changing his story about what he really did there? I will not criticize his service, but don't use the pain of Vietnam for the benefit of a cheap campaign ad. Unlike John Kerry, George W. Bush really supports our troops. Remember, John Kerry was for the war, against the war, for that war, against the war, and depending on when you read this, his opinion may have changed again. Sounds like a good ol' flip-flop, flip-flop, flip-flop.

Vote this November 2, 2004. If you are not registered, get registered. It is very easy. If there is any chance you will not be able to get to the polls, call the Garrett County Board of Elections at 301-334-6985 and request an absentee ballot as soon as possible. There is no reason to not vote.

To the Editor and citizens of Garrett County:

I have recently been reading The Republican with much interest. There is currently a debate going on over the benefits and consequences of the proposed wind farms. As a student at an environmentally concerned college and someone who is majoring in environmental studies, I am well aware of all of the concerns about these wind farms. The only valid concern as far as I care is about the effects on wild life. I am sure that the bats and birds will thank us when they don't have to worry about getting chopped up by a windmill, but instead become extinct because of the global ice age induced by our excessive consumption of fossil fuels and production of the wonderful CO_2, which birds love, by the way.

The biggest issue that I hear from Garrett Countians is property value and how these windmills will affect the tourist industry, and, horror of horror, we may earn less money. Heaven forbid that we not make that extra grand on the sale of our house, or we turn that one tourist away because of our horribly inconsiderate attitude toward the environment, what with destroying trees and all to put up some windmills.

I am extremely frustrated with the shortmindedness of the people who are saying that the windmills are a bad idea. While they may not be in the ideal location and they may not produce the most electricity, any little bit that saves us from mining coal is great.

In Garrett County we do not see the most devastating effects of coal mining. I currently live in the coal fields of Appalachia, and I am experiencing first hand what happens when mountain tops are removed so we can have lights. I invite anyone who thinks that coal mining is not bad to come to Kentucky and West Virginia for a tour. While we think coal mining isn't that bad, in Garrett County it's not, here it devastates many people's lives daily. If it rains, people lose their homes by flooding caused by mountain top removal; our water smells like rotten eggs; and the thugs from coal companies harass anyone who stands in their way. These are just a few of the issues that come from coal mining in this area.

I encourage you to think about what happens every time you turn on the lights. Think about someone other than yourself, and think that these windmills while not perfect, are a step in the right direction, and anything that we can do to get turned around is of utmost importance at this point in time. People are losing their homes and lives from coal mining, and all we can argue about is how these windmills will make things ugly for us, or we won't be able to get as much money. Heaven Forbid.

Peace,
David Coffman

To the Editor:

For the past several months, Garrett County officials, with the assistance of a consulting firm, have been conducting a study of planning, zoning, and economic issues involving the Deep Creek Watershed. As a permanent resident of DCL, I continually observe year-round population fluctuations. It is apparent that for extended periods of time, especially outside the prime tourism seasons, a large majority of houses at the lake are vacant. In fact, only 12.5% of lake front and lake access homes are occupied full time. We need more full-time residents on Deep Creek Lake's shores if we want a balanced community that will make a larger contribution to the economic strength of our entire area.

The reality is that the contribution of the lake area to the overall economy of the county is dependent on seasonal occupancy. I believe it is more practical – in fact, visionary – to encourage full-time residents along with seasonal visitors. I recognize that tourism is an important contributor to the county's overall financial status. However, there are strong advantages to also attracting retirees and other permanent residents. A greater demand throughout the year for goods and services will result in better paying and more diverse job creation in Garrett County.

Over time, small businesses in high tech fields could discover new markets. Legal and financial institutions, healthcare organizations, and other enterprises could expand as we keep and attract new residents with year-around buying and spending power to our community. Our college graduates would discover opportunities for professional employment careers here at home. These future graduates with marketable skills in management, communications, healthcare, accounting, information technology, etc., would be a vital addition to the economic mix.

The Garrett County commissioners as well as the Department of Planning and Zoning are requesting comments and suggestions from the public. Go to: http://www.garrettcounty.org/pandz/dclstudy.htm. Here you can view "The Deep Creek Lake Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis Study" as reported by the consulting firm hired by the commissioners to help us look at the issues and options facing our area. You can make comments to the commissioners and Planning and Zoning, but you should do so before the August 30 deadline for comments. They need your comments and ideas. This is your chance to be heard and to help make a difference for your future. Please consider the positive impact of a vibrant, balanced, residential community with an increasing number of full-time residents contributing to the overall economic growth of the county when you submit your comments to the commissioners and the folks in Planning and Zoning.

Thank you for your consideration and concern.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the editorial that I read in last week's edition of the paper, and while the words "Not an Endorsement" were bolded as the title, I do believe this editorial to be a silent endorsement of the Bush administration. That is fine, just as I openly wrote about my disgust with the Bush administration last week; you are open to your own views and opinion as well. Just as you wrote your segment to not be an endorsement of the new book Unfit for Command, my current writing is in no way intended to be pointed toward yours.

I find the title Unfit for Command really points toward another person, not presidential candidate John Kerry. First off, let's just look at the Swift Boat Veter-

Changes to FSA Co. Committee Elections Proposed

Michael R. Kozier, executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Garrett and Allegany counties, has announced that USDA is proposing new guidelines designed to ensure that FSA county committees fairly represent agricultural producers, especially socially disadvantaged (SDA) producers.

"The guidelines are some of the most proactive steps taken by USDA in recent history to ensure that the County Committee election process is fair and transparent," said Kozier. "The reforms clearly illustrate the FSA's deep commitment to encouraging minority and under-served producer participation in our county committees."

The 2002 Farm Bill gave Secretary of Agriculture Ann Veneman discretion to issue uniform guidelines governing the county committee election process if she deems that such guidelines are necessary. The proposed guidelines were prepared with input from community groups and leaders, as well as USDA's Office of Civil Rights. The public has 30 days to comment on the proposed guidelines published in the Aug. 17 Federal Register. The guidelines will not become final until USDA has received and considered public comments.

One of the most significant proposals allows the Secretary to nominate an eligible SDA producer to a slate regardless of whether any nominations have been filed. A nomination by the Secretary may include the current SDA advisor for the county committee. Currently, one or more SDA producers may be appointed to be an advisor to a county committee; however, these advisors have no voting authority. The 2002 Farm Bill gives the Secretary the authority to appoint an SDA producer, with voting rights, to a county committee. After evaluating whether the proposed reforms described in the guidelines have resulted in an increase in minority and under-served producers on county committees, the Secretary may exercise her authority to appoint SDA producers to county committees.

The following are several of the other proposed reforms to the FSA county committee election process:

• If no valid nominations are filed, the Secretary may exercise her authority to nominate up to two individuals to be placed on the ballot. If the Secretary chooses not to exercise her authority, then the state committee may exercise its authority to nominate up to two individuals to be placed on the ballot. If neither the Secretary nor the state committee chooses to exercise their authority, then the respective county committee shall nominate two individuals to be placed on the ballot. If the county committee has no voting member from a socially disadvantaged group whose term of office carries over into the next year, one of the nominees shall be the best and most qualified person to represent the interests of the predominant socially disadvantaged farmer and rancher group in that respective county.

1. FSA county offices shall actively locate and recruit eligible candidates identified as SDA farmers and ranchers as potential nominees for the county committee elections using any reasonable means necessary.

2. County committees shall determine whether redrawing the local administrative area (LAA) boundaries or increasing the number of LAAs in a given area will assist in ensuring the fair representation of SDA producers in the area.

3. The number of consecutive terms that a county committee member may serve will be reduced from three to two. This provision shall take effect with the 2005 election retroactively.

4. The FSA state office shall deliver the ballots in a sealed box to the respective county offices. There shall be a 10-day advance notice to the public of the date of the vote and counting. Ballot opening and vote counting shall be fully open to the public and be readily accessible to the public.

The 2002 Farm Bill defines an SDA group as a group whose members may have been subject to racial, ethnic, or gender prejudice because of their identity as members of the group, without regard to their individual qualities. SDA producers have generally been defined to include: African-Americans; Hispanic-Americans; Native Americans; Asian-Pacific Americans; Subcontinent Asian-Americans; and women.

FSA county committees help ensure that federal programs meet the needs of producers in their communities. Committees make decisions on commodity price support loans and payments; establishment of allotments and yields; conservation programs; incentive, indemnity and disaster payments for some commodities; and other farm disaster assistance.

Individuals may nominate themselves or others as candidates for seats on county committees. In addition, eligible candidates can be nominated by community-based, faith-based or other organizations in the county or area before the close of the nomination period, especially by groups representing socially disadvantaged farmers or ranchers. Nominations and elections are open to all eligible candidates and voters without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, marital status or disability.

The nomination period ends Sept. 3, 2004. Nomination forms (FSA-669A) can be obtained from local FSA Service Center offices or online at http://forms.sc.egov.usda.gov/eforms/mainservlet. Details on FSA county committee elections can be found on the Internet at: www.fsa.usda.gov. County committee elections will be held Nov. 8 - Dec. 6, 2004.

Crops Aided By Rain, Sunshine

Air temperatures were in the 90s last week, and many areas received between half an inch to an inch of precipitation. Sunshine with a few scattered showers resulted in 5.1 days suitable for field work for the week ending August 22. Lower rainfall totals this past week allowed fields to start to dry out from the rains two weeks ago.

Corn is looking very good, with 49 percent of the crop in the dent stage and 9 percent beginning to mature. Corn for silage harvest is under way, with 16 percent complete. Farmers are harvesting their third cutting of other and alfalfa hay. Fruits and vegetables have been hit by disease because of wet weather conditions these last few weeks.

Bloodmobile To Visit Three Times In September

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will visit Garrett County three times during the month of September.

Donors will be welcomed at the American Legion hall in Oakland from noon to 6 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 3.

The second visit will be at Kitzmiller Elementary School on Friday, Sept. 10, where donors may respond between 2 and 7 p.m.

The bloodmobile will be at the Grantsville fire hall on Monday, Sept. 27, from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The need for blood in the Johnstown (Pa.) Region of the American Red Cross, of which Garrett County is a part, continues to be critical. Persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in generally good health are eligible to give a unit of blood every 56 days.

Persons desiring more information about the ARC blood services program may telephone the Western Potomac Chapter of the ARC at 301-334-3810.

by Becky Aiken and Sherry Georg

If you have visited the Drane House this summer there is a good chance you may recognize these young volunteers, Travis Georg and Noah Aiken, pictured above. As our youngest volunteers they have spent time pulling weeds, playing in the dirt, and on occasion acting as docents and telling visitors about "Their Drane House." We're sure that Travis and Noah are not the first children to enjoy the yard and garden at the Drane House. The Drane family's eight children must have played in the dirt and pulled their share of weeds.

In the 1800s clearing the land to make way for a tobacco plantation was anything but child's play and took more labor than just what the Drane children could provide. The Dranes were slave owners. When people think of slave labor it usually conjures up the image of tobacco fields in the South and grand plantations with gracious mansions. This was not always the case. If you have visited the Drane House you know that it is far from a mansion. But just like the plantation of the South, its 900 acres were cleared by slaves.

The 1800 Census of Prince George's County shows the Dranes as having nine slaves. The Allegany Census of 1810 records the Dranes as having six slaves. The inventory of Lt. James Drane's estate dated 27 October 1829 included negroes: John, age about 48, $200, Abraham, 32, $350; Lucy, 24, $200; Peter, about 15, $250; Jack, 14, $250; Thomas, 12, $200. It was signed by John McHenry and Meshack Browning.

Today we realize that slavery was wrong, so we tend not to explore that part of the past. Slaves made a valuable contribution to the founding of our nation, just as the Drane slaves helped to make Garrett County what it is today. We must never diminish their contributions and should celebrate their lives as part of our past.

If you are like our youngest volunteers and like to pull a few weeds and play in the dirt, we encourage you to join the Flowery Vale Garden Society. The society meets on the fourth Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. Meetings are held at the Drane House during the warm months and at the Accident Municipal Building during the winter. If you would like more information on the Garden Society, contact Sherry Georg at 301-746-8766.

Fire Department. A release from the Garrett County Emergency Management Office indicated that an MSP medevac helicopter was summoned in connection with the incident, but confirmation was not available.

Deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office assisted at the scene.

Donates Kidney

Kijak, 53, was diagnosed with diabetes over 25 years ago. The disease had been controlled with insulin until three years ago, when he developed a foot infection.

"That ended up costing my kidney," Kijak said. He had been on home dialysis, allowing him to hook up to a machine that worked while he slept. He continued to see patients and attend high school functions. He had been on a waiting list for a kidney about three years when he was temporarily removed because of an infection. Then a specialist in foot care at George-town University decided there was no choice but to amputate Kijak's foot and part of his leg. Shortly after, he returned to his practice, using crutches and chairs on wheels to get around until he could be measured for a prosthesis.

"I'm very fortunate that this is something Susie wanted to do," he said. "I could have been on the waiting list another two years."

The surgery, which took place on July 30, was a success. Kijak, who was released two weeks ago week from the hospital, had shown signs of rejection, and was administered anti-rejection drugs. He is recovering at home.

O'Brien stayed in the hospital three days after surgery. She can expect to feel tired for a few weeks, but should fully recover by the time school opens.

O'Brien is the daughter of Joann Shaffer, Oakland, and the late Perry Shaffer. She is the sister of 1st Lt. Joseph Shaffer and Cynthia Sanders, both of Oakland.

Valley Point Gathering Salutes Troops' And Families' Sacrifices

The upcoming monthly Support Our Troops gathering in the Preston County community of Valley Point is slated for Friday, Sept. 3. On the third day of each month, beginning in March of last year, a number of Preston residents and others from across the tri-state region have come together at 7 p.m. to support one another and pray for American troops stationed overseas in the Middle East and Afghanistan.

At each service, a list of the region's overseas service members is read aloud to a silent crowd gathered next to a large oak drew festooned with yellow ribbons inscribed with the names of each soldier, sailor, and airman.

That list, which has approached 100 names at times, has been updated in recent days and now bears the following names of area troops serving in harm's way. They are Jeremiah Adams, Robert Beerbower, Steve Clemens, Michael Davies, Scott Dixon, Ivan Frederick, Kelly Harvey, Lawrence E. Humberson, Martin Hubeaut, Tony Neiman, Mike Ruppenthal, Randy Phillips, and Lester Sisler, who is currently serving his second tour in the Middle East.

To add the name of any area serviceman or servicewoman not listed, persons may contact Darla Ruckman at 304-379-2203 or Tammy Titchenell at 304-379-7803. Forms will also be available at the Sept. 3 service for persons to add names.

The gatherings are slated to continue until all troops are home.

Marine Corps Lance Cpl. William A. Fultz, son of Carol S. and Ralph L. Fultz of Mount Storm, and more than 2,000 Marines and sailors assigned to the 24th Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU) recently began the process of ensuring security and stability in the central Iraqi province of Northern Babil.

Operating from Forward Operating Base Kalsu, Fultz's unit's first order of business was to establish rapport with their neighbors and let them know the Marines are prepared to help them in any way they can. The Marines drove throughout their area of responsibility, stopping to offer residents water, and to talk with them about their living conditions and how the Marines could help them.

The Forward Operating Base provides security against insurgents and anti-coalition militia for hundreds of Marines in Fultz's unit. Fultz's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment.

MEUs are built around a reinforced infantry battalion, a combat service support element, a reinforced helicopter squadron and a command element. With its complement of fully integrated air and ground forces, Fultz's unit is ready to conduct real-world operations including boat raids, tactical recovery of aircraft and personnel, noncombatant evacuation operations, and humanitarian assistance operations.

Fultz is a 2000 graduate of Union High School of Mount Storm, and joined the Marine Corps in February 2000.

For more information on the deployment and high resolution photographs, persons may visit the 24th MEU web site at www.usmc.mil/24meu.

Yough Fest Returns With Songs Of Political Passions, Personal Power

DAR WILLIAMS

After a monthlong hiatus, the Little Yough Summer Music Festival returns to Oakland tomorrow, Friday, Aug. 27, with a songwriters' showcase presented by Austin (Texas) Music Hall of Fame member Eliza Gilkyson and National Public Radio favorite Dar Williams. Gilkyson, who will kick off the evening at 6:30 p.m., and Williams are both known for their songwriting originality, onstage energy, and political and social justice passions.

The summer series wraps up with a bang next Friday, Sept. 3, with a homegrown double bill of The Remedy (aka the Jim Jones Band) and the Smith and Roberts Band.

Back by popular demand, Eliza Gilkyson is making her second Yough series appearance. With numerous recordings and concert appearances far and wide, she has gained a large and loyal following in the United States and in Europe, and her CDs have drawn high praise from music critics. She has toured with such big-name headliners as the Dixie Chicks, Mary Chapin Carpenter, and Patty Griffin, and has been featured on NPR's All Things Considered and the PBS concert program Austin City Limits.

ELIZA GILKYSON

Gilkyson's last three CDs have showcased her edgy lyrics and piercing imagery, beginning with the "dark and lonely sound" of Hard Times in Babylon, a critically acclaimed 2000 release. Another critical success followed two years later with Lost and Found, described as a "thematic breakthrough that documents the hope and satisfaction of making it through darkness to light."

This election year features Gilkyson's newest release, Land of Milk and Honey, a decidedly sociopolitical statement that opens with her Iraq War awareness plea, "Hiway 9" and ends with Woody Guthrie's previously unrecorded peace anthem, "Peace Call." The pair bookend eight other songs that set their sights on some of the major themes of Gilkyson's generation of women — and men — including the peace movement, abusive relationships, mankind's follies, and the hopes of mothers for their children.

"This is music for a generation that won't stand idly by while its vision for improving the quality of life on Earth seems ever clouded by a dust-storm of politics, power, greed, and global unrest," Gilkyson stated.

Dar Williams, the evening's second performer, has become a nationally recognized force on the folk scene, with radio spots on NPR's Weekend Edition, World Cafe and eTown, television appearances on Austin City Limits and the Conan O'Brien Show, and an upcoming concert that will be broadcast next month on the PBS program Soundstage.

"Wisdom flows through [Williams's] songs in delirious, wordy rushes of truth," said a New York Times reviewer, while the Seattle Rocket opined, "There were Deadheads and now there are Darheads. This is NOT your father's folk music." She has also been the subject of a feature in Vanity Fair's music issue. Joan Baez has recorded three of Williams's songs and toured with her in the U.S. and Europe, and Sara McLachlan recruited Williams for two years' worth of the Lilith Fair circuit.

A graduate of Connecticut's Weslyan University with a double major in theatre and religion, Williams has a fanatical following at colleges and schools in the U.S. and Canada. She was one of the top 50 grossing touring acts of 1998, has sold well over a quarter-million records, and was the highest-charting independent artist on Triple-A radio for her 1997 album End of the Summer.

Williams's fourth solo album, the 2000 release The Green World, was inspired by an undergraduate class on Shakespeare, "whose plays often centered on the conflict between the orderly closed world of Elizabethan court life and the 'green world' — that place which takes you deep into the woods (literally or figuratively), where you face the unpredictable and undergo great transformation."

The Beauty of the Rain, her latest release, earned Williams the 2003 Boston Music Awards Singer/Songwriter Album of the Year honor. The work addresses a wide variety of subjects, including technology, identity struggles, dreams, impressionism, and the tug of war between independence and intimacy.

"I wanted to convey the idea that the world isn't coming apart, but people are communicating more," Williams explained of the songs, which map out the emotional terrain of people whose lives are in transition.

Much of the inspiration for The Beauty of the Rain came from Williams's own experiences, as she made the transition to a different life in New York City, and worked to make sense of her new surroundings. "Where The Green World was a meditation on the big picture, on the sky and fields of Massachusetts and being surrounded by nature, The Beauty of the Rain is more tied to an urban landscape," she said. "It takes on smaller conversations."

The recording features guest appearances by a stellar array of talent, including Alison Krauss on vocals, Bela Fleck on banjo, and Blues Traveler frontman John Popper manning the harmonica and backup vocals.

Like Gilkyson, Williams is an artist with strong social justice convictions, and she donates a significant portion of her time to promote wilderness preservation, solar power, mental health programs, and the legalization of industrial hemp.

Tomorrow night's free concert will take place at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion, located in the town parking lot, where food and refreshments will be available for purchase, and concertgoers are encouraged to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets.

Platinum sponsors for this year's concert series are F&M Bank, The Republican, 92.3 The Train, KHJ, 1050 AM WMSG, the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils, the town of Oakland, the Greater Oakland Business Association, and the Oakland and Maryland Main Street programs.

Gold sponsors are Railey Mtn. Lake Vacations, Wal-Mart, Will O' the Wisp, WEPCO Federal Credit Union, and WQZK, while Silver sponsors are the Oakland Rotary Club, Terra Alta Bank, Miners & Merchants Bank, and an anonymous sponsor.

LYRA — RELIGIOUS AND SECULAR CHORUS

Lyra Slated To Conclude Penn Alps Music Series

Lyra, a religious and secular chorus from St. Petersburg, Russia, will conclude the 2004 Music at Penn Alps series at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 28, at the Penn Alps Great Hall.

Lyra is a community chorus of professional musicians who are students or graduates of the St. Petersburg Conservatory. The chorus was formed to explore and popularize the diverse range of Russian choir music, both sacred and secular, especially that of the more obscure composers. To date, Lyra has recorded three CDs and toured throughout Russia and Western Europe.

Although Lyra's members follow different musical paths as choir conductors, opera singers, instrumentalists, and music teachers, they are united by their "passion for ensemble singing," noted a spokesperson. The full choir consists of about 25 singers. When on tour, Lyra performs with five or six singers selected to maintain the harmony of the choral sound.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by season and corporate sponsors and by the support of individuals. This concert is sponsored by the Casselman Inn. Season sponsors are Sincell Publishing Co. Inc. and the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985.

Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats, so ticket holders are advised to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville on Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

Historic Preservation, Museum Grant Applications Sought

The Maryland Historical Trust (MHT), an agency of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), is accepting applications for Fiscal Year 2006 grants under the MHT Historic Preservation and Museum Assistance Grant Programs.

These grant programs are funded through the MHT Grant Fund and include grants for capital and non-capital historic preservation and museum enhancement. Available funding from the MHT Grant Fund in current Fiscal Year 2005 is approximately $1.3 million and, it is anticipated that a similar amount will be available for FY 2006.

Nonprofit organizations and local jurisdictions may apply for historic preservation grants to fund capital projects. Business entities and individuals may also apply for Capital Historic Preservation grants when preservation of the property serves a high public purpose. Eligible projects include the acquisition, rehabilitation, or restoration of historic property in Maryland.

Only nonprofit organizations and local jurisdictions may apply for historic preservation non-capital grants. Non-capital projects may include a wide array of historic preservation activities, ranging from historic property research, survey, and documentation work to the development of historic preservation educational programs and planning documents.

Nonprofit museums and those museums operated by local governments that have been in operation for at least three years may apply for Museum Enhancement grants.

Museum Enchantment grants are designed to help non-state-owned historical and cultural museums to research and care for historical objects; to research, design, and install exhibitions; to create education programs; and to market the museum for local and tourism audiences. In FY 2005, Museum Enhancement grant awards ranged between 3 and 8 percent of a museum's operating budget.

Completed applications for Capital and Non-Capital Historic Preservation grants are due on Dec. 3. Museum Enhancement grant applicants must first submit an "Intention to Apply" form, which is due Dec. 3. Completed applications for Museum Enhancement grants are due on March 11, 2005. The project selection process will begin in January 2005, and grant awards will be announced after July 1, 2005. The maximum grant award for Capital and Non-Capital Historic Preservation grants is $50,000.

A dollar-for-dollar match is required of local jurisdictions, individuals, and business entities for capital grants, and of all local jurisdictions for non-capital grants. Nonprofit organizations are not required to provide matching funds for any of the grant programs; however, those projects that do include funding from other sources will be more competitive in the grant selection process.

MHT funding priorities for FY 2006 include an emphasis on the application of the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation, National Register significance of the property, high-quality research and documentation of Maryland's heritage resources, excellence in museum practice, K-12 programming, and contributions to community economic well-being.

For information, applications, and copies of the open project selection criteria, persons may contact the appropriate MHT staff member: Claudette Sherman at 410-514-7633 or sherman@dhcd.state.md.us (capital projects); Nicole Diehlmann at 410-415-7625 or diehlmann@dhcd.state.md.us (non-capital projects); or Mary Alexander at 410-514-7622 or Alexander@dhcd.state.md.us (museum enhancement grants).

Applications may also be downloaded at www.marylandhistoricaltrust.net under "documents" or at www.dhcd.state.md.us.

Oaks Take Semi-Pro West Region; State Title Chase Set For Saturday

The Oakland Oaks downed the Westminster Falcons by a 3-1 tally in Carroll County Sunday to claim the Maryland Semi-Pro West Region title. Oakland's win was paced by a masterful 14-strikeout performance by Tobi Stoner and a powerhouse batting display by Ryan Hess.

The quarterfinal victory places Oakland in the semi-pro circuit's final weekend of play, as the Oaks square off against the Purdue Chicks, kings of the Eastern Shore League, in a 3 p.m. battle Saturday at Brunswick High School. The winner of that game will take on the winner of the other semifinal game, slated for noon that same day, in a 7 p.m. state Semi-Pro League championship contest. Oakland carries an overall 23-13 record into Saturday's play.

The visiting Oaks jumped out to an early lead Sunday. In the top of the first, Stoner singled, stole second, then Jeremy Fitzwater hit a ground ball to the left side of the infield. Westminster's third baseman overthrew first, and Stoner scampered all the way home from second to put Oakland up 1-0.

The contest then settled into a pitcher's duel between Stoner and Westminster hurler Alban, as neither team scored again until the fifth stanza.

Jeff Kuykendall singled to lead off the top of the fifth for Oakland, but two successive outs followed and it appeared he might end up stranded at first; however, Hess ripped a triple to right center, and Kuykendall rounded the horn and scored all the way from first base. Stoner followed with a run-scoring single that sent Hess home from third.

The Falcons' lone run came in the bottom half of the fifth inning.

Both pitchers worked the full nine innings, with Stoner giving up eight hits and one earned run, while Alban held the Oaks to six hits. The Westminster hurler whiffed six Oakland batters and gave up two earned runs. Each team committed one error.

Hess fueled Oakland's scoring tally by going 3-for-4 with an RBI triple, a double, and a single, and he also scored once. Stoner had two hits, drove home one run, and scored once. Kuykendall scored a run as well.

This weekend's final four appearance marks the first time the Oaks have made it into the semifinal round since 1999. This year's Pen Mar League champion squad features some fine depth, especially at the plate. James Altobello recorded a .408 average to come in fourth in the regular season league batting tally, behind circuit leader John Hummel of Salisbury, who batted .471, Tri-State's Brian Howell, who hit .435, and D.J. Schrekengast of Parkersburg, who tallied a .416 mark.

In addition to Altobello's team leading performance, Oakland had strong regular season showings from Hess, who batted .382, Bryan Lenhart at .356, Matt Miller at .346, and Alex Weinstein at .309. Hess cranked out eight doubles, good for second on the circuit, and 19 RBI, landing him in fourth place.

Oakland's pitching staff was led by Stoner, who recorded four wins against two losses during the regular campaign, and 45 strikeouts (fourth best in the league). Teammate Bryson Meyers netted an 0.68 earned run average, taking second in the league standings, while Stoner was third with a 1.03 ERA.

The Oaks are coached by Craig Bosley and his assistants, Jim Weinstein and Jeremy Fitzwater.

Eric Hallenbeck Named Garrett Lakers' New Baseball Coach

The Garrett College Athletic Department has named Eric Hallenbeck as the college's new head baseball coach/admissions recruiter for the Lakers. Hallenbeck comes to Garrett from Frostburg State University, where he was recently promoted to associate head coach.

He has assisted the Frostburg baseball program for the past eight years with duties that included pitching, hitting, and defense instruction, recruiting of student-athletes, and directing camps. Over his coaching career at FSU, he helped lead the Bobcats to a 205-102 record and three Allegheny Mountain Collegiate Conference Tournament Championships.

"Leaving a program where I've spent almost a decade was difficult; however, the tradition of Garrett baseball and closeness of the Garrett College community made it an easy choice," said Hallenbeck.

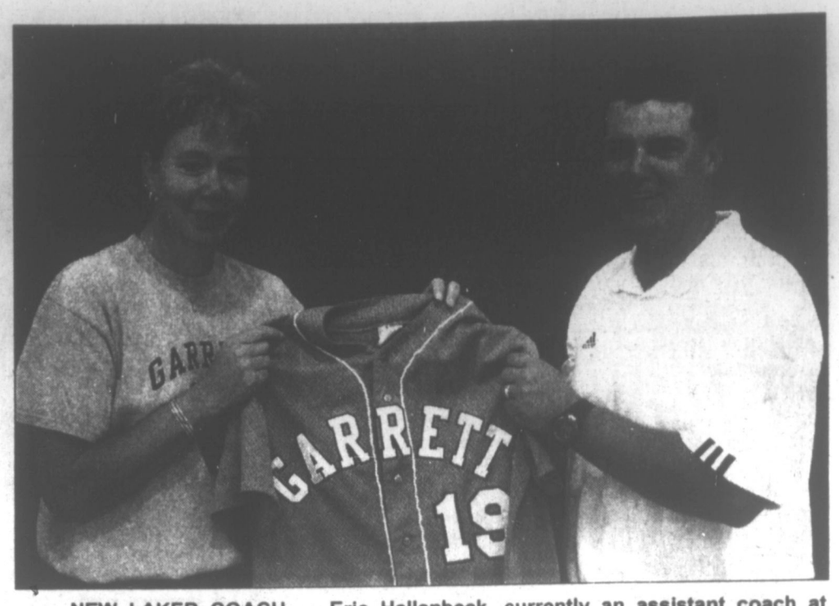
Hallenbeck's coaching career started in the summer of 1993 as an assistant for the Brunswick American Legion baseball team. The following summer, at the age of 22, he started a new American Legion program in Boonsboro, where he remained the head coach until 1997. During this time period he took on other coaching responsibilities, including the student assistant coach at Frostburg in 1995 and the assistant coach at Frederick CC in 1996.

Since 1992, Hallenbeck has been involved in numerous baseball camps, including the Cal Ripkin Baseball School, the Diamonds in the Rough Baseball Camp, and Northern Virginia Baseball Academy.

"We are very excited to have Eric join us," said Garrett athletic director Ann Wellham, "We feel certain that his coaching experience at Frostburg and Frederick CC has prepared him to become a successful Division I JUCO college baseball coach. His discipline and work ethic will help to ensure that Garrett College baseball will remain one of the top programs in the Maryland JUCO Conference and the NJCAA Region XX."

Hallenbeck takes over a Garrett program that went 20-20 last year and was the Region XX runner-up. He inherits nine returning sophomores and a large incoming freshman class.

"I want to thank Garrett College for giving me this opportunity. I am used to winning, and winning the right way. That's exactly what we are going to do here. Seth Hansen, Garrett's assistant baseball coach did a tremendous job recruiting this year, especially without having a head coach in place. With the players in our program, I expect to challenge for the Region XX championship again," Hallenbeck concluded.



NEW LAKER COACH — Eric Hallenbeck, currently an assistant coach at Frostburg State University, has been named the new head baseball coach and admissions recruiter for Garrett College. Hallenbeck has been involved in various areas of coaching since 1993, also serving as an assistant at Frederick Community College. He is pictured above with Ann Wellham, Garrett athletic director. See story for details.

WESTERN MD. AMATEUR TOURNEY FINALISTS NOTED — The Western Maryland Amateur Golf Tournament was played recently at the Oakland Golf Club, and the three-day event featured 114 duffers from a wide region, including Texas, Florida, and New York. The top competitors were bunched in a tight group after two days of play, with Waynesburg, Pa., resident John Kingora and Reisterstown's Bob Przybylski leading the pack at 144, and Keyser's Jason Hale following at 145. Kingora caught fire in Sunday's final round, turning the front nine in 37 strokes while using just 31 strokes over the back nine, carding a four under par for the last four holes to romp to his fourth straight tourney crown. His overall score of 212 was nine strokes ahead of his three nearest rivals — Przybylski, Oakland's Matt Skidmore, and Baltimore's Tim Elliott — who tied for second with 221s. The age 55-59 Silver Division winner was Masontown, W.Va., resident Ron Witt, while Cumberland's Gary Wiseman took the age 60-67 Gold Division, and Elk Garden's J.R. Shillingburg prevailed in the age 68-and-up Platinum Division. Pictured above, from the left, are Kingora, Skidmore, Elliott, and Przybylski.

Bobby Beckman, Jr.
Nov. 20, 1968 - Aug. 28, 2003

We do not need a special day to bring you to our minds.
The days we do not think of you are very hard to find.
Each morning when we awake we know that you are gone.
And no one knows the heartache as we try to carry on.
Our hearts still ache with sadness and secret tears still flow.
What it meant to lose you no one will ever know.
Our thoughts are always with you, your place no one can fill.
In life we loved you dearly; in death we love you still.

There will always be a heartache, and often a silent tear.
But always a precious memory of the days when you were here.
If tears would make a staircase, and heartaches make a lane,
We'd walk the path to heaven and bring you home again.
We hold you close within our hearts; and there you will remain,
To walk with us throughout our lives until we meet again.
Our family chain is broken now, and nothing seems the same,
But as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again.

Loved and sadly missed,
Erin, Kailee, Brittany, Mom, Dad,
Roy, Margie and family

Southern Duffers Aiming To Link Up With Another Region Crown

More depth and more experience are two ingredients that should spell continued success for the 2004 Southern High School golf team, which opened its season this week with victory in two multi-team matches. (See separate story.)

"We should be considered one of the favorites in the region to return to the state tournament," said coach Alan Skidmore, noting that three starters from last year's state finalist team are back this year. They include senior Matt Skidmore, who is a three-time MVP, three-time state finalist, and former Top Elite Junior Tour Player of the Year.

Also back are senior Josh Lear, a two-year starter, 2003 state finalist, and team Outstanding Underclassman; and sophomore Joe Albert, a 2003 state finalist and team Rookie of the Year.

"We will miss four-year starter and three-time state finalist Travis Friend," Skidmore said. "Travis was an outstanding high school golfer and is going to pursue a career in golf management by attending Campbell University in North Carolina this fall."

Other team members expected to step up are junior Ivan Stutzman and sophomores Ryan Martin and Seth Fike, who saw action during last year's successful season.

"These three will again see plenty of match time in rounding out our six-man match team, Skidmore said.

Coach Skidmore said that the SHS team has grown to 20 members thanks to the successful junior golf program at the Oakland Golf Club.

"PGA golf professional Patrick Warren has developed some fine young golfers who will vie for spots in the top six this year. They will eventually replace golfers lost to graduation, keeping the future of the SHS golf team very bright."

Assisting Skidmore this season are Dave Martin and Max Hill.

NHS Golf Team Places Third In Beall Triangular

The Northern High School golf team made its season debut Tuesday in a triangular match hosted by Beall High's squad. NHS finished third with a 218, behind Beall's winning 174 and Berkeley Springs's 186.

Low medalist honors for the day were shared by two golfers, the Mounties' David Gearing and the Indians' A.J. Blankenship, who both carded 39s. NHS's Michael Bergstrom shot a 42.

The other Beall scores were Sam Kennell with 40, Josh Plummer, 45, and Melissa Stevans, 50.

Ram Golfers Open Season With Five Wins

The golf team of Southern High School, rated preseason as one of the area's top squads, opened its season Monday by edging Keyser by one stroke and whipping Frankfort in a tri-meet hosted by Keyser.

The Rams competed again Tuesday in a quad meet and cruised to wins over host Moorefield, Petersburg, and East Hardy.

Southern recorded a 151 in Monday's meet, while Keyser finished with a 152 and Frankfort was a distant third with a 196.

Seniors Matt Skidmore and Josh Lear carded 33 and 36, respectively, to pace the Rams as low medalists, while sophomores Joe Albert and Seth Fike carded 40 and 42.

Keyser's Ranjit Shenoy recorded a 36, while Mike Cader led Frankfort with a 43.

Skidmore and Lear both shot below par to lead Southern to a victory over Petersburg, Moorefield, and East Hardy on Tuesday at Valley View Golf Club.

Skidmore shot a 32 and Lear a 33, as the Rams finished with a team low score of 146.

Ivan Stutzman and Seth Fike earned a 39 and a 42, respectively.

Moorefield was second with a 175, led by Jeremy Simon's 39. Petersburg placed third with a 200, led by Jon Webster's 40, and East Hardy was fourth with a 296. Steven White led East Hardy with a 67.

The 5-0 Rams will play Allegany today at the Cumberland Country Club courts, and will travel to Canaan Valley to take on Tucker County next Wednesday.

BREAKFAST WITH COACH — Three former members of an early-1960s Southern High School football team met recently at Loch Lynn Restaurant to have breakfast and reminisce about "the good ol' days" with their former coach, Leroy Bolding. The three SHS Highlanders (which was the school's team name before it became the Rams) were seniors together on the best team ever coached by Bolding, a 1965 squad that finished with a 6-2-1 record. Pictured from left are Stanley "Sonny" Martin, Jerry Fike, Coach Bolding, and Bradley "Doc" Upole. Martin was the halfback and outside linebacker on that squad. Fike was one of the fastest running backs to ever wear a Southern jersey. He played tailback and was a punt/kick return specialist with many touchdowns to his credit. Upole was a bruising fullback who opened many holes for Martin and Fike, and also excelled at the middle linebacker position. Bolding, who has been retired for several years, was a science and biology teacher at SHS during and following his coaching days.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

SATURDAY–UGH, SUNDAY–LOVELY

by Dan Muss

The forecasters were right again this past weekend; they said that Saturday would be cold and rainy with a chance of severe thunderstorms until late afternoon and then it would clear. So Saturday there weren't many sails out except for a few hardies that liked the nice 6-8 knot breeze. We older and wiser Masters Fleet sailors gathered on the deck and decided to stay warm and dry. Since there was a real threat of severe weather, the principle race officer (PRO), Ed Peters, decided to hold the two Saturday races back-to-back to get the sailors off the water early. (The two Saturday races are usually sailed with a lunch break in between.)

And clear it did. By 5 p.m. the sun was out, and the lake and the surrounding hills looked stunningly beautiful.

They said that Sunday would be nice, with wind 4 to 6 knots SW, and, again, they were right. It was as perfect a sailing day as we can expect, with enough wind to power us through the motorboat wakes, but not too much to have to fight to stay upright. The PRO, Dick Gregory, set an unusual course, with the start off Thousand Acres, the windward mark off Penn Cove, and the leeward mark just east of the Turkey Neck Yacht Club.

The wind was nominally SW, but it kept switching back and forth between W and S. When we got to the line it was square, but a few minutes later the wind shifted to the south, and the port tack, pin end of the line was favored. We started down the line on starboard and got a leeward overlap on Rissell. We asked him to go up (which would put him over the line early); he did not respond, the boats touched, and Rissell had to do a 720-degree penalty turn just as the starting horn went off. We led the fleet halfway to the next mark, but that old fox wasn't finished! Rissell took the lead as we sailed into a hole, and while we were second around the mark, Elster came up and passed us heading down-wind and held a one-boat-length lead with us to leeward of her on the outside until about 150 yards from the leeward mark.

At that point I quietly asked Fearless Crew Marilyn Filemyr to take off the spinnaker pole and take down the spinnaker. With the board down a little more we slipped behind Elster and then headed up to windward of her. But she slowed down as she took down her spinnaker, and we established an inside overlap. Elster had to give us room at the mark; we rounded just ahead of her and covered her to finish second.

LEMLEY GOLF TOURNAMENT TO BENEFIT LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS – The 7th annual Al Lemley Memorial Golf Tournament will be held Friday, Sept. 17, at the Oakland Golf Club. The proceeds from the tournament will benefit Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, and Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. "The GCMH Foundation has received nearly $20,000 from this tournament since it began in 1997," said Kathy Greaser, GCMH director of development. "This generosity helps ensure GCMH's vital position as one of the finest community hospitals in Maryland." Lance Rhodes, on the left, and Gary Brack, in the center, are shown above as they register the GCMH team for the tournament with Jeanne Lemley. The GCMH foursome consists of Brack, Doug DeLo, Jeff Hinebaugh, and Rhodes. For tournament registration information, persons may contact Patrick Warren at 301-334-3883.

the Deep Creek plant, as that figure is only an engineering estimate. Once in operation, the actual capacity may vary. The county, therefore, will only sell a maximum of 2,468 units.

Additionally, some units will be kept in reserve for public facilities, noted Commissioner Ernie Gregg.

A property owner who is granted a reservation will have five years from the date that the plant's additional capacity becomes available to connect to the system. If the connection is not made by that date, the owner will have to pay an additional fee for each unit until a connection is made.

Tonkovich stressed that the deadline is five years after the completion of the expansion project and not from the adoption of the reservation policy.

Additionally, a reservation does not entitle any individual or entity to connect to the system until or unless directed and designated to do so by Public Utilities.

The county also reserves the right to change, modify, amend, or refine the reservation process.

Allowing property owners to purchase the units before the plant expansion is actually completed will help reduce the loan amount that is needed for the project, Tonkovich noted.

The director said he thought the demand for units would be close to the 2,468 that have been allocated and anticipates that about 150 connections will be made per year.

On Sept. 1, Tonkovich will meet with Maryland Department of the Environment officials, who will sign off on the final plans for the Deep Creek plant project. Construction is expected to begin in the spring as soon as the weather permits.

from the Tri-Towns EMS and Valley Medical Service made the transports, while personnel from the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene. Although Larry Smith showed signs of possible injury, police said he refused medical treatment.

Smith was cited as bearing fault in the accident, but the exact charge was not reported by state police.

State Still Faces Teacher Shortages In Certain Areas

The Maryland State Board of Education this week declared teacher shortages in several key subject areas and in school systems located throughout the state.

The board's action spotlighted critical shortages of certified teachers in career and technology education, computer science, English for speakers of other languages, mathematics, chemistry, physics, and special education. It found teacher shortages cropping up in all 24 systems, and noted a lack of teachers who are male and teachers who are members of minority groups.

As classes are getting under way in many Maryland school systems this week, several hundred positions remained open – most in the hard-to-fill areas cited in the report.

"We continue to search for ways to draw more qualified people into the teaching profession and keep them there," said Nancy S. Grasmick, Maryland state superintendent of schools. "While the number of new teachers at our schools has dropped somewhat, major shortages remain."

Maryland's annual teacher staffing report, presented to the state board, found that 5,929 new teachers were hired in the state last year. That is down from 7,445 last year, and represents the fewest new hires in six years. Of that number, 3,084 were new teachers, having recently received a teacher training program. The remaining were experienced teachers.

Of the new teachers, just 1,420 were trained at Maryland colleges and universities. This requires that school systems do most of their recruiting outside the state.

The Maryland Teacher Staffing Report, which MSDE began publishing 20 years ago as the Maryland Teacher Supply and Demand Study, uses information from local schools systems and Maryland higher education institutions with teacher training programs. The information is based on the most current available data (fall 2003), and the projected needs of school systems for 2004-06.

Teacher hiring projections have changed from a few years ago, when Maryland was hiring more than 7,000 teachers per year. Hiring is expected to remain around 6,000 per year for the next few years.

The state board's action serves at the basis for the Sharon Christa McAuliffe Awards given by the Maryland State Scholarship Administration and for the federal government to identify students eligible for deferment or cancellation of student loans.

Appalachian Lab Slates Events On Fossil Fuel Issues

The Appalachian Laboratory of the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science, Frostburg, will hold two public events in the next two weeks.

"Both deal with the issue of sustainability and why society must move to less dependence on fossil fuels, such as oil, and toward a steady-state economy," said an Appalachian Laboratory spokesperson.

The documentary film The End of Suburbia: Oil Depletion and the Collapse of the American Dream will be presented on Thursday, Sept. 2, at 3:30 p.m. in Room 109.

Hosted by Barrie Zwicker, the 78-minute film was directed by Gregory Greene and produced by Barry Silverthorn.

In addition, Brian Czech will conduct a seminar, "The Steady State Revolution: Uniting Scientists and Citizens for a Sustainable Society," on Thursday, Sept. 9. The event will also be held at 3:30 p.m. in Room 109.

Czech is with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the author of Shoveling Fuel for a Runaway Train: Errant Economists, Shameful Spenders, and a Plan to Stop Them All.

For further information about the two events, persons may contact Ed Gates at 301-689-7173 or gates@al.umces.edu.

The Appalachian Laboratory is located at 301 Braddock Road, adjacent to the Frostburg State University campus.

A Collision Course On I-68 Leads To Tragedy, Response, Recovery

by David Foster

After a day of travel, with three hours still ahead before they would reach their home, Peter and Kathleen Vinton and their five children — Laura, Melissa, Andrew, Shannon, and Daniel, ranging in age from 12 to 5 — bounded through the front doors of the Cracker Barrel restaurant along Interstate 79 near Fairmont, W.Va. The lively Baltimore County family was on the return leg of a trip out to Nashville for a performance by Laura's Irish dance troupe, and the Vintons were looking forward to sitting down to a meal together at their favorite restaurant chain sharing how much fun they had been having on the trip, especially the previous day at the Six Flags amusement park near Louisville.

It was sometime around 8 p.m. on Wednesday, July 9, 2003.

While the large family was eating and laughing, a Greyhound bus with a troubled young man aboard rolled to a stop in Breezewood, Pa. Charles Jackson had left his hometown of Pittsburgh a couple of hours earlier, on a journey that no one, perhaps not even Jackson himself, knew where it would end.

Described as a good boy by his mother, Jackson had never been very good at school and had quit after the 10th grade, fallen in with the wrong crowd, and was getting into trouble and stealing cars. During a jail stay he had been diagnosed as being clinically depressed, and when he started taking medication his spirits lifted; however, the prescription's cost precluded long-term use, and on that July evening he had been off his medication for over a year. He had a young daughter by a former girlfriend, and her presence seemed to draw him out and give him someone to care for, but he did not get to see her as often as he liked.

As the bus doors opened the 28-year-old man stepped off the bus into a glaringly lit parking lot, his only baggage a bus ticket to Miami and his dark and lonely soul. He walked into a Sunoco station and purchased two large bottles of aspirin, but when he left the store he turned and circled around to the back of the building, where he attempted to break into a parked Ford Explorer but failed. He then turned his attention to a maroon 1984 Chevrolet Caprice, which he was able to start without the use of keys. Jackson, who never possessed a driver's license, drove off into the night sometime around 8:30 p.m. — alone except for his thoughts.

Just over an hour later, as the Vintons were buckling their seat belts and hitting the road out of Fairmont, grateful that their next stop would be their own beds, Mike Kerns was kissing his wife goodbye at Ruby Memorial Hospital's Sleep Clinic. Kerns, a 15-year veteran of the Cumberland City Fire Department where he serves as a paramedic with a lieutenant's rank, began the 75-mile drive home with his son and daughter with him in the car. A short distance from Morgantown, Kerns pulled off at Cooper's Rock to let his 16-year-old son get behind the wheel. As the boy was still driving on a learner's permit, he drove at a pace averaging five to ten miles below the speed limit from there on into Maryland.

While the Kernses were stopped at Cooper's Rock, it is quite possible that the Vinton family passed them by, heading east in their silver GMC Chevrolet Suburban. It was likely now a little after 10 p.m., and Kathleen and Peter Vinton remarked to each other how light traffic was on the road. Among the five children, 12-year-old Laura was reading a book, and 10-year old Andrew was watching a video of Spy Kids 2.

Within a matter of minutes, a number of lives would change dramatically.

Shortly before 10:30 p.m., Charles Jackson was approaching Friendsville from the east in the stolen Caprice. Around Pigs Ear Road, he passed by a Maryland State Police trooper, Tfc. Steve LeMay, who was working a traffic stop on the other side of the highway in the eastbound lanes. Somewhere in the area of the Youghiogheny Overlook visitors' center, Jackson crossed over the median and continued hurtling down the highway in the eastbound lanes — headlong into oncoming traffic.

Within seconds, Ontario resident John Rouse, also been traveling westbound, heard a chilling transmission over his citizen's band radio of a trucker warning anyone who could hear him that a car was running full speed going the wrong way approaching Friendsville.

"Past Exit 4 I saw tail lights from the wrong way," Rouse later told police. "I accelerated and caught up with a red Caprice with only its parking lights on; I waved, flashed my lights, honked my horn several times...I saw the driver turn his head and look at my vehicle...the driver then turned on his headlights and sped off. My speed at this time was about 65 mph, I estimated his speed to be around 80 mph...."

Around the same time Rouse heard the warning on the CB radio, Eric Klein of Newton, N.C., was on the same stretch of road heading west for Bridgeport, W.Va., where he was staying in a motel for a temporary work assignment.

At the 7 mile marker, "I saw a red Chevy driving west on east I-68, and called 9-1-1," Klein recalled later. "I saw the car going the wrong way, swerving all over the highway. The car struck the guard rail on both sides of the roadway and I thought he was stuck...he appeared to be on something or drunk, he drove wildly and could not control his car, after he hit the guard rail he blew out his two left tires...[but] he quickly got going again and dodged oncoming traffic several times. I followed him (on the other side of the road) and clocked him at 55 to 60 mph...."

Meanwhile, Martinsburg W.Va., resident Sean Lough, an employee of the Air National Guard Base there, was heading toward his home, when he came upon a sight he couldn't fathom at first.

"I was traveling eastbound on I-68 about 1½ miles outside of Friendsville [when] I saw oncoming headlights about ½ mile in the distance," Lough told police. "At first nothing seemed out of place, but almost before I could get through the thought process that something was off about the proximity of the headlights, the vehicle was upon me.

"In a span of about three to four seconds I judged that he was in the same lane as I was [and] headed straight at me, fast. In the ans of Truth. Recently a Bush administration advisor resigned from his position after appearing in an advertisement for the above mentioned group. Of course, the Bush administration claims it was unaware that Air Force Col. Ken Cordier has appeared in the ad, but I highly doubt they were so ignorant (CNN News).

TWO TONS OF MANGLED STEEL AND BROKEN GLASS lay in the eastbound lanes of Interstate 68 just east of Friendsville, where Peter Vinton had been pinned beneath in the wake of a head-on collision the night of July 9, 2003. Peter and Kathleen Vinton and their five children were on their way home from a vacation trip when they were struck head-on by a stolen car operated by a troubled Pittsburgh man who had taken aim at two other eastbound vehicles before hitting the Vintons' SUV. The events leading up to the tragedy are described in the story on this page, while the rapid and expert lifesaving responses of passerby and trained volunteer medics and personnel will be detailed next week, along with the story of the Vinton family and how they are making the most of their "second chance."

As a so-called 527 group, Swift Boat Veterans for Truth is barred from coordinating efforts with an election campaign. (CNN News) Although oddly enough, it would appear as they bash John Kerry's Vietnam war record, that is precisely what they are doing for the Bush administration. The 527 groups are named for the federal provision that makes such organizations tax exempt and allows them to accept unlimited donations (CNN News). That means that this organization could have received any number of dollars in funding from anyone, including a presidential campaign.

Before his departure, Cordier – who spent six years as a prisoner of war in North Vietnam – was a member of the Bush-Cheney campaign's veterans' steering committee, campaign spokesman Steve Schmidt said in a written statement issued Saturday night (CNN News). I find it more than odd that this man worked directly under the Bush campaign and now is one of the veterans bashing John Kerry.

Although, two old comrades of John Kerry's are coming to bat for him in wake of all of the lies. Wayne Langhofer, who was present with John Kerry when he won the Silver Star, had this to say, "I was with Kerry when he won his Silver Star, and as far as I'm concerned, he did right" (CNN News).

Really, in my opinion Unfit for Command should not be the tile of this book; rather, Unfit to Read. With all the lies that are no doubt floating on the pages of that book, I would rather trust the very news sources that have offered it such scarce coverage. What a lot of Americans don't realize, and what popular news media does little to remind them of, is that John Kerry is also a published author with the book Our Plan for America, a book written by him and John Edwards detailing the way they will lift this country out of the ashes of the Bush administration. I feel the author of Unfit for Command should have saved that title for a book about George W. Bush. Maybe even popular media is so fed up with the Bush administration that even they don't want to cover something that may grant George W. Bush another four years as United States president – another four years of being a lonely, disliked country that is responsible for numerous tragedies, including the much hated Iraq war.

To the Editor:

Your editorial of August 19 leveled the charge that the "major media of this nation" is "grossly unfair and biased" and "pro-Kerry." You used three examples to illustrate your point; none of them support your allegation.

You mentioned a Washington Post editorial that was about the danger of protest zones, and you wrote: "It's fascinating that none of these thoughts were shared when the same 'free speech zones' were utilized at last month's Democratic National Convention in Boston." I wanted to read the editorial in question, so I looked it up online. The first sentence of the Post editorial is: "Protesters at the Democratic presidential convention in Boston were kept in 'free speech zones' – cages, really – that were so constrained and remote from delegates that most protesters avoided them altogether." The piece mentions that things will be "a little looser" at the Republican convention due to a court ruling and goes on to discuss a proposed "large antiwar demonstration in Central Park" that had "landed in court yesterday." It cites the need for a balance between protesters' rights and legitimate fears about terrorism and suggests the responsibility for finding that balance lies with city officials.

I understand that your complaint is about the timing of the editorial's publication. I don't know why (or even IF, come to think of it) the Washington Post didn't run an editorial like this a month ago. I don't know why or if they didn't run one when the Republicans introduced free speech zones at their convention in 2000 or when the Democrats followed suit later that year. Neither do you – at least on the question of "why." It is logical to assume the court proceeding on the Central Park demonstration was a factor in the decision to run such an editorial now (more than a week – in a daily paper – before the Republican convention begins). It is insulting and opprobrious to suggest a pro-Kerry bias is at work.

You also use one of the favorite methods of the purveyors of the liberal media myth: compare two events that seem similar on the surface, but in fact have little in common. The expectation is developed that these two "stories" should have received a comparable amount of news coverage. When one looks more closely at certain important specifics of the stories, however, it becomes clear that political bias had nothing to do with how much attention each enjoyed. In the case you cited, the only media bias at play in all the Moore-created hype over his award-winning film was commercial television's understandable penchant for high ratings.

You probably know by now that you should have been just a little more patient with the coverage of Kerry's Vietnam service. As I write this, the controversy is getting intense attention. As with the interest in President Bush's National Guard service, you can be sure the major media will draw this one out as long as they can. Or will they? They weren't interested during the 2000 election campaign when the allegation that Bush didn't fulfill his obligation to the Guard surfaced. Even after all the attention earlier this year, there are still mysterious gaps in the president's service record, but the major media has put this story to rest. Deservedly so? Perhaps, but one could find it "odd" that you aren't bemoaning any perceived bias there.

Why don't you leave the distortions to clowns like Michael Moore? And next time you want to play ombudsman to big media, check your partisanship at the door.

Sincerely,
Emily Morgan

To the Editor:

I hardly know where to begin in answering your last editorial except maybe to ask you, "How was your vacation to Yemen?" How can you possibly say there was only "20 seconds of coverage" on the release of the book Unfit for Command? John O'Neill, one of the authors of the book, has been on every major network for at least two weeks, actually debuting on CNN's Wolf Blitzer Reports on April 20! His book promo tour, combined with the intense coverage of the recent Swift Boat ads, has made the book's premise a major news story for weeks!

The only explanation I can come up with is you just do not watch TV. Not even Fox. You must be one of those intellectuals who are opposed to watching TV. I am not trying to be sarcastic; I am just trying to figure out how your editorial could be so misinformed.

I will agree that Unfit for Command co-author Jerome Corsi hasn't garnered much media coverage. Here's why: He has been caught posting statements on a conservative web site that he has had to apologize for. He referred to the UN as a "communist, anti-American terror-ridden propaganda pulpit." On Catholicism, "Boy buggering in both Islam and Catholicism is okay with the Pope as long as it isn't reported by the liberal press," Corsi on John Kerry's faith, "After he married TerRAHsa, didn't John Kerry begin practicing Judaism? He also has paternal grandparents that were Jewish. What religion is John Kerry?" John Kerry and his wife, Teresa, are Catholic. On Islam, "A worthless, dangerous Satanic religion." And can you believe he called America's sweetheart Katie Couric "Little Katie Communist." This guy sounds like what I would call a "hatemonger." "How odd" that we haven't seen much of Jerome Corsi!

And what about John O'Neill? John O'Neill is a successful lawyer from, guess where, Houston, Texas! He met Bob Perry and Harlan Crow through social and business contacts in Texas. Bob Perry has given the Swift Boat Veterans $200,000, he is also the top donor to the Republicans in Texas, according to Texans for Public Justice. He donated $46,000 to Bush's campaign for governor in 1994 and 1998. And surprise, surprise, Karl Rove said through a spokeswoman that he and Perry were longtime friends, but have not spoken in at least a year. Harlan Crow is also a financial backer of the Swift Boat Veterans and is listed as a trustee of the George H.W. Bush Library Foundation. The connections and people go on and on, and are too many to cite in this letter. If you are wondering where this came from, it was in an article by Kate Zernike and Jim Rutenburg, in the New York Times, what I suppose you would call a "little liberal paper" up north in New York!

Retired General Tommy Franks, Bush's former top general in Afghanistan and Iraq, said that the criticism of John Kerry's war record is political hyperbole and Kerry is "absolutely" qualified to be commander in chief. And much to my surprise on ABC's "This Week," he said he had not decided whether to endorse President Bush for re-election. General Franks no less. So Unfit for Command is probably not on his nightstand.

As far as your premise that the press is "liberal," don't you realize that went out of fashion along with LBJ? Haven't you heard of David Brooks, William F. Buckley, Robert Novak, Peggy Noonan, Bill O'Reilly, Sean Hannity, Rush Limbaugh, Ann Coulter, John Stossel, The Washington Times, The Wall Street Journal, The National Review, The New York Post, CNBC, and Rupert Murdoch's Fox News? And this is just off the top of my head. Might I suggest something for your night stand? The September issue of Harper's magazine and Eric Alterman's book, What Liberal Media?

To the Editor:

Maryland State Police one big happy family! That's what they tell you when you become a member of the highly esteemed police circle. Once you are either employed by MSP, married into, or the son or daughter of an MSP employee, you become part of this wonderful family. You are because you understand what it's like to have a true family member sacrifice, swear loyalty, and commit to the Maryland State Police. I know this for a fact because I married into the "family."

My husband, a TFC (trooper first class), has been a member of this "so-called" family for 15 years. He has dedicated his life to serving the great people of Maryland, risking his life more times than I can count. He has volunteered for risky assignments, and he has missed family functions and some of his children's sporting and school events to protect others. Granted, this was his choice. I can honestly say that those of us who know my husband know he's always wanted to be a trooper and do this job to the best of his ability.

Thos of us in the MSP circle know that our loved ones who do serve deal with a lot of "flack," to put it nicely, about what they do for a living. It's usually a very thankless job. But, most of the time the comments I have heard about my husband have been that he is decent and fair, not with the typical "cop attitude," and at the same time gets his job done.

My husband currently works (or so we will soon see) in the Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Section (CVES) stationed in Garrett County. Finally. He's able to work and live in the area we love – an area in which we both grew up and are now raising our family. A sergeant at the Finzel scale house has decided for some unknown reason to fabricate and exaggerate false allegations against my husband. As a result, he's being transferred to the New Market scale house in Frederick County. This is a 2½-hour commute from our home.

TACO BELL DONATES TO FIRE DEPTS. – Oakland's Taco Bell recently presented the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department with a check for $1,865.09. The money was raised in the restaurant's "Support Your Local Fire Department" campaign, held on Mondays from March until June. Taco Bell advertised the effort on local radio stations WWHC, WKHJ, and WMSG, with fire company members inviting the public to "come dine with them" and raise money for the Oakland and Gorman fire companies. The restaurant donated 20% of the receipt totals on these evenings, and if the nightly total reached $60, an extra $50 was donated. Fred Callis, president of the OVFD, took a fire truck to the restaurant on several Monday evenings throughout the campaign. "This was a wonderful idea, giving us a great oppcrtunity and exposure," Callis said. "We are very appreciative of Bill Hancock and Taco Bell for thinking of us." Hancock said he was inspired to initiate the effort after learning about several fire companies helping a local family after their trailer was destroyed by fire. He is pictured at right as he presents the check to Callis. The Gorman VFD was given $265.72. Currently Taco Bell is supporting the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad by hosting "Taco Bell Tuesdays." A portion of the proceeds earned from 5 until 8 p.m. each Tuesday will be donated to the rescue squad to help with the new building and other supplies.

See, it is not only the citizens who have problems with the police. But, when there's interdepartmental turmoil – well, you rarely hear about it. I think it's about time that the people of Maryland know that the troopers of this agency really don't have anyone to back them up either! Apparently, the phrase innocent until proven guilty does not apply internally. Superiors will go on the word of just one person, and it's a real shame that a person in this department can get away with exaggerating facts and not having to abide by the rules themselves. Where I come from, superiors and supervisors are to set the examples that they want their employees to follow. Unfortunately, unless your ex-spouse is a major, captain, or higher in rank, you really are not going to get anywhere.

Just in case you were wondering, my husband has correct documentation regarding the allegations against him. He is going through the appropriate channels (which can take months), but basically has run into a brick wall. After showing the corrected paperwork and pleading his case he is basically being told that a reverse of this transfer would be nearly impossible. MSP's medical doctor would have to put in a recommendation.

This sergeant arranged a direct order that my husband had to obey that goes against MSP's policy manual. Situations that were to remain confidential have been openly discussed. She has made comments to my husband and others that clearly demonstrate her lack of concern for her subordinates. Not only my husband, but other employees at this scale house have been treated unjustly by this woman, and the sad thing is she gets away with it. Everyone fears retaliation. It has been mentioned that this women definitely has a lot of pull/influence down state.

The saddest thing of all is that I, too, fear the retaliation this letter may cause my husband and others who work with him, but more so, I hope that the attention this letter gets – if any – will help my family and the families of others. This situation needs to be addressed. I was once proud to be a part of the MSP family; after all, they provided for my family – until one sergeant stabbed us in the back because one person made it personal instead of professional. This is tearing my "whole" family apart.

Colonel, if you read this letter are you willing to help? What about you Governor Ehrlich; what can you do?

HABITAT PLANS MORTGAGE BURNING – There will be a mortgage burning for the Teter family on Sept. 8 at 6 p.m. at their home on Table Rock Road. In 1983, Garrett County Habitat for Humanity chose the Teter family over 30 other applicants to be the first family in the county to get a home through the program. All Habitat volunteers and home partners are invited to join in this celebration. Pictured above are Catherine Teter, on the left, and Ida Maust of GCHFH. During the week of Sept. 14-20, Habitat for Humanity International will observe the 10th anniversary of Building on Faith, an annual celebration of church partnerships where affiliates and churches around the world are urged to organize bold building projects and praise-filled worship services. Churches may contact the Habitat office for free church bulletin inserts. Habitat is currently building homes 47 and 48 on Rt. 135 in Deer Park. Those interested are encouraged to stop and see the progress. Organizations, companies, individuals, or churches interested in helping Habitat may contact Doug Riley at 301-533-0600 or driley@garrettcac.org.

To the Editor,

I have the privilege of being a landowner in the Deep Creek Lake watershed, although family and business obligations do not permit me to live here full time. My husband and I have enjoyed Garrett County for many years and take our responsibiilities as landowners and taxpayers very seriously.

The most significant review of the impacts of development in the Deep Creek Lake watershed in the last 20 years is happening right now and could very well decide the fate of this precious resource for the rest of our lifetimes. The current planning and zoning "regulations" (and I put this in quotes, given the number of variances routinely approved) were established more than 20 years ago. They are outdated and based on scant information compared to what is available now for communities to conduct comprehensive and judicious planning.

The county commissioners, led by John Nelson, have engaged a highly competent firm, ERM, to provide all of us with recommendations about the carrying capacity of the watershed – based on a comprehensive review and sound planning criteria that communities all over the country have relied on for professional assistance. What can the lake handle? How much traffic and home building can this area sustain? What kind of community do all of us want? What kind of economic development is possible for the watershed without destroying the very qualities that make this area so attractive?

Based on the first public hearing held in March, the commissioners listened to requests from participants to be more involved. As a result, another public hearing (not on the original schedule) was held several weeks ago. While it was unfortunate that only 50 citizens were there, it is not surprising that on a summer day in August the turnout would be low. However, Mr. Nelson deserves credit for listening, and delivering. While it would have been useful to allow those attending to speak to give Mr. Nelson and ERM more feedback, we did hear a detailed presentation from ERM and had the opportunity to fill out the Program Summary form.

From what I recall from the first public hearing, virtually every comment has been addressed in ERM's Issues and Options Summary dated July 2004. What's more, every major issue discussed in March appears on 'the Program Summary form seeking more citizen input.

This is a personal plea to everyone who lives, works, and recreates in the Deep Creek Watershed to fill out the Program Summary form (available at www.garrettcounty.org/pandz or at the County Commission office), and mail it back to John Nelson. I particularly want to encourage those people who believe that it's too late, or that their voices won't be heard. Not engaging in the process is a sure fire way not to be heard. The process, as I have witnessed it, has already shown that if you participate, you will be heard.

There are some who have been quoted in this newspaper saying they want to see Deep Creek become the "Lake Tahoe of the

by Jo Donaldson
Garrett County Chamber of Commerce

Going underwater and shooting up through Deep Creek Lake is just one of the things award-winning photographer Tim Tadder did recently to get that special photograph.

"He sees things through that lens that I can't see," said Deb Clatterbuck, director of tourism and marketing with the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. "He hangs from trees, leans almost out of the boat, and does whatever is necessary to get the shot he wants."

During his recent visit to Garrett County, Tadder presented a large framed photograph of boating on Deep Creek Lake to Justin Hershman, manager of Bill's Outdoor Center. Taken in 2000-2001, the photo of two boats and their wake was used on the 2003 Vacation Guide cover and on the past two Travel by Boat brochures published by the chamber.

Hershman plans to hang it in Bill's Outdoor Center. Another copy of the photo was given to Justin's grandfather, Bill Sisler, who was driving the second boat in the shot.

Tadder was photographing throughout Maryland for the state advertising campaign when he first came to Garrett County. Hershman and his grandfather were riding on boats while Tadder was looking for scenic vistas.

"I was not happy with the angle I was shooting from," he said. As they passed under the bridge, Tadder thought about shooting from there. "I got up on the bridge and asked them to loop around and drive under the bridge."

"I love that picture," said Clatterbuck, who led Tadder around different parts of Garrett County. He took photos in the different towns, parks, historic buildings, restaurants, and at the Garrett County Fair. "The last time he was here it was near winter," she said. "This time we wanted him to capture Garrett County in the summer."

The photographs will be used in future Vacation Guides and for other Chamber of Commerce publications and advertisements.

Growing up in Baltimore, Tadder helped his father, an award-winning photojournalist turned commercial photographer. After teaching and traveling through Australia, he earned his master's degree in photojournalism from Ohio University.

He enjoys sports photography as well as travel. Besides photographing some of the Olympic athletes, including Michael Phelps, he has photographed the Super Bowl and numerous adventure sports activities.

Some photos are staged, said Tadder, who prefers things actually happening. If staged, he makes sure people are wearing the right safety equipment and that background, etc., are accurate.

"I abide by my journalism training," he said. His photographs appear in magazines like National Geographic, Smithsonian and Associated Press publications.

Tadder has won numerous contests, including Time magazine Picture of the Week. He took six first place awards at the San Diego Fair, and won People's Choice and the Margaret Fry awards. Fry started the contest, which featured more than 4,000 photos by amateur and professional photographers.

"I have a good time taking pictures," he said. "People in Garrett County have been so nice and super helpful."

same three to four second span I changed lanes quickly to the passing lane on my left, which the oncoming driver matched almost as quickly, and then [I] swerved hard left into the center median strip of I-68. The vehicle also matched my swerve seeming to aim at me as I left the roadway. I thought he was going to hit me he was so close...he hit the guardrail and bounced back onto the roadway, missing my vehicle by mere inches," recalled Lough. "I whipped my wheel forcefully to the right as I hit the grass of the median and slid sideways for a moment before ending up a few degrees shy of a 180-degree turnaround...."

Following behind Lough's white sedan was a vehicle being driven by Friendsville resident Wilma Keefer. Mrs. Keefer and her husband were on their way home from church. Suddenly Mrs. Keefer noticed headlights up ahead coming straight at their two vehicles.

"I saw headlights facing the car in front of me located under Blooming Rose Bridge on I-68 [driving] towards us westbound on the wrong side of the Interstate, remembered Keefer. "He tried to hit the white car, which moved to the median [and] slid in a complete turnaround toward me. Then he, tried to hit me. I moved over on the side of the road against the guard rails to avoid him hitting me...this vehicle missed me by a couple of inches...he had no tire as it sounded so loud. [He] drove very fast past me...."

As these events were unfolding, Tfc. LeMay, who had heard a radio report of a vehicle heading the wrong way on the Interstate, had cleared his traffic stop and was en route from the east with lights and sirens running, trying to catch the wrong-way driver before someone got hurt.

The Kernses were on the other side of Friendsville, approaching from the west, a couple of vehicles behind the Vinton family. "We started down a long straightaway approaching the bridge," Mike Kerns said. "I saw a tractor trailer swerve and its tail lights disappear. In the moment it took me to wonder about that, we saw a Suburban on its side right in the road in front of us...."

The Suburban belonged to the Vintons, who had been next in line of Jackson's aim. "All I saw was headlights swerving all over the road, and immediately felt panic rising," Kathleen Vinton said this week. "It happened so fast, six seconds maybe, I screamed 'Pete, look out!' Peter served to the right, and the car matched the move, then Pete swerved to the left, and the car matched that, and then there was a big boom..."

East." Beyond not having quite the kind of mountains and land mass that requires, we all have to ask ourselves the question, "Is that what we want?" And more importantly, do we want a few deciding for the many?

I understand how difficult it is to remain optimistic given what we have seen happen in this watershed. A handful of developers have taken it upon themselves to significantly alter the landscape and scenic views of Deep Creek Lake for their own personal gain. The egregious building on the ridge line cannot be undone. However, ERM has already signaled that there is inadequate information and understanding about the implications of the growth rate in the watershed. Based on the views of your fellow residents, the vast majority agrees that something has to be done to protect this resource from over-building. This is the time to get involved.

Deep Creek Lake is a recreational area, and I realize that building six figure and million dollar rental homes will not end any time soon, despite the apparent glut of rental proprieties. I also know that the building industry plays a significant role in the county's economy. I also know that most communities serious about their quality of life impose temporary moratoriums or some kind of limits on building until the planning process is completed. As farmers have kept sections of their fields fallow to protect top soil, as fishermen have reduced catch quotas to protect dwindling resources, as loggers who want to stay in business have embraced selective cutting, so too must developers take stock and slow down until we all have sufficient data to make reasonable and informed decisions about the future of the watershed. I realize this is a contention suggestion, and likely viewed as an easy one for me to make given that my family doesn't rely on the building industry for our livelihood. I believe however, that given the current circumstances, a parallel discussion should take place regarding the issuance of permits, so the integrity of the process Mr. Nelson and others are leading is not compromised. We owe it to ourselves and the next generation to proceed slowly and with professional planning assistance.

Please. Get involved. Again, the Program Summary form is available at www.garrettcounty.org/pandz or at the Commissioners' office. The deadline for your input is August 30, 2004. Thank you.

September '04

THE SUN—The sun moves from the star group Leo into Virgo on Sept. 16, where it spends the next six weeks. The amount of daily sunlight decreases in September. The month opens with approximately 13 hours of sunlight, and closes with about 11 hours and 50 minutes of sunlight. In early September the sun rises about 6:50 a.m., and sets around 7:45 p.m. In late September sunrises are about 7:10 a.m., while sunsets are about 7:05 p.m. The sun's midday height during September drops from 58 to 47 degrees. The length of twilight is about an hour during the month, meaning that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and the fainter stars reappear an hour after sunset. In mid-September, we have about 9.7 hours each night for star gazing. September 22 is the first day of fall, with the sun's most direct rays moving south across the equator. Over most of the world, the sun rises due east and sets due west. On Sept. 25, there is an even split between day and night, each lasting 12 hours.

THE MOON—As September opens, the moon is a little past full, shining in the late evening sky. After Sept. 6 the moon shifts into the morning sky, then most easily viewed at dawn. On the morning of Sept. 10 the crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus in the eastern dawn. On Sept. 13-15 the moon hides in the sun's glare. On Sept. 17 the moon reappears as a narrow crescent low in the western dusk. By the 21st the moon has grown to half full (resembling a letter "D"), the best moon shape to view the craters with binoculars. The moon grows to full on the evening of Sept. 27, then shining among the stars of Pisces. This is the Harvest Moon, the full moon that lingers longest in the evening sky. There will bright evening moonlight through the end of the month.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM—Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus is spectacular in the eastern dawn in September. At the start of September, Venus is just below the bright planet Saturn. As the month progresses, Venus moves away from Saturn and toward the bright star that marks Leo's heart. The innermost planet Mercury can be seen low in the eastern dawn in early September, but the planets Jupiter and Mars appear too close to the sun to be seen during the month.

THE STARS—In the evening hours, the Big Dipper floats over the horizon in the north-northeast. Follow its handle leftward to the bright golden star Arcturus. Nearly overhead as darkness falls is the bright star Vega, a member of the Summer Triangle. Low in the northeast is the golden star Capella, the first bright winter evening star to appear.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES IN SEPTEMBER–The Frostburg State Planetarium will reopen on Sunday, Sept. 5, with the program "Seven Wonders of the Universe." Our free 50-minute Sunday programs begin at 4 and 7 p.m. with a brief live tour of the current evening sky. Persons may call 301-687-4270 for further information and directions on how to get to the planetarium.

The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 17, at the LaVale Public Library. All sky gazers are welcome.

Dr. Doyle Writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest starts, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure or sky charts, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-387-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "SkyWatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights, that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Lightning Safety

Q. If I'm out in the open and a lightning storm suddenly comes up, what's the best way that I can be safe?

Remember that lightning is essentially just a spark jumping ... although a very big spark. In the wintertime when it's very dry inside your home, you can get a spark to jump from a pointy object (like the tip of your finger) to some other surface. The way to avoid having sparks jump is to avoid pointy objects.

However, lightning usually follows a very irregular pathway, unlike the sparks that jump from your finger. That means it can strike in unexpected places. In the earth's atmosphere, a lot of electrical charge builds up on the large thunderclouds, and all that electricity is just waiting for a chance to travel to the earth and be neutralized. The air along pathways down from the cloud (and up from the earth) begins to ionize, building a "pointy object" made out of air. Ionized air conducts electricity much better. The best-conducting (lowest-resistance) pathway through the sky is often an irregular path, depending on minor things like dust in the air, etc. That's why lightning bolts follow strange paths, and in cartoons a lightning bolt is drawn as a zig-zag line.

Those pathways of ionized air are nearly impossible to predict, and what's more there are lots of them, starting out from many different points on earth and different points on the cloud. When an pathway of ionization up from the earth connects with an ionization path down from the clouds, the circuit is complete, a whole lot of current flows, and we call that a lightning strike.

Which pair of the many paths will connect first is anybody's guess – which means that lightning strikes the earth in a very random way.

The lightning rod, invented by Ben Franklin, is a pointy object with a low-resistance path that is deliberately put in one place in order to invite lightning to hit it, instead of hitting a house. The metal lightning rod conducts current directly into the ground with nearly zero resistance, and thus protects the house.

A tall tree sticking high above a forest is somewhat like a lightning rod, a lower resistance path, which is why many forest fires are started by lightning strikes. That's why it's not smart to stand under a tree in a lightning storm. You're better off getting wet, but away from an area where lightning is more likely to strike.

The entire idea of safety around lightning is to make sure that you're not part of that lowest-resistance path. If you see lightning start in the distance, take cover inside a building or a car. Actually, being inside a car is quite safe, because the metal of the car provides a conducting path for electricity, and inside is free from electric current. Just don't touch anything metal.

However, the standard phrase "take cover" doesn't do much good when you're suddenly caught out in the open, such as in the middle of the lake. So let's ask what else you might do.

The first thing to do is to make sure you're not associated with any pointy objects. Also, you don't want to lie flat on the ground, because that might make you part of the conducting path as the current travels along the ground from a nearby strike. If you can curl up into a ball, but hardly touch the ground, you're presenting a pretty small target.

If you're caught out in the lake in a boat, getting to shore quickly is your best bet. Driving the boat over reasonably near the shore (where there are some tall trees) improves your margin of safety. A tree creates a cone of protection that shields objects fairly near it from lightning.

But if there's not enough time (say you're in a canoe or kayak), try to get down low, so as to become the smallest possible target. In an open boat, get up on the cushions (insulators) with your hands and feet not contacting any water. In a boat with some kind of a roof (pontoon boat, etc.), preferably get underneath (but not touching) anything metal.

Being out on the bounding main during a lightning storm is certainly dangerous, and none of these strategies is foolproof. But you can improve your odds by minimizing your size.

161 Participants Attend First Ever Rounds Reunion

The descendants of Nathaniel Rounds and Martha Olive Wilt recently held their first family reunion at the Savage River Pavilion in Big Run State Park near Grantsville.

With at least 161 family members and friends in attendance, the reunion was deemed a success and will be held again next year.

Carl Dorsey and Dick Rounds welcomed family and friends. Rosella Rounds Yoder opened with a prayer, and Loretta Hummel coordinated the music, with several family members and friends participating. Rusty Rounds and Harry Minnick provided sound equipment.

Renee Warnick Mason presented a large genealogy display and collected family tree information. Several relatives also exhibited family tree photo gallery presentations and showed works displaying a variety of artistic, musical, and literary talents.

Diana Deal coordinated the gift selection to recognize special participants, including youngest, largest family present, married most recently and traveled the farthest. The following family members and guests received gifts: Jamison Warnick, Nettie Broadwater, Rusty and Shelly Rounds, Bill and Betty Reams, Rick and Derrick Rounds, Rosella Yoder, Carl Dorsey, Butch Rounds, Robert Preston, and Mable Blamble.

Julie Warnick Mock organized games for children of all ages to enjoy throughout the day. The children earned points playing games and chose rewards at a prize booth.

Fundraisers during the reunion included raffle tickets, soda sales, a donation jar, and three cakewalks.

Members of the reunion committee are Hummel, Deal, Mock, and Mason. The next reunion will be held July 9, 2005, at the same location.

For reunion or family information, persons may contact Mason at rmason-apcinc@hotmail.com.

Short tracks produce numerous winners

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Atlanta

As the Craftsman Truck Series heads to the half-mile Bristol Motor Speedway for Wednesday's O'Reilly 200, the circuit's string of consecutive different short-track winners stands at 10.

Veteran driver Dennis Setzer, who became part of the streak with his victory at South Boston, Va., last October, said having different winners is easy to explain.

"I think the reason for parity on the short tracks is there are so many (good) short-track teams," he said. "Many of the drivers come from different short-track backgrounds as do many of the teams."

SETZER

And, as Martinsville winner Jon Wood explains, short tracks allow drivers from underfunded teams to compete on a more equitable basis.

"On a short track, you can't out-dollar everyone else, and the true talent shows," he said.

GFS MARKETPLACE 400 REVIEW

Biffle gets it done

Roush driver beats teammate Martin for first win in '04

Cox News Service

Greg Biffle led 73 of 200 laps to win Sunday's GFS Marketplace 400 at Michigan International Speedway.

Biffle pulled away from Mark Martin's Taurus in the closing laps, beating his Roush Racing teammate to the finish line by 8.216 seconds — nearly half the front straightaway.

"I was a little bit concerned because you never know what Mark Martin has up his sleeve," Biffle said. "He's always an aggressive race-car driver."

Biffle, the only driver to win both the Busch and Craftsman Truck series championships, has struggled in the 2004 Nextel Cup season. He had just one top 10-finish in the first 19 races this season and is not a contender for the new "Chase for the Nextel Cup" championship playoff.

But Biffle says his team is turning things around, with recent finishes of fourth at Pocono and sixth at Indianapolis.

"It's been tough at times this season, but I knew we could be in Victory Lane," Biffle said. "We've got this 16 car ironed out."

Martin, who is battling for a spot in NASCAR's championship playoff, was leading the race, but fell to 23rd on the 130th lap after being penalized by NASCAR for leaving the pits with a loose lugnut.

Another DNF drops Johnson to second

Cox News Service

After building a big lead in the Nextel Cup series standings, Jimmie Johnson fell to second Sunday after failing to finish for the third week in a row.

A blown engine in the GFS Marketplace 400 gave Johnson his fifth DNF (did not finish) in 2004.

"I'm just dumbfounded right now," Johnson said.

Gordon, co-owner of Johnson's car, finished seventh.

"I just hate it for Jimmie," Gordon said. "They weren't testing or trying anything different in the car, so I don't know what the deal is."

Strong outing for Edwards

Carl Edwards was pleased with his performance in his first Nextel Cup start.

Replacing Jeff Burton in the No. 99 Roush Racing Ford, Edwards finished 10th Sunday.

"This is a victory for us," Edwards said. "I thought we'd be about 20th, but the car came on. This is unbelievable."

Burton finished 12th in his first race for Richard Childress Racing.

More disappointment for Earnhardt

Sunday was another frustrating race for Dale Earnhardt Jr.

Earnhardt finished 21st Sunday.

"We struggle at tracks like this for some reason, but we'll figure it out," he said.

Earnhardt has only two top-10 finishes in his past 10 races at Michigan. Still, Earnhardt is in good shape for the championship chase, remaining third in the standings, 139 points behind leader Gordon.

New rules package strives to level playing field

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Atlanta

NASCAR's rules package for 2005 will try to put the brakes on runaway racing-engine development and reduce dependence on aerodynamics, but some say the new specifications announced last week may not bring about the intended results.

Beginning next season, teams in the top three divisions — Nextel Cup, Busch and Craftsman Truck —will be limited in the gear ratios they can run at any track other than Daytona and Talladega, where restrictor plates already limit engines.

The two gears in the rear end of the car — the ring and pinion — come in various ratios. On most race tracks, if the gear ratio is limited, the engine speed is restricted by a like amount.

The changes come as mechanics continue to find ways to increase engine rotations per minute. Just a few years ago, race engines turned about 8,000 rpm, but lately — at tracks like Martinsville Speedway — engines have turned more than 10,000.

High rpms mean more speed on the track, but higher costs in research and development and less durability.

NASCAR President Mike Helton said the goal of the new rule is to keep Nextel Cup engines below 9,500 rpm, and those in Busch Series and Craftsman Truck Series to 8,800, which is less than many teams are turning now.

Teams will be allowed to select from up to three gear ratios at each track, and NASCAR will check the ratios by manually counting teeth on the gears and by electronically monitoring the rpm the engine turns.

Some team managers agree with Helton that the rule will save competitors money. Others aren't so sure.

Chad Knaus, crew chief for Jimmie Johnson, doubts there will be much money saved.

"A lot of people have spent an awful lot of money to develop the technology to get our cars to turn the rpm they're turning right now," he said. "Now a lot of people are going to have to go back to work and find the best package for the gear ratios they're giving us."

Knaus also said fans may see less action on the track. "It might make it a little bit harder to pass," he said.

Helton said that while some teams may not embrace the change now, he believes it soon will be accepted, just as the compression limits and one-engine-per-weekend rules which have been put in place in recent years.

"Some people won't like it because it's another level of constraint," Helton said. "But there are more that do like it because they can more efficiently budget their expenses and be competitive."

NASCAR also announced rear spoilers would be chopped another ¾-inch next season, dropping them to 4½ inches.

That change is expected to take downforce from the cars, somewhat reducing the emphasis on aerodynamics and putting more emphasis on the driver's role.

COMMENTARY

Older fans left out as drivers get younger

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

During a recent vacation, I ran into a man named John, who fits into the so-called "NASCAR Dads" group. John is a father from California who pulls for Dale Jarrett and has followed racing for more than 30 years.

As the November elections draw closer, political commentators will argue over which candidate gets John's vote.

But we'll leave the political analysis to the experts. On the racing side of the NASCAR Dads issue, there's a more pressing concern: Drivers who belong to the same age group as the NASCAR Dads are an endangered species.

Just eight Nextel Cup regulars are 45 or older, and just a few are close to being involved in NASCAR's "Chase for the Championship."

So where does that leave the group of racing fans aged 45 and up which, according to NASCAR, make up 43 percent of the sport's base? It leaves them rooting for 49-year-old Ken Schrader. Or Mark Martin and Dale Jarrett, the only older drivers who still have an outside chance of making it to NASCAR's playoffs. Other than that, it's either Rusty Wallace or Sterling Marlin before the remaining middle-aged drivers drop off the scoreboard page.

This isn't a problem in the other major sports. Once a sports fan reaches the mature age of 45, he can still root for the same baseball team he followed as a child. Football teams don't age. Universities embrace older fans as donors. But in NASCAR, all the talk these days is about the "Young Guns," a marketing scheme cleverly devised to make racing fans in their 40s look for their false teeth and canes.

It's these fans who feel the most betrayed by NASCAR. While the sport closes historic tracks and makes new rules to please the younger generation, older fans wonder when sitting in the stands with their No. 6 Viagra gear went out of style. Corporations can't market the Young Guns to NASCAR Dads, some of whom have kids older than rookie Brian Vickers, who was born in 1983.

NASCAR seems to have responded to the issue by widening the gap between the sport and the 40-something fans who grew up following a certain brand of racing, which now seems increasingly unfamiliar.

Fans like John think it's crazy to run a Busch Series race in Mexico next year, where there are certainly no NASCAR Padres.

Meanwhile, rumors recently surfaced that Terry Labonte could go to a part-time schedule after this year, and Wallace sounds like he'll hang up his helmet after 2005 or 2006.

Racing's most devoted fans are running out of drivers to root for.

So, you ask, what's the solution? Aging fans have to feed their need to root for someone.

The answer: Enjoy the Young Guns and appreciate the older drivers while they're still around.

Mikulski Maintains Commanding Lead in Funds, Polls Over Pipkin

by Kevin W. McCullough
Capital News Service

COLLEGE PARK – Democratic Sen. Barbara Mikulski had raised $5.6 million for her campaign, almost eight times as much as her Republican challenger, according to the latest reports with the Federal Election Commission. That is a closer margin than earlier reports, when state Sen. E.J. Pipkin was trailing Mikulski by as much as a 10-1 margin. But even Pipkin's campaign manager, Dave Brockhorst, said the campaign still has "a long way to go."

Pipkin has the advantage of deep pockets: More than half of his $701,912 in campaign receipts are loans from the candidate himself, according to the FEC.

But pollster Patrick Gonzales said that while money is important, Pipkin's money may do little more than let him lose to Mikulski by a narrower margin than her previous challengers. Mikulski has netted more than 70 percent of the vote in her last two campaigns.

"She's going to be tough to beat," said Gonzales, the president of Gonzales Research & Marketing Strategies. He said she is a popular incumbent, which puts any challenger at a strong disadvantage unless that incumbent stumbles.

"I haven't seen an indication that Mikulski is vulnerable," he said. "Things could change, but it's not likely."

The latest poll on the race by Gonzales showed Mikulski leading Pipkin among likely voters by more than 30 percentage points. She also enjoyed a job approval rating of 65 percent in the telephone poll of 386 regular Maryland voters that was taken between June 4 and June 9. The poll has a margin of error of plus or minus 3.5 percentage points.

But Mikulski "takes every race seriously" and "never takes anything for granted," said her campaign manager, Mike Morrill.

According to the latest filings with the FEC, Mikulski had spent $2.7 million as of July and still had $2.9 million on hand. Pipkin reported spending $618,560 in the same period and having $83,351 in the bank.

But Brockhorst downplayed the campaign's comparatively meager bank account, saying that Pipkin will likely be putting more of his own money into the campaign.

Pipkin, who earned his considerable personal wealth in bond trading, also spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in his 2002 campaign for Maryland State Senate, his only other bid for elected office so far. The Mikulski campaign has also pointed out the sources of Pipkin's funds, saying that the Republican Party had sought a candidate who would spend large amounts of his own money on the race. Mikulski has not yet contributed to her own campaign.

But Brockhorst said Pipkin also hopes to benefit from the recent success the GOP has enjoyed in Maryland with the election of Gov. Robert Ehrlich. He said the campaign is not counting on a boost from the presidential election in Maryland, which President Bush is expected to lose again as he did in 2000.

In the Gonzales poll, Ehrlich received a 52 percent job approval rating, but Bush received his lowest job-approval ratings of his tenure with a 39 percent rating. Only 38 percent of those polled said they would vote for him if the election took place on the day the poll was taken.

Bartlett Sharing Campaign Funds With Other Republican Candidates

by Michael Santa Rita
Capital News Service

COLLEGE PARK – With a substantial fund-raising lead over his Democratic challenger in the 6th District, Rep. Roscoe Bartlett has begun donating funds to other Republican campaigns in Maryland and elsewhere.

The Frederick Republican had raised $482,009 for his 2004 campaign and spent $320,743 as of June 30, the date of the last filing with the Federal Election Commission. Democratic challenger Kenneth Bosley has not yet raised the minimum $5,000 that would require him to file a report with the FEC.

With that lead, Bartlett's latest FEC report reads like a political travelogue: In the last quarter, he sent $1,000 each to the Coburn for Senate Committee in Muskogee, Okla., the Demint for Senate Committee in Columbia, S.C., the Nethercutt for Senate campaign in Bellevue, Wash., the Schaffer for Senate campaign in Centennial, Colo., and the Vitter for U.S. Senate campaign in Metairie, La.

Bartlett also gave closer to home, sending $4,000 to the Bob Ehrlich for Maryland campaign, $225 to the Washington County Republican Central Committee, and $100 to the Maryland Federation of Republican Women, among other expenditures.

But aides deny that the recent donations to other Republican campaigns is evidence that Bartlett thinks he has an easy race of ahead of him.

"The level of seriousness remains the same," Lisa Wright, Bartlett's press officer, said. "He serves at the pleasure of the voters, and he takes that very seriously."

And Bosley denied that his lack of funding is an impediment to his campaign.

"We haven't collected our financial obligations yet. We've told people to hold it off and do it later rather than earlier," Bosley said. "When the campaign heats up that's when we will make our biggest effort." Besides, he said, "money is not the issue as far as the ability to collect votes." Bosley cited Bartlett's decision to attend a banquet in honor of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon earlier this year as an example of political folly that will cost the incumbent votes.

While this is Bosley's first run in the 6th District, it is not his first bid for Congress from Maryland. He ran three times – in 1998, 2000 and 2002 – for the 2nd District seat in the Baltimore suburbs before redistricting landed him in Bartlett's 6th District, which stretches across central and western Maryland.

Soap starlet lands prime-time role at CBS

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Kirsten Storms

Q: Help! What has happened to the adorable actress who used to play Belle Black on "Days of Our Lives"? There's a new face. Why? –Marie Mango, Massapequa Park, N.Y.

A: Fan favorite Kirsten Storms, 20, was released from her role as Belle Black so she could accept a co-starring role in "Clubhouse," a new Aaron Spelling drama premiering in the fall on CBS.

The actress initially hoped she would be able to juggle both roles, but that proved impractical. Storms made her last "Days" appearance on July 15.

In "Clubhouse," she plays Betsy Young, the free-spirited older sister of principal teen star Pete (Jeremy Sumpter, "Peter Pan"), a batboy for the fictional New York Empires. The series also stars Mare Winningham as their mother, and Dean Cain as Pete's idol and mentor at the team clubhouse.

As a footnote, while Storms' departure from "Days" was amiable, it also set off a mini-soap opera of sorts behind the scenes, where newcomer Charity Rahmer was hired to take over the role of Belle, then almost immediately was fired. Another newcomer, Martha Madison, now plays the role.

Q: Ted Levine of "Monk" has a very distinctive voice. Is that him, uncredited, doing the voice of the vengeful trucker in the movie "Joy Ride"? –Peter in Sarasota, Fla.

A: Yes, Levine provided the voice of "Rusty Nail" in that 2001 movie thriller. And by the way: Several readers wrote to point out my recent typo that shaved years off Levine's age. The gifted actor is 46, not 36.

Q: Did the same actress who played Max and Isabel's mother in "Roswell" also play the police psychiatrist in the "Lethal Weapon" movies? –J.P., Thornton, Colo.

A: Yes, Mary Ellen Trainor, who played Diane Evans in "Roswell," also played Dr. Stephanie Woods in all four "Lethal" movies.

Q: I recently caught a very early "Cagney and Lacey" rerun in which Meg Foster played Chris Cagney. Is she related to Jodie Foster? Is she still acting? –Paula Baston, Fort Worth, Texas.

A: As most readers remember, Foster (no relation to Jodie Foster) was replaced by Sharon Gless on "Cagney and Lacey" in 1982 after network executives declared the former actress "not feminine enough" for the role. The episode you saw was one of only six in which Foster played Cagney (Loretta Swit played the role in the original network movie pilot).

Although getting fired, especially on such personal grounds, couldn't have been pleasant for Foster, it didn't stop her from working in films ("The Osterman Weekend," "The Emerald Forest," "Masters of the Universe"), frequent TV guest appearances ("Quantum Leap," "ER," "Hercules: The Legendary Journeys") and onstage.

Fitness Center Sparks Interest Across Country

ELAINE KACKLEY

The Flowery Vale Senior Health & Fitness Center, Accident, receives many inquiries about programming and services, according to fitness director Elaine Kackley. The number of inquiries increased after a news story on the center was published by the Associated Press in the spring.

"People were calling to tell me they had seen my picture or read about the program in Chicago, Florida, New Jersey, and other places," Kackley said. She collected clippings from regional and national news media.

Last week an inquiry came from Canada. The Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging program had gone international. "I was out of my office and heard the voice mail message. I had to get approval to place along distance call to respond," Kackley said. The call had come from a western province, so there was a time discrepancy.

"This is really exciting. We know we have a really successful program here. We have helped so many of Garrett County's 55 and older population in the three – now almost four – years that we have been open," Kackley noted. "It's great to be able to share our experience and information with others across the state and across the country. Well, now even those in another country."

For information on the Flowery Vale Fitness Center, persons may call 301-746-8050.

Nursing Assistant Course Slated At Garrett College

Garrett College will offer a Maryland approved nursing assistant course beginning Tuesday, Sept. 7. Maryland regulations require that anyone who performs nursing tasks, delegated by a nurse, for compensation must complete an approved nursing assistant course of study, and be licensed through the Maryland Board of Nursing.

The theory portion of the course will meet Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. Students who pass the theory portion of the course will continue into an intensive 40-hour on-site clinical experience.

Individuals who wish to work in a long-term care facility (nursing home) must then take the Maryland registry test to become geriatric nursing assistants. The registry test has both written and skills components. Although the registry test is not a part of the GC course, students who are not employed will have the opportunity to self-fund and be sponsored for the test through an outside agency.

A CORNER OF GARRETT COUNTY is cleaner now thanks to this group of LifeSkills program participants, who volunteered their time recently to clean up around the Savage River Reservoir. The nine students and two staff members cleaned trash from the banks of the reservoir and from the Dry Run boat launch. Users of the pristine recreation area should note the hours of labor that went into collecting the trash shown in front of the group, a pile markedly smaller than last year's collection and which will be hopefully even smaller next summer. Pictured from the left are students Matt Snyder, Zach Fultz, J.R. Bowman, Justin Brant, Andy Schrock, Justin Hetrick, Jeff Schrock, Kayla Leibrand, Shana Hetrick, and LifeSkills staffers Jessie Dinbokowitz and Justin Lewis.

Topics for the course include the role and responsibilities of nursing assistants, major organs and body systems, common medical terms and abbreviations, ambulating devices, human growth and development, ethical and legal issues, and demonstration of various nursing functions.

All potential students must register in person at the Continuing Education and Training office, located in Room CE-208 on the college's McHenry Campus. For tuition and additional information, persons may call Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069.

Loch Lynn After-School Program Fundraiser Set

The Loch Lynn After-School Program will hold a fundraiser at Broadford Park titled "Music in the Park" on Saturday, Aug. 28, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. to raise money for the upcoming year.

Entertainment will be provided by Nathan and Amy Friend, Amy Piper-McConnell, Valerie Naylor, Jody and Shalene Teets, and the ermission Tree.

There will also be games, face painting, and an Asset Building activity with the health department. Those attending are encouraged to bring a picnic lunch. Donations will be accepted.

This program is operated by Garrett County Community Action Inc. in collaboration with the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families.

GCFW Seeking Contributions For Directory Booklet

GCFW Civic Club of Oakland are once again collecting and updating information to prepare for the publication of a current "Quick Guide to Garrett County Resources," and are seeking contributions to help defray the cost of publication.

Because the club bears a major portion of the cost of publication, it requests contributions from agencies, organizations, and individuals. Names of donors will be printed in the booklet, according to Bobby Andersen, who heads the special projects committee that is in charge of this product.

The directory, published biennially by the Civic Club, contains contact phone numbers of Garrett County agencies and organizations. Its goal is to make residents, newcomers, and visitors aware of the many services and sources of help available in the county. The booklet is distributed free of charge throughout the county.

Interested persons should send contributions to GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, P.O. Box 167, Oakland, MD 21550. Checks should be made payable to the GFWC Civic Club.

Free Seminar Set For Prospective Entrepreneurs

A free seminar for persons who are thinking of starting their own businesses will be offered from 6 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 8, in Room 211 of Garrett College's Continuing Education and Training building.

During this introductory session, participants will take an assessment to determine their readiness to be in business, learn about local resources to help them along the way, identify financing options, discover the importance of a business plan, and much more.

Interested persons are requested to pre-register by calling 301-387-3080, as seating is limited. This course is being offered by the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College and the Small Business Development Center.

Social Workers Being Sought For "I Can Cope"

The American Cancer is looking for licensed social workers to volunteer to be trained to offer the I Can Cope series in Garrett and Allegany counties.

I Can Cope is a patient services program offered by the American Cancer Society for patients as well as their families and friends who are dealing with a cancer diagnosis.

For more information about the program and how to become involved, Garrett County social workers may call Donna McClintock-Fost at 301-334-7770. Those in Allegany County may call Julie Longenecker at 301-723-5894.

As late August approaches, we might feel an occasional cool breeze some evenings or notice a lone leaf letting go as it drifts to the still warm ground. The poet, Oliver Wendell Holmes, expressed it this way... "The foliage has been losing its freshness through the month of August, and here and there a yellow leaf shows itself like the first gray hair amidst the locks of a beauty who has seen one season too many."

Certainly, Autumn is not far behind. Soon the trees will be ablaze with glory. The mountains will change from green gowns into those of red and orange and gold. Summer will surely not leave without her annual encore.

Such are the "seasons" of our lives. Whether our days are bright with color or the days are gray and cold, God is there for us. After all, as the creator of the four seasons, doesn't He intend for our lives to mirror those seasons somewhat? When we trust Him in all circumstances, the Creator will attend to our human transitions as well. "Be urgent in season and out of season." [2 Timothy 4:2]

Won't you learn more about God's unfailing love as you worship Him this week? We must make our preparations now for the seasons of our lives.

True Forgiveness

70 X 7

We sometimes decide whether someone deserves our forgiveness by carefully considering how many times they may have wronged us, or even by considering the perceived worth of the person. But is it truly forgiveness if we calculate whether the person deserves it? True forgiveness, like true grace, is unearned. Forgiveness that is deserved is really something more like a pardon, or even a person having served their time. To truly forgive someone, there should be no consideration of whether they are deserving of it or not. The true act of forgiveness takes place in the heart of the person who has been wronged, and has absolutely nothing to do with the person who committed the wrong. We see true forgiveness in God's sacrifice of His sinless Son for the atonement of our sins. Nothing we did makes us deserving of that sacrifice. On the contrary, the whole transaction is pure grace; that is, a free and unearned gift. Our existence itself has 0the quality of grace because our lives are a pure gift, and there is nothing we did, in the past, present, or future to deserve the gift of life. So, we should not calculate or decide whether someone deserves forgiveness, but instead, we should just give it to them.

Then Peter came up and said to him, "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?" Jesus said to him, "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven."

Health Benefits Provided By These Vitamins

Most people know that a diet rich in antioxidants is good for you. New research suggests that taking antioxidant supplements like vitamins E and C can prevent serious eye damage in persons with diabetes. Antioxidants neutralize reactive oxygen molecules in the body. Diabetics are known to have lower blood levels of antioxidants to fight these reactive compounds. In one study, diabetics taking 400 IU of vitamin E and 1000 mg vitamin C daily for 10 days had significant improvements to the surface of their eyes. This included more surface tears, a better time interval between blinks, and lower eye-surface levels of harmful reactive oxygen molecules. Other research with antioxidant vitamins is clarifying their role in treating disease.

High doses of B vitamins may help those with Alzheimer's disease. According to research findings, high doses of three B vitamins (Vitamin B6, B12, and Folic Acid) lowered levels of homocysteine, an amino acid that has been linked to Alzheimer's.

Pet Threats Remain as Summer Wanes

The days are growing shorter, the nights may be a bit cooler, and the kids are heading back to school, but the commonly acknowledged end of summer does not mean the end of risks to dogs and cats from warm-weather threats.

Fleas and ticks are still in top form in many parts of the country, and are only just tapering off in colder climates. It's important to keep up with regular treatment to prevent these pests from making a home in your pet's coat, even through the beginning of fall (and perhaps all the way to winter). Look at the back of the package in which your pet's flea treatment came — whether it is the once-a-month direct application, shampoo or collar — and schedule the treatment on time.

Barbecues and pool parties will still be held even after Labor Day, weather permitting, and your pet should be kept away from the neighbor's shindig, as well as tempting things like corn holders, discarded food and empty containers. If you're holding a party, keep an eye on your pet and, if possible, place him or her in a room with a blanket, toys, food and water when direct supervision isn't possible.

And don't forget to protect outdoor pets from the sun! Even if the weather is much cooler, the sun's rays can still cause sunburn and, over time, increase the risk of skin cancer in pets. Rub sunscreen (available in pet stores) on your pet's exposed skin, including its nose, paws and ear tips. It won't like it much, but you'll be ensuring a longer, happier life for your pet. Who doesn't want that?

Collecting

Hummels

Q. My mother has decided to sell her extensive Hummel collection. Could you recommend some dealers who might help her with this? — Shari, via e-mail

A. The first Hummel figurines were created by Berta Hummel, a Franciscan nun, also known as Sister M. Innocentia. The earliest limited editions appeared in 1935 and were crafted and marketed by Franz Goebel of Rodental, Germany. In addition to figurines, plates and plaques were also produced. Hummel pieces are, of course, collected throughout the world.

To sell your collection, you need the advice of an expert. You might want to contact Dorothy Dous, president of the Hummel Collector's Club, Inc. Her addresses are 1261 University Drive, Yardley, PA 19067; and www.hummels.com. John Copeland is a dealer who specializes in Hummels. His toll-free telephone number is 1-800-882-9946.

Q. I am in the process of helping a friend sell his antiques and collectibles. Although I have reference books and use eBay, I need professional help. Can you recommend a good appraiser in my area? — Bev, Pueblo, Colo.

A. There are several appraisers in your area who might be able to help. You should expect to pay a nominal fee for both their time and expertise. A free appraisal is generally worth what you pay for it. Three established Colorado appraisers are William Geary, P.O. Box 2247, Colorado Springs, 80901; George Wooley, 3175 F Road, Grand Junction, 81504; and Margaret Grover, 734 Grape St., Denver 80220.

Q. I have an older saxophone that I played in my high-school band during the 1950s. Where can I sell it? — Ken, Austin, Texas

A. The Charles Fall Music Co. is interested in older saxophones. Its address and toll-free telephone number are: 4710G Ecton Drive, Marietta, GA 30066

Strange BUT TRUE

• In a freak accident in Los Angeles, an unnamed man drowned in his car — while it was on dry land. His Volkswagen convertible hit a fire hydrant, causing an uncontrolled outpouring of water. Unfortunately, the blast of water caught the driver full in the face, and with such force that he was unable to breathe or escape.

• In Medieval times, ale, rather than wine, was often used for communion in church.

• In Russia until the 1860s, caviar was not considered to be the delicacy it is today. In fact, it wasn't consumed by people at all: It was used to feed pigs. Finally the peasants started eating it, and eventually the czar caught on — at which point, of course, it became too expensive for either pigs or peasants.

• The microphone was invented way back in 1878.

• A strange weather phenomenon was recorded in London in 1984: Flounders fell from the sky, after having been borne aloft by a tornado funnel.

Rick Wilkes Set To Speak To Arthritis Group

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Arthritis Fibromyalgia Support Group will hold a free seminar on "Transforming Pain into Optimal Health" on Tuesday, Sept. 7, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the GCMH Community Services Building. The speaker will be Rick Wilkes, president of Thriving Now LLC.

Wilkes is a Maryland and nationally certified massage therapist and emotional freedom coach. He will teach several body centered techniques for reducing pain, stress, and anxiety with a particular focus on the body as an energy system.

"We're not just a mix of bones, muscles, organs, and fluids in a sack of skin," said Wilkes. "I will give participants a brief look at the difference between the mechanical/biochemical view of the body and a more quantum view."

He will discuss Chinese medicine and how it specializes in looking at the body as a field of flowing energy, where disruptions cause emotional pain and physical disease. There will be hands-on exercises with touch and before and after ranking of stress and pain.

The program will also discuss massage therapy, its many forms, and how to choose the right therapist. There will also be an introduction to the energy tapping technique, EFT (Emotional Freedom Techniques).

"I am an advanced practitioner in EFT, and I find that it can often make a huge difference in the emotional side of having a chronic pain condition, and sometimes even clear up or dramatically improve the condition itself."

There is no charge to attend the meetings, and all ages are welcome to attend. For more information on the group, persons may call Vicki Insley at 301-334-9767.

Md. Forest, Park Service Seeking CCC Members

Former Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) members are being sought to help celebrate the history of the Depression-era agency's work in Maryland state forests and parks during a campfire program set for 7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 11, at Gambrill State Park in Frederick County.

The Civilian Conservation Corps, also known as "Roosevelt's Tree Army," was established in the early 1930s as part of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal program. The CCC was designed to provide jobs for young men and to help reclaim and improve damaged natural environment areas. There were a number of camps located throughout western Maryland, including several in Garrett County. The CCC is credited with laying the groundwork for the creation some of Maryland's most popular state parks.

"We would like to recognize former CCC members who worked hard to lay the foundations of resource conservation in Maryland," said Gambrill State Park staff member Erick Creter. "We would also like to have former CCC members share their stories at the campfire event." Interested persons may contact Creter at 301-293-4170.

Training Classes For Volunteers Set By Hospice

Hospice of Garrett County Inc. will sponsor training classes for Faith in Action patient care volunteers during September and October. The classes will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each evening at the Hospice office in the lower level of Dr. Daniel Miller's office building, 69 Wolf Acres Drive, Oakland.

Hospice is currently in need of patient care volunteers who provide companionship to terminally ill patients and their families. The volunteers may be asked to sit with the patient, run errands, or help in various other ways.

Volunteers are also needed for bereavement after-care. The Hospice Bereavement team stays in touch with the family for one year after the death of a loved one. They do mailings and home visits, and maintain a relationship with the family by telephone.

The schedule of classes is as follows: Sept. 9 – "Overview of Hospice," executive director Brenda Butscher, and "HIPAA, Confidentiality, Sexual Abuse, and Safety," director of clinical services Charee Reckner; Sept 16 – "Listening Skills" and "Family Dynamics/Stress Management," Nancy-Elizabeth Nimmich; Sept. 23 – "Working With the Volunteer Coordinator," volunteer coordinator Ida Maust; and Sept. 30 – "Universal Precautions, Infection Control, Documentation of Personal Care, and Signs and Symptoms of a Dying Person," Reckner.

The classes will continue the next month with the following: Oct. 7 – "Legal and Financial Planning," Shirley Fitzwater of First United Bank and Trust and a visit to Newman's Funeral Home to learn about funeral home skills; Oct. 21 – "Physical Therapy (Transfer Skills)," Audrey Kennedy of Garrett Rehab; and Oct. 28 – "Grief Counseling Skills," director of bereavement Jane Sealing and "Spirtual Aspects," Pastor Ivan Maust.

A graduation dinner will be held on Thursday, Nov. 4, for the new volunteers.

"Hospice extends an invitation to you to become part of the Hospice team and to be a patient care volunteer," said Butscher. "You will find working with the terminally ill and their families to be rewarding. Keep in mind that doing good for others is doing good for yourself."

To register or for more information, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151, in Grantsville at 800-521-5252, or by TTY at 800-735-2258.

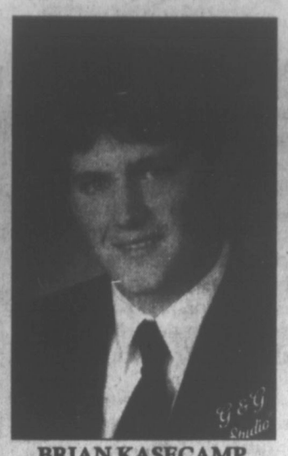
Five GC Students Net Scholarships

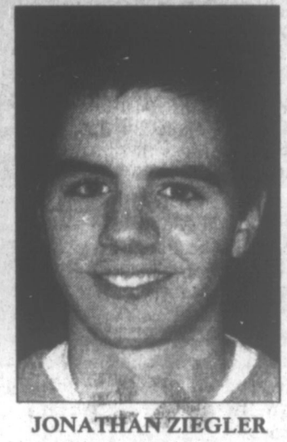
ANDY HADY

SARAH MULLENAX



BRIAN KASECAMP

CASSIE GREGORY



JONATHAN ZIEGLER

Five recent graduates of area high schools have received scholarships from the Garrett College Foundation and will attend Garrett this fall, according to Bretta Reinhard, executive director of the foundation.

Andy Hady, son of William and Jennifer Hady of Bittinger, has received a Garrett College Board of Trustees scholarship and the Edward and Hazel Hinebaugh Scholarship. He is a 2004 graduate of Northern High School, where he was on the golf team and track team all four years, a member of the Northern Lettermen's Club, on the Honor Roll, and the Distinguished Honor Roll.

Undecided about his future career, Andy has enrolled in the General Studies program. His interests lie in construction and design. He is active in the youth group of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger and in the Junior Fireman Organization of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department. His hobbies are golf, hunting, all aspects of carpentry and construction, and Civil War history.

Sarah Mullenax, a 2004 graduate of Southern High School, has received the Amy Mildred Sharpless Scholarship. In high school she was a member of the National Honor Society, the Honor Roll and Distinguished Honor Roll, and the softball and soccer teams. She also participated in Minds in Motion and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Sarah is enrolled in the General Studies program and plans someday to have her own business. Her interests are roller blading, skiing, snowboarding, and playing softball and soccer. She is the daughter of Zanea and Larry Mullenax of Swanton.

Brian Kasecamp, a 2004 graduate of Beall High School, has received the Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Boxley III Scholarship and the Daniel Edward Offutt III Achievement Award Scholarship. In high school he was on the soccer, baseball, and golf teams, and also belonged to the National Honor Society, the Drama Club, Ski Club, and Ecology Club.

Although he is still uncertain about his career choice, Brian has enrolled in the Social and Behavioral Sciences program. His interests are sports and history, and he is active in his church group and community basketball. He is the son of Terry Kasecamp and Lawrence Kasecamp of Frostburg, and said that he is proud that a baseball field in Cresaptown is named after his family.

Cassie Gregory, daughter of Lawrence and Crystal Gregory of Oakland, has received the Daniel Edward Offutt III Achievement Award Scholarship, the Cortney and Marie Tasker Scholarship, the William Henry Schmidt Memorial Scholarship, and the Sylvan Manufacturing Lawrence Gregory Sr. Scholarship. She is a 2003 graduate of Southern High, where she was a member of the yearbook staff and the National Honor Society.

At Garrett Cassie is in the honors program, majoring in elementary education as she pursues her goal of becoming a pre-kindergarten or kindergarten teacher. Her community service consists of the Adopt-a-Highway Program, the Rotary Christmas project, and the House of Hope food drive. She enjoys working with children, exercising, shopping, and spending time with friends.

Jonathan Ziegler, a 2003 graduate of Ferndale Christian School, has received the Colonel Haig and Ruth Ridder Jackson Scholarship and the Daniel Edward Offutt III Achievement Award Scholarship. He is enrolled in the college's business administration program and hopes someday to start an online used auto parts company. As a member of the worship team of Ferndale Baptist Church, Jonathan has made two mission trips to Mexico. His interests are playing soccer, hunting and fishing, and playing guitar. Jonathan is the son of Jon Ziegler and Carla Ziegler of Oakland.

Miss Crystal Keefer Marries Mr. Carl Garlitz In June Ceremony

Crystal Annette Keefer and Carl William Garlitz Jr., both of Friendsville, were joined in marriage on June 26, 2004. The bride is the daughter of Getty and Wilma Keefer, Friendsville, and the groom is the son of Carl Sr. and Lynda Garlitz of Cumberland.

The ceremony was held at the White Oak Church in Terra Alta, W.Va., with Pastor Norman Criss of Tunnelton, W.Va., officiating.

The bride wore a white floor-length gown with a crinoline overlay skirt. The gown was covered with white embroidered daisies, which the bride hand-detailed with pink and clear glass beads. The groom wore a black tuxedo with a pink Windsor tie.

The couple exchanged their vows at the altar under a white trellis decorated with pink roses, a gift from the bride's mother. The bride was given away by her father, who then sang "The Rose."

The bride's attendants wore ankle-length gowns, each with its own style and pattern. They carried bouquets of pink and white flowers, arranged by the bride. The groom's attendants and the bride's father wore black tuxedos with pink bow ties and cummerbunds. The each wore a boutonniere of pink and white roses, also made by the bride. The groom's father was also dressed in a black tuxedo but with a black bow tie.

Kali Last, Iowa, friend of the bride, was the maid of honor. Scott Garlitz, brother of the groom, stood as the best man. Bridesmaids were Harmony Carr and Ginnie Sines, friends of the bride. Serving as groomsmen were Bill Garlitz, brother of the groom, and Bill McKenzie, Baltimore, cousin of the groom. The bride's god-daughter, Amanda Behling, and niece, Jennifer Sisler, were junior bridesmaids. Junior groomsmen were Jerry Sisler, nephew of the bride, and Greg Garlitz, brother of the groom.

There were also two flower girls and two ringbearers. Kayla Glotfelty, friend of the couple, carried a small bouquet herself, as well as one to give each of the mothers. Carrying a basket of rose petals was Alexis Garlitz, niece of the groom. Joseph Last, godson of the bride, carried the groom's ring in a small bamboo chest. Britton Garlitz, nephew of the groom, carried the bride's ring on the traditional satin pillow.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church's fellowship hall. The hall was decorated in pink and white flowers, also arranged by the bride. Most of the food and drinks were provided by the bride's paternal grandmother, Nina Keefer; the bride's parents; and her sister, Cindy Sisler.

The three-tier wedding cake was baked by Beatrice Criss, Tunnelton, W.Va. The sides of each cake tier were adorned with pink hearts, and some of the bride's flowers were also used. The cake-topper was a Waterford crystal bride and groom seated on a pink rose.

The couple visited with the maid of honor for some days before leaving on a trip south, visiting the bride's maternal grandmother, Pansy Trout, and her aunt and uncle in Indian Trail, N.C., as well as spending a week at Disney World.

Ms. Beitzel And Mr. McKenzie Exchange Vows In July Ceremony

Virginia Beitzel and Steve McKenzie were united in marriage on July 30 at the Garrett County Courthouse.

Virginia, daughter of Roger and Wilma Guthrie, Grantsville, has one daughter, Lara, and one son, Josh. She works as postmaster of Bittinger Post Office.

Steve, son of Doris and the late Dalton McKenzie Bittinger, works as a logger at D&S Logging, which he owns with his brother Donald.

The couple and the children reside in Bittinger.

SMOKEY HITS THE BIG SIX-O — Despite turning 60, Smokey Bear is showing no signs of slowing down in his advocacy for safe outdoor fire practices. The venerable bruin was on hand recently for a birthday celebration at New Germany State Park, where cake and ice cream were served for guests from across the state. Children made birthday cards for Smokey which are on display in the New Germany nature center, and the fire prevention activities included a fire-fighting exercise demonstrated above by 7-year-old Jonathan Schultz of Annapolis. Pictured below are Grantsville residents Kristi Garlitz, left, and Tammy Jo Garlitz, as they get a real "bear" hug. The Friends of New Germany volunteer group helped sponsor the event.

Inaugural Issue Of Maryland Life Will Be Available Mid December

Great State Publishing LLC, Frederick, recently announced that the inaugural issue of Maryland Life magazine will be available in mid-December 2004 (January 2005 publication date).

Maryland Life will be a bimonthly publication "that explores and celebrates the destinations, dining, home styles, and people that make Maryland a great place to live. Contributors will include many of the state's finest writers and photographers."

Maryland has been without a statewide magazine for nearly a decade. This new magazine is backed by a major private investment, led by longtime Maryland newspaper publisher George B. Delaplaine Jr. of Great Southern Enterprises.

Other investors include Marlene B. Young, vice president of Great Southern Enterprises; Philip W. Hammond, chief financial officer of Great Southern Enterprises; Bond Street – GSP LLC; Karin DeFrancis of the Maryland Jockey Club; former Harford County newspaper publisher Peter A. Jay; and Great State Publishing's three managing principals: Dan Patrell, Ross Peddicord, and Scott Runkles.

Given their extensive background in publishing, the management team of Great Southern Enterprises comprising Delaplaine, Young and Hammond will be assisting the principals in an advisory capacity.

"Maryland has a great story to tell. We are very pleased about the launch of Maryland Life magazine, which will showcase the unique people, places, and events that make Maryland such a vibrant state," said Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. "From the first day my administration took office, it has been our mission to make our state 'One Maryland.' Any entrepreneurial effort that helps us succeed in this mission is a win for all of us."

"Tourism is a major economic factor in this state, so we're delighted with the emergence of Maryland Life, said Aris Melissaratos, secretary of Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development. "For readers both inside and outside the state, its message will help to highlight the great benefits that make this state such an attractive place to visit, and to live."

"Statewide magazines are some of the most profitable and longest running publications in the U.S., especially within the Mid-Atlantic, and yet Maryland has been underserved for years. We plan to change that trend," said Patrell, who will be the publication's editor. "Maryland Life will fill this void by celebrating life and living in Maryland for our state's citizens, as well as the many people that come to the state each year for business or pleasure."

He added that the publication's target audience was "anyone who loves Maryland."

"The need is certainly there for a high quality statewide magazine in Maryland," said Delaplaine. "Maryland ranks as one of the top five states in the country in wealth on per capita income and has one of the most educated populations in America, yet we are still without a magazine that commemorates why our state is a great and unique place to live."

"For generations, many have referred to Maryland as 'America in Miniature,' noted a Maryland Life publicist. "Each issue of Maryland Life will bring meaning to this phrase with in-depth articles and full-color, high-gloss photography that span the state's 23 counties, Baltimore City, and Ocean City. With page after page of timeless information and images, each issue is destined to become a keepsake.

"Maryland's diversity of identities – thoroughbreds, landscapes, lighthouses, boating, crabs, urban areas, mountains, rustic resort communities, beautifully appointed homes – provide an unlimited supply of captivating story ideas to fuel the magazine, as well as provide diverse opportunities for potential advertisers."

The centerpiece of each issue will be a multi-paged photo essay, which focuses on a "visually compelling" aspect of Maryland, followed by other feature articles that "touch the heart of Maryland."

The front end of the magazine will feature reports from all regions of the state, "Maryland Select" events, products that are uniquely Maryland, slices of Maryland history, and stories about interesting Marylanders.

The back end will host regular departments that focus on destinations for families and adults, interior and exterior style, dining, and other topics.

"Preliminary efforts to market the magazine, which will have an initial controlled circulation of 50,000 copies and will be available on newsstands, have been encouraging," said the publicist.

With limited exposure prior to this announcement, the magazine is well on its way to signing up its first 1,000 subscribers, and advertising has been sold to a number of well-known Maryland companies such as David Gable's Stone Store, Helga Surratt's and Patrick Brennan's About Faces Day Spas and Salons, and David Kusher's Virtual Physical Company.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Well, the Bittinger Picnic is over for another year. The day started off with rain. I can't really remember a day when it didn't rain on the picnic. It was held at the Bittinger fire hall. The picnic originated in the early 1900s and was held in the Brenneman Grove until the past few years. The barbecued chicken sold out early, along with a lot of other goodies. A rifle which was made by Bob Brenneman and raffled off by the fireman was won by Bonnie Tichnell.

I believe we remember our past and happy times through sunny lenses, except I can remember many very wet and muddy horse shows. But bad weather didn't deter me from wanting to go to them. It is hard to think that anything would get me out today, but apparently a good many of the people from Bittinger whom I tried to call today were probably at the fire hall for the picnic. My aunts always called the Bittinger Picnic the picnic, like there was not another picnic, except, of course, the Cousins' Picnic.

How can I pay attention to anything except having to send my first beautiful baby to college even if it is only to Morgantown? It is still too far for me, because a day without my Claire is day a without sunshine. It is only three days after her 18th birthday. She always has had a very hard head. When she was born her head was perfectly shaped, which made her delivery extra hard. She could crawl and walk very much ahead of schedule, so I guess it is no surprise that she still has a very hard head. She wouldn't listen to me about how smart a choice it would be to do her first year at Garrett College. But since she was a little girl she was always on the go. She climbed on top of the highest furniture that she could and then jumped off of it.

Her sisters and I got up very early on Friday morning to see her off. It is some comfort to me to know she has a good head on her shoulders and, I might add, a beautiful head. In one way she is not quite as lucky as I was when I went to college. I had a big brother and two of my closest friends from my class at Northern High School on campus with me. I had so many people from home and we never lacked a ride home for a weekend visit.

I thought of everything she could possibly need as I packed a mommy's box filled with little things a kid always asks their mommy to hand over instantly, such as safety pins, bobby pins, pony tail bands, band aids, white-out, a sharpener, extra pens and pencils, pain and cold relief medicines, and about a dozen of little slips of paper with messages about how much I love her and how wonderful a girl she is, and also some lipstick kisses. But somehow I forgot a big necessity – rain gear. She has no umbrella or slicker, nothing to keep her dry as she walks to classes, etc. Strange as it is to say, I did not have any rain gear in my college days, but I don't remember ever getting wet or needing an umbrella until I was living in New York City. But I just found out the true story about umbrellas and college students, as Doris Cooper's daughter told her only dorks use an umbrella anyway.

I guess I am being over critical of Claire's father in that he was the only parent to take her to Morgantown for freshman orientation and to move her into her dorm. If I were along at least I would know her address and maybe start a bank account for her there. I couldn't be more miserable to watch the rain just pouring down here, as I am sure it is raining in Morgantown.

It is hard to believe that it has been 18 years since I took a summer graduate school class in American Novels at West Virginia University while I was pregnant with Claire. I could barely fit under the desk, as they were not designed for pregnant women. It was pretty funny to me to hear my professor call me "Miss Sussman," in my interesting condition. What I remember of that campus was how hot it was.

One especially memorable day is when I wore my favorite maternity shirt with pink short sleeves. I stopped at a great ice cream shop on my way home and as I drove along the Interstate, I dropped a big chunk of chocolate ice cream on my huge belly. When I got home I had a message from Steve Herman, president of GCC, demanding that I come in for an important meeting, so I had to change my top and drag myself out to GCC. But it was not a meeting – it was a baby shower.

"BIGS," "LITTLES," STUDENTS, AND OTHER VOLUNTEERS recently staffed the Rotary French Fry trailer at the Garrett County Fair, thanks to a partnership between the Rotary Club of Oakland and Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Alleghenies Garrett County Branch. Numerous fair goers bought the Rotary's "world famous" fries during the event. Proceeds will benefit the local BBBS's School-Based Lunch Buddies and Community-Based Mentoring programs. A portion of the funds will also go toward the Rotary Club's Christmas Project. "School has started and many children are waiting for someone to come and have lunch with them every week," noted Shannon Brode, BBBS county coordinator. "There are also many children who just need a friend to spend a couple of hours with them every week. Would you like to be part of the challenge of mentoring and make a 'big' difference?" For more information, persons may call Brode at 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735. BBBS of the Alleghenies Garrett County Branch is affiliated with BBBS of America and United Way of Garrett County. Even after Claire was born, she was not a stranger to the college campus because many days I had to take her along when I taught classes. She was not any trouble. The only problem she caused was just to select which girl or woman who had begged to have the privilege of taking care of her while I was busy in front of the class. One of my students included Caity's and Mere's 5th grade teacher, Angela Bittinger Rush, and Shelia Bender Miller, now the principal at Accident Elementary School. You would think after 18 years of preparation for this milestone event I would be more prepared emotionally. But I am not. I guess very few mothers are.

Believe it or not, Claire came home for a very quick trip on Saturday afternoon. She stopped by for only a few minutes before going up to Oakland to a girlfriend's birthday party. Still, we have to take what we can these days. As happy as I was to see her, Boo was even more happy. Claire looked so beautiful in her new pink WVU sweatshirt. Boo really does not know that her dear mistress is not just out in McHenry, but much farther away, and he will not see her everyday. Maybe it was sheer coincidence that the sun came out as soon as she walked in the door.

Heidi Hare and her foreign exchange student from Spain will also attend Courtney DeSimone's party in Oakland this evening. My siblings and I have many close friends from the southern part of the county.

I have sincere sympathy for the feeling of the thousands of mother who wave goodbye to their combat-bound sons. During World War I and II they had every reason to believe their sons would willingly defend them and their country and what it stands for in the world. This war in Iraq is a different story all together. I guess Gary Buckel tried to be funny when he told me to make sure Claire registers for the draft, which could be a real possibility for her and her two little sisters. In this war we lost our allies and the right to expect humane treatment of our troops who may get captured and be POWs.

I am very glad that Claire is college bound and not basic training. I am scared for her, as I know that even close to home colleges still have plenty of danger lurking for a young innocent girl and I wish I could be there to protect her. Good luck to all our college-bound students and the rest of the young people who will embark on their journey to adulthood this September. We will miss you, so please come back soon and often, and be safe and good while you are away. Make us more proud of you than we already are.

I recently mused about hair color in Bittinger and I realized how few red-haired natives were among Bittinger people. The only true red hair that I remember was that of Doris Cooper's younger brother, Sam Opel. Doris is really more of a strawberry blonde than a true redhead. Another of my peers was another Opel girl, June Opel, who was a NHS classmate of mine.

It seems that we have gotten plenty of precipitation since last winter, but I saw again today that Rock Lodge spring was not running. As usual, that worries me. Does that mean that our ground water supply is not as healthy as I believed? It seems very early to see so many colored leaves on our trees and also those on the ground. How fast our flowers are going away and being replaced by scary very early Autumn colored leaves! As fast as they appear they will also disappear, and everyone knows what that means: winter, snow, ice storms, etc. I would rather have lots of flowers of every color of the rainbow.
